Lewis Says He Is Not Responsible For Strike

Coal Board Told Walkout Is Just 'Resentment' of Individual Miners

By Alfred Friendly
Post Reporter

Propelled by a court order into the presence of a Federal board of inquiry, John L. Lewis yesterday told it that he was in no way responsible for the current coal strike.

He implied, in fact, it was no strike at all, but just individual acts of "resentment."

The miners, he said, received from him, in a letter of March 12, "a long delayed, much overdue report to the beneficiaries of the contract in explanation of why they were not recipients of the benefits promised them." The reference was to a pension plan which was to have been set up.

"As fast as the miners found out that they had been gold-bricked by the operators they showed their resentment that way (i. e. by quitting work) as individuals," Lewis asserted.

Questioned by Minton

His explanation came in response to a series of questions put to him by the inquiry board's chairman, Federal Circuit Judge Sherman Minton. They related to statements of Lewis, in two earlier letters to the coal mine owners, that the United Mine Workers reserved the right to take independent action because their contract had been "dishonored" by the operators.

As soon as Minton began this line of questioning, Lewis snapped decisive denials that he had taken any independent action. It was clear that Lewis, anticipating a Government injunction against the strike, wanted to put into the record that he had not called it or in any way instigated it.

Appears "Under Compulsion"

After two or three questions from Minton, Lewis took the bull by the horns. He said:

"If the purpose of your questioning is based on the premise that I conspired by my last letter (that of March 12 to the union members) to have the miners quit work, I can clarify it: You're entirely in error."

Lewis appeared before the board, as he put it, "under compulsion." Earlier in the day, Federal District Judge Edward M. Curran issued an order requiring Lewis to be present and marshals served the order on Lewis by noon. Two hours later he was at the appointed hearing room in the Interdepartmental Auditorium.

His attendance was the goal of a five-day campaign. Last Friday the board requested him to appear and he did not, promising to give an answer by Monday. On that day he wrote his refusal, saying

House Votes to Make Spain Eligible for Share of ERP; Senate Approves Aid to China

Vandenberg's Plea Spurs Action on 463-Million Measure

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

The Senate yesterday approved 463 million dollars for assistance to China over a 12-month period, including 100 million dollars for optional military aid.

Passage came by voice vote after Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (R., Mich.) called for speedy action to show "an anxious country and a distraught world how democracy can function."

He termed China "a major victim of that conspiracy of aggression which undermines the peace of the earth" and said the situation there is "touch and go."

The bill was sped to the House and later will be pooled in conference with ERP, Greek-Turkish aid and other assistance measures in the omnibus House bill. The House bill provides 570 million dollars for China over a 15-month period, including 150 million dollars for military assistance.

The Senate called up and passed its own 12-month assistance bill in a single afternoon after the Foreign Relations Committee filed a revised report editing out critical references to the Chinese Nationalist Government in the original version.

The revised report said the Nationalist government "represents our common interest" against communism. Vandenberg said critical reference in the original version,

Backs Wide Powers For Recovery Chief Over Exports to Soviet

Post Reporter

The House gave vent to its anti-Soviet feelings yesterday by voting to make Franco Spain eligible for American aid, and by giving sweeping powers to the future foreign aid administrator to control exports to Russia and its satellites.

Spain's inclusion was approved by a standing vote of 149 to 52, with almost unanimous Republican support, after 10 minutes of debate. It took the form of an amendment to the foreign aid bill by Representative Alvin O'Konski (R., Wis.), who had said on Monday that "to leave Spain out of ERP is to continue appeasement of Stalin."

Even if the House amendment survived the coming conference with the Senate—which looked highly doubtful last night—it still would not put Spain automatically into the ranks of the countries getting American help.

The amendment simply named Spain as another "participating country," provided that it "adheres to, and for so long as it remains an adherent to, a joint program for European recovery." Spain still would have to join the other western European countries presumably on their invitation, in the report and the pledges which they accepted at Paris last summer.

But the naming of Spain in the

Wallace Says Militarists Seek Power

Senators Told Communism and Russia Present No Threat to U. S.

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

Henry A. Wallace charged yesterday that the Administration preparedness policy is a screen for the militarization and political control of America.

Testifying before the Senate Armed Services Committee, the tousle-maned presidential candidate declared that Russia and communism present no danger to this Nation.

"The security of the United States," he said, "is not threatened—except from Washington."

President Truman's defense proposals, Wallace said, constitute a "program of aggression" that will lead to war. They have the double purpose of "staving off a depression" and bringing "fantastic" profits to big business, he contended.

"The real intention," he said, "is to draft all men and women for militarized labor."

Testifies for Three Hours

Wallace testified for three hours before an overflow crowd under kleig lights in the lofty, marble-walled Senate caucus room. Newsreel and television shutters clicked as he read a 6000-word statement and then was questioned by Senators.

Adoption of President Truman's recommendations for expansion of the armed services, universal military training and a stopgap draft, said the former Vice President, would produce a world arms race.

"Russia," he said, "would go all out for expansion. She'd enlarge her army as they rely on men. I don't take Russia for a model about that."

Truman Quip Ignored

Neither the witness nor any of his questioners referred to President Truman's sharp quip before a Greek-American audience Monday night that Wallace "should go to the country he loves so well and help them against his own country."

The President obliquely compared Wallace to the ancient Greek, Alcibiades, whom he said was the "greatest demagogue of all times."

Under questioning, the third party candidate first denied that Russia has "pursued a policy of aggression." Pressed by Senator Raymond Baldwin (R., Conn.) on this point, he conceded that they had "possibly here, possibly there."

Later, he declared that the United States also had been guilty of "aggression," but would not "attempt to measure one against the other."

"Artificial Crisis"

He denied that the Soviets "had taken over" Czechoslovakia, Poland, Hungary, Romania, Yugoslavia or Bulgaria. Russia had taken over the Baltic states, Lithuania, Latvia and Esthonia, he admitted, but said they were formerly Russian territory.

Attacking President Truman, Defense Secretary James Forrestal and Army, Navy and Air Force chiefs as "drum-beaters for militarism," he said they had created an "artificial crisis" to put over their aims.

The "alleged dangers" cited by Administration chiefs, Wallace said, include Russian "political ag-

$468 Federal Pay Increase Given Green Light in House; 3% D. C. Sales Tax Suggested

Flat Levy Without Exemptions Is Only Solution for Fiscal Problem, Horan Says

By Sam Stavisky
Post Reporter

A 3 per cent sales tax—without exemptions—was seen yesterday as the "only possible solution" to the District's fiscal predicament.

The statement was made by Representative Walt Horan (R., Wash.), chairman of District appropriations, at the end of the first day's hearings on the proposed District budget for fiscal 1949.

An even higher levy may be neeessary, he said.

Horan's comment came after learning that a House Civil Service Committee had recommended a $468 a year cost-of-living pay increase to Federal employes, including postal workers.

Eight Millions

An increase for civil service workers normally includes 6000 District employes under the Classification Act. A $468 a year increase for them and the 12,000 other District employes would run into eight million dollars.

News of the proposed Government pay increase reached the District appropriations hearing room just as the first day's session was breaking up, and created a mild panic.

"Now where are we going to get the money?" asked Commissioner John Russell Young. It was a rhetorical question, and he didn't expect any answer.

Only a few minutes before, the conference had been discussing the possibilities of a 2 per cent limited sales tax, requested by the Commissioners, to meet the six-million-dollar deficit anticipated in the proposed '49 budget of $101,400,000.

Departments Already Slashed

The Commissioners, in presenting the budget, pointed out they had already slashed $42,500,000 from requests of department heads. They had cut the budget all they dared, the Commissioners said. Their plea fell on sympathetic ears.

Representative Horan has already conceded that very little trimming of the budget can be expected.

He said yesterday he would concentrate the current hearings on District health and welfare activities, with continued scrutiny of the school building program.

Closed hearings will continue today.

Calls It Better Than None

Truman Signs Bill Extending U. S. Rent Controls for Year

By Murrey Marder
Post Reporter

President Truman yesterday signed legislation extending modified rent controls for another year, terming it "better than no rent control at all."

The new law, a compromise product of many Senate-House differences, becomes effective Thursday, expiring March 31, 1949.

While it revises Federal controls in many respects, basically it presents occupants of rented dwellings with the same gamble as last year—sign a voluntary long-term lease with a 15 per cent increase, or gamble against the rental area being decontrolled or the landlord winning a rent increase on hardship grounds.

It does not affect the District of Columbia, which is governed by separate rent legislation. President Truman yesterday signed another bill extending District rent controls one month to April 30, until a more permanent District law can be adopted.

Strong efforts are being made, however, to have the District law—which maintains controls over transient rooms of hotels and new construction, and does not contain the 15 per cent increase terms—follow the Federal law. The Senate District Committee will meet at 11 a. m. today in executive session to take up the one-year District rent control extension.

In signing the Federal law 36 hours before controls were due to expire, President Truman said:

"This bill does not carry out all the recommendations I have made to the Congress for stronger rent control legislation, and will not give tenants all the protection they should have during the present housing shortage.

"Nevertheless, the bill is better than no rent control at all. If I had not signed it, rent controls would have expired tomorrow midnight. As was true of the rent control bill of June, 1947, I had no choice but to sign."

A significant change from the existing law is that disputes between local rent advisory boards and the Housing Expediter will be referred to the Emergency Court of Appeals for a final ruling. This court, composed of judges assigned by the Chief Justice of the United States, was established under the price-control law of 1942.

Previously, the Housing Expediter has had the last word on removing areas from rent controls or raising the area rent levels.

Last rent advisory boards, however, now are required to be more representative of affected interests in the area and will be reexamind toward this end.

The President said that since

Subcommittee Puts O. K. on Rees Bill; Another Votes for More U. S. Personnel

By Jerry Kluttz
Post Reporter

A bill to raise most Federal salaries a flat $468 each was approved yesterday by a House subcommittee, while its Appropriations Committee okayed funds to hire several thousand new Government workers. Upward of 185,000 people here would get the pay raise.

The pay bill, written by Chairman Ed Rees of the House Civil Service Committee, would give Federal workers a temporary cost-of-living increase averaging $9 a week. It would go into effect as of today and expire July 1, 1949. It also would:

Raise the salaries of an estimated 1,300,000 people by a flat $468 a year. Included in this huge group are 800,000 employes whose salaries are fixed by the Classification Act; 450,000 postal employes, about 10,000 District government employes whose salaries are fixed by the Classification Act, and most legislative and judicial employes.

Increase by 25 cents an hour the pay of hourly and per diem employes whose jobs come under the Classification Act, and

Wouldn't Affect Ceiling

No retirement deduction would be taken from the $468 increase and the additional salary couldn't be counted toward a pension.

The bill does not:

1. Overhaul the Classification Act as proposed by the President and the Civil Service Commission. However, the subcommittee agreed to study the act and to recommend changes in it, and,

2. Break the present $10,000 ceiling on Classificaton Act salaries, and no increase could raise any salary beyond that figure.

The Rees bill is slated to be debated tomorrow by the full House committee. If approved there, as expected, Chairman Rees will ask the Rules Committee for time to bring it before the full House.

Personnel Increases

The increases in Federal personnel were approved in a new deficiency bill reported out of the House Appropriations Committee. Funds approved would bring about increases in these agencies:

Several thousand new clerks and carriers in the Postoffice Department could be hired with the 141 million dollars recommended for that department;

The Veterans Administration could either rehire, or cancel layoff notices for 3000 employees;

The State Department could hire from 600 to 700 new employes in its Voice of America division if it gets the three million dollars recommended by the committee;

The Commerce Department could hire 314 additional employes in its Office of Export Controls and to carry out the GOP voluntary anti-inflation program, just half the number it requested, and,

The Maritime Commission could hire several hundred additional employes to clean up its account-

Soviet Assails U. S. Reversal On Palestine

Middle East Oil Lies Behind Our Proposal, Gromyko Tells U. N.

Lake Success, March 30 (AP).—Russia declared today the United States wants to kill the Palestine partition project to save American oil and military interests in the Middle East.

Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, the Soviet delegate, rejected a United States proposal for a special assembly of the 57 United Nations to consider the future of Palestine.

The Russian told the Security Council there are no grounds for this session. Gromyko's stand forecast a Soviet veto which would force the United States to demand a poll of the whole membership on the question of calling a special session. Only a simple majority of the members—or 29 votes—would be needed to convene the Assembly.

Attacks Trusteeship Plan

Finally, Gromyko slapped down the United States proposal for a U. N. trusteeship for Palestine. He said the trusteeship idea was "an attempt to convert Palestine into a military - strategic base of the United States and England under the pretext of maintaining order in that country."

Gromyko did not mention the new United States plea for a truce between Jews and Arabs, which Warren R. Austin, chief United States delegate, formally put before the Council today.

Calling Palestine a pawn in a political gamble, Gromyko tore apart the last shreds of the rare U. S.-Soviet cooperative effort which put the partition plan through the U. N. Assembly last November 29.

Gromyko said full responsibility for "the killing of the decision on the partition of Palestine rests on the United States which, according to general opinion, takes care not of the just settlement of the ques-

5 Witnesses Oppose Tamm Nomination

Wire From Montana Indorses FBI Man For District Bench

Five witnesses last night urged a Senate judiciary subcommittee to reject the nomination of Edward A. Tamm to be Associate Justice of District Court.

Tamm, assistant to the FBI director, sat through the hearing with Peyton Ford, assistant to the Attorney General.

Testifying against Tamm were George E. McNeil, president of the District Bar Association; Roger Robb, a vice president of the District Bar Association; Antonio Barea, who said he was unemployed; Ira Chase Koehne and John M. Holzworth, Washington lawyers.

Indorsement From Montana

The subcommittee also received a telegram indorsing Tamm's nomination sent by Marshall Murray, presiden tof the Montana Bar Association. Tamm is a former resident of Butte, Mont., and attended the University of Montana.

Senator John S. Cooper (R., Ky.) conducted the hearing in the absence of Senator Forrest C. Donnell (R., Mo.), chairman of the subcommittee.

Cooper postponed quizzing Tamm about his admission to the Minnesota bar until Donnell could be present. He recessed the hearing and said Donnell would fix the time for the next session.

Compared to Police Chief

McNeil told the committee he was testifying under a mandate from the District Bar Association which voted to oppose Tamm on the ground that he was not qualified to be a District Court Judge.

Both McNeil and Robb questioned the argument of Tamm's sponsors that the nominee's work in the FBI was the equivalent of practicing law.

Said Robb: "If Mr. Tamm's work has qualified him for the bench,

Italy Battles Pre-Election Disorders

(From Press Dispatches)

Rome, March 30.—Widespread political disorders in the campaign for the April 18 elections today brought government action to suppress the violence.

The government tonight prohibited the wearing of any kind of uniform by an unofficial person or group between now and the period immediately after April 18; airborne troops were sent to Pantelleria to quell a riot; national police chiefs conferred in Milan tonight and alerted their forces throughout the Milan industrial area, and leaders of all parties arranged to meet tomorrow in an attempt to enforce a truce to which they had agreed earlier.

High Taxes Protested

Pantelleria, the wartime fortress isle off the Agrican coast, was the scene of a riot of 2000 taxpayers, protesting "high taxes."

Three persons were killed and 14 wounded in what Rome newspapers called a "revolt."

Stave-swinging unemployed, some 7000 strong, marched through the streets of Milan today, demanding work and relief payments. Police stood by but there was no violence.

Heavily armed mobile police concentrated in Somaglia, a town of 3000 near Milan, as a precaution when thousands of Communists marched in stormy protest against the killing of two of their fellows in a political fight there yesterday.

Streets Patrolled

At Canosa di Puglia, near Bari in southern Italy, police also patrolled the streets after a political riot in which seven persons were injured.

Mladen Ivekovic, Yugoslav Minister to Italy, denied at a news conference that Yugoslavia had promised the return of Trieste to Italy if Communists win the election.

American authorities will hand Italy's Treasury Ministry a $4,500,000 check Friday in payment for work by Italian prisoners of war in cooperation with United States armed forces.

'Sensible' Dog Is Freed in Hog Killings

Sandy, a dog which has no pedigree but does have "common sense," yesterday was freed by the Prince George's County commissioners in the killing of two hogs.

The tan and white mongrel, owned by David Dudley of Beltsville, Md., was on trial for his life—or the $25 claim filed for the two dead hogs.

"My dog is not a pedigreed dog," Dudley told the commissioners. "But he has common sense—enough to know what is going on in the neighborhood."

Dudley said Sandy's barking aroused him about 1:10 a. m. the day Neighbor Jesse Curry's two hogs were killed. "Then I heard pigs squealing at the Curry pen and from the barking, there must have been at least three dogs there—but my dog didn't go over.

"My dog wouldn't kill livestock. If he did I wouldn't want him around."

Fervently interested in Sandy's fate were Dudley's two young children, John, 7, and Mary, 4, but they did not testify.

An older son, Ralph, 18, corroborated his father's statements that Curry had told him earlier that he did not know whose dog killed the hogs.

Dudley's attorney, J. Frank Lillard, sr., told the Commissioners the whole case should be a civil action—either they should pay the claim and sue Dudley or that Curry should bring the suit for the $25 claim.

The Commissioner's counsel, Waldo Burnside, recommended Sandy's freedom, suggesting a civil action if proof could be found that the Dudley dog killed the hogs.

They were slain in a pen February 25. Police took Sandy to the University of Maryland, where it has been kept at the animal husbanry department pending trial.

Mrs. Mickey Rooney To Sue for Divorce

Hollywood, March 30 (AP).—Mrs. Mickey Rooney says she is going to file suit against her freckled young actor husband because two trial separations didn't "work out."

Mrs. Rooney, the former Betty Jane Rase, Birmingham, Ala., beauty, said she has retained an attorney and "we are trying to work out details of the settlement."

They are parents of Mickey, 2, and Timmy, a year old.

Week Added To Red Cross Drive Here

Red Cross campaign volunteers yesterday extended their Washington area drive another week as contributions fell $58,728 short of the $1,080,000 goal.

Yesterday's luncheon meeting at the United States Chamber of Commerce Building, scheduled as the last of the campaign, brought $90,363 in new subscriptions. The total to date, $1,021,272, represents 94.56 per cent of the quota.

A "victory" report meeting will be held at 12:30 p. m. next Tuesday.

The only unit in the campaign to exceed its quota thus far is the residential division, with 12,693 gifts reported totaling $110,681, or 131.76 per cent of its goal. Other percentage totals are: Government, 90.6 per cent; general business, 90 per cent; city division, 91.29 per cent; Alexandria, 95 per cent; Arlington, 85.05 per cent; Fairfax County, 70.82 per cent; Montgomery County, 90.64 per cent, and Prince Georges County, 59.84 per cent. Collections in booths located at public buildings amount to 44 per cent of quota.

April 9 Closing Date in Student Art Contest

Ten days remain in The Washington Post's student calendar art contest, recently extended through April 9. All junior and senior high school students in the Washington area are eligible to enter. $25 bonds will be awarded for the 12 paintings judged best, and the four paintings chosen from this group for use on The Post's 1949 calendar will earn an additional $25 bond each.

Rules for entry can be learned from school art teachers or by calling NA. 4200, extension 207.

Londoners See Maternity Sign In Princess' Dress

London, March 30 (U.P.).—Fashion experts today described Princess Elizabeth's new spring outfit as a ballerina suit, but ordinary Londoners believed it was a maternity suit.

Pictures of the Princess in the newspapers today showed her wearing a ballerina skirt and a short jacket pinched in sharply at the waist. The jacket seemed susceptible of easy alteration. The hemline of the skirt was about 13 inches from the floor. The skirt definitely was not the decreed ballet length.

Noticing the billowing skirt, Londoners were inclined to connect its appearance with rumors the Princess, who married Prince Philip last November 20, was expecting a baby in October.

Philip started a six-month course today at the Royal Naval College at Greenwich.

Justice Curran Is Longtime Advocate Of Legal Reforms for District

Associate Justice Edward M. Curran of District Court, who made John L. Lewis come to heel yesterday has long been an advocate of many legal reforms.

JUSTICE E. M. CURRAN

As a Municipal Court judge, in 1939, he proposed that the District set up a behavior clinic to help judges deal with abnormal law violators.

"If a sentencing judge's duty and responsibility begins and ends with reading the portentious penal clauses of a statute that opens and shuts prison doors—then an automaton could do his work," he remarked at that time.

Curran's public career in Washington has seen him successively as an assistant corporation counsel, a Municipal Court judge, United States Attorney for the District and—finally—a District Court justice.

Sees District as Model

As a judge, he has pointed out that Washington should "be a model for the country, clean and free from lawlessness. Instead it stands forth conspicuously as a crime center."

As prosecutor he observed that his main job was "to reduce the incidence of crime here to an absolute minimum."

As prosecutor he obtained the conviction of Mrs. Anne Collins in a widely publicized baby broker case. In capital cases he prosecuted Jarvis Catoe, Roland J. Lindsay, James R. McKenzie and others.

Silver-haired, dapper, possessed of the inherent Irish gift of oratory and still more than a month shy of his forty-fifth birthday, Justice Curran still insists he doesn't know how he became involved in the study of law, but he admits it has been "a vital part of a happy life."

A wife, four children and a home at 6607 Western ave. nw., are other ingredients of that happy life.

Native of Maine

Justice Curran (a native of Banbor, Me.) pot an A. B. degree at the University of Maine, then came to Washington and received his law degree at Catholic University in 1927.

After six years of private law practice here, he was named an Assistant Corporation Counsel in 1934. June of that year he got married.

In 1936 the late President Roosevelt named him to succeed Judge Gus A. Schuldt on the Municipal Court bench.

While a judge, he enrolled at Georgetown University for a degree of doctor of judicial science (he now teaches there), told parents they were mainly responsible for juvenile delinquency, got hauled off to the stationhouse by a subsequently red-faced patrolman for double parking and received the Junior Board of Commerce award for distinuished service.

He was appointed United States attorney here in 1940 and in February, 1947, was confirmed by the Senate as a District Court justice.

Jewish State Volunteers Face Passport Refusal

By The Associated Press

A campaign to recruit Americans to fight for a Jewish state in Palestine ran up against a government policy of not issuing passports to citizens going abroad to do battle.

Coal Strike Idles 15,000 C. & O. Workers

Cleveland, March 30 (U.P.).—President Robert J. Bowman of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway said today that the line has laid off about 15,000 workers because of the coal strike and shipments for March will be cut about 25 per cent.

Bowman said March gross income will be almost 10 per cent below March of 1947, but added the road would remain in the black because "we acted very quickly this time and took drastic action in cutting expenses" when the coal strike started.

Roy Roberts Says Friend Ike Won't Run

Kansas City, March 30 (AP).—Roy A. Roberts, president of the Kansas City Star, said today he was sure his friend, General Dwight D. Eisenhower, was not going to accept a presidential nomination from either the Republican or Democratic party.

"Of course General Ike Eisenhower is not going to take a Democratic nomination for the presidency or any other nomination," Roberts reported in a signed article in the Star today.

"That's final," Roberts wrote. "He meant what he said in his letter to the American people explaining why he desired his name withdrawn from the presidential picture. He still means it."

Franklin D. Roosevelt, jr., and his older brother, Elliott, last Friday called upon Eisenhower to seek the Democratic presidential nomination.

Roberts said Eisenhower "feels he still has a contribution to make to his country. But that contribution is not to salvage either political party."

"He feels the contribution can best be made in private life from such a forum as the presidency of Columbia University rather than the White House."

Murray to Support 'Ike,' CIO Aide Says

New York, March 30 (AP).—CIO President Philip Murray will declare himself in favor of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for President "within a few days," an official of the New York State CIO Council said today.

The official, who didn't want to be quoted by name, made the statement as the steering committee of the New York CIO Political Action Committee met at State CIO offices here.

Victor Riesel, in his column "Inside Labor" in the New York Post and Home News, said today Murray had sent his ace lieutenant, Van Bittner, to Pennsylvania to tell the State's top Democratic leaders that Murray would come out for Eisenhower.

Refusal Can't Stop 'Draft,' Sponsor Says

New York, March 29 (AP).—A spokesman for the "draft Eisenhower movement" said tonight that an Army statement that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower would not accept the Democratic presidential nomination could not stop a "people's draft."

Daniel James, secretary of the group which seeks the general's nomination on the Democratic ticket, said Eisenhower can "speak for himself, and will at the proper time."

"This is a people's draft, not a political maneuver. The response has already reached such proportions that no one can halt it. General Eisenhower will respond to it because of his sense of duty to his country."

James' statement was in reply to an announcement by Maj. Gen. Floyd L. Parks, Army information chief, that Eisenhower's repudiation of presidential aspirations applied to "Democrats as well as Republicans."

MacArthur Sponsors In Md. Have 11 Slates

Baltimore, March 30 (AP).—MacArthur-for-President sponsors announced today they have lined up 11 slates of MacArthur-pledged delegates for the Republican State convention.

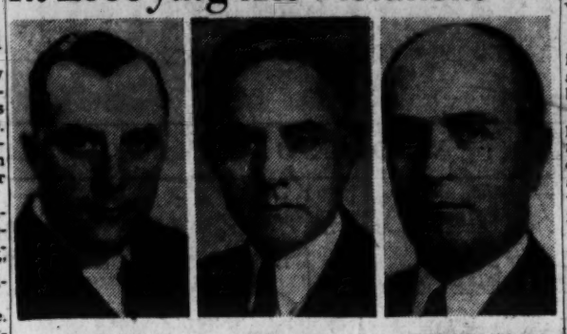
Tim Bright, who has been acting as cochairman of MacArthur headquarters in Baltimore, also announced that State Senator Harry T. Phoebus, Somerset County Republican, has agreed to head a committee to coordinate activities in Maryland's 23 counties.

The delegate slates are for all six legislative districts in Baltimore and five of the counties.

Delegates to the State convention are elected at the party primaries May 3. The State convention, in turn, elects delegates to the Republican Nation Convention in Philadelphia.

Phoebus is a long-time Eastern Shore Republican leader.

Savings, Loan League Indicted In Lobbying Act Violations



MORTON BODFISH — HORACE RUSSELL — ABNER H. FERGUSON

Officials of indicted organizations

A Federal grand jury here yesterday indicted the United States Savings and Loan League, of Chicago and this city, for violations of the Federal Lobbying Act.

The indictment, first of its kind since passage of the lobby registration act, was returned in District Court before Associate Justice Edward M. Curran.

It charged the league, an organization representing 3600 savings and loan associations and cooperative banks, with "unlawfully, willfully and knowingly" failing to register and to file statements as required by the lobby law of August 2, 1946.

League Denies Law-Breaking

From its local office here in the National Press Building, the league issued the following statement on the indictment:

"At no time in its 56-year history has the league engaged in any activities that could conceivably be construed as unlawful or not in keeping with the dignity and respect of typical trade association work.

"League officials now are considering the charges made by the Government and will prepare a detailed statement for publication as soon as possible after they have completed their study."

The office manager and sole employe here said the statement came from Morton Bodfish, executive head of the league and a registered lobbyist.

The grand jury, in three indictment counts, said the "principal purpose" of the league "has been to aid in the accomplishment of passage of legisltaion by Congress beneficial to league members (whose total assets, it was said, comprise nine billion dollars)."

The league, said the indictment, "solicited, collected and received money for these purposes," and "did not file a statement with the House in October, 1946, as required by law."

The Federal Lobby Act requires lobbyists and lobbying organizations to register with the clerk of the House of Representatives, and to file statements with the clerk disclosing its receipts and expenditures of its activities to influence legislation.

Declining to discuss the particular activities of the League which led to the indictment, U. S. Attorney General Tom C. Clark said that among legislative matters that "interested" the league are bills relating to housing, the consolidation of housing and home finance agencies of the Government, real estate mortgage lending business, and the postal savings system.

3 Registered as Lobbyists

Two other employes of the league, besides Bodfish, are registered lobbyists, it was said. These are Horace Russell, general counsel, of Chicago, and Abner Ferguson, the league's Washington counsel. Russell is the former counsel here for the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, and Ferguson formerly served for six years as Federal Housing administrator.

The act provides penalties to violators of fines as high as $5000, plus a three-year ban on appearances before congressional committees, or other lobbying activities.

Branch Quits Airline Case, Hits Charge of Bias

Harllee Branch withdrew yesterday from participation in Colonial Airlines route applications before the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Branch announced his decision in reply to the airlines' motion that he disqualify himself for bias. He denounced the motion as "either wholly untrue or grossly misleading." The airline, in two cases, is seeking a New York to Washington route.

Branch has been a CAB member since the board was created in 1938. He is retiring next month. His five-page reply to the Colonial motion said of his decision to withdraw:

"It is made in accordance with the principle laid down by the Supreme Court of the United States that in cases of such personal attack, one may, 'without flinching from his duty' and for reasons more important than one's natural desire to withstand an unjustified and untruthful assault upon his good name, step aside and leave the decision in a particular matter to his colleagues."

Ex-Convict on Trial As Hypnotist-Rapist

Martinez, Calif., March 30 (AP).—A paroled former convict went to trial today on a charge he hypnotized and then raped a 16-year-old girl who was in his Sunday school class.

Donald E. Hickok, 38, came to Richmond two years ago, became a physio-therapist and taught a Sunday school class. Behind him were two years served in San Quentin for manslaughter, involving an abortion.

Today a court began selecting a jury to try him on an assault charge. The State will seek to prove that he hypnotized two girls of his Sunday school class when they came to his Richmond office, then raped one of them.

ing and inventory backlog. Only a few of the Maritime jobs would be here.

VA either has abolished or planned to abolish about 8500 administrative jobs throughout the country. Chairman Edith Rogers and other members of Congress went before the committee to urge new funds to prevent the layoffs.

General Gray, the VA boss, said only 3000 of the 8500 were actually needed to prevent a reduction in service to veterans. The committee accepted his judgment and okayed three million dollars to keep them on the job. Also, it gave Gray the discretion to choose which of the 3000 should be retained.

Actual layoffs and 30-day notices have gone out to only 250 VA employes here. It was estimated last night that upward of 100 will be recalled if the three million dollars is finally approved.

Gray told the committee that the budget estimate would permit VA to hire 14,000 additional employes in hospitals after July 1.

In its report, the committee revealed it is making a thorough inquiry of the accounting system used by the Government Printing Office.

Returning to the pay story, the Senate Civil Service Committee will meet this afternoon to discuss the Flanders bill. This bill would give postal employes a flat $500 each and it would give the Classification Act employes an average increase of only $300.

Legislative and judicial employes would get a flat $300 raise, or 15 per cent, whichever is smaller.

The House committee yesterday emphatically rejected a suggestion that postal employes be given a larger pay raise than other Federal workers. Several committee members commented that the cost of living had affected Federal workers equally and that it would be discrimination to favor one group over the other.

Ford asked Robb whether he did not know about a number of lawyers who had stepped out of FBI jobs into successful law careers.

Robb said he knew of none who had done so immediately, although many had eventually built up successful law practices.

Complaints on Rackets

Barea complained to the subcommittee about numbers and narcotics rackets here. He said he had reported incidents to Representative J. Parnell Thomas, chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

Cooper said he should take those matters up with Thomas or the police.

Koehne, who defended several persons in the wartime sedition case, protested that the FBI had tapped his telephones and had violated the rights of a client. He said he was opposed to Tamm's nomination for "constitutional reasons."

Holzworth protested refusal of Justice Department officials, including Ford and Tamm, to turn over to him records he said were needed for a habeas corpus action to get Thomas Jordon out of Lorton where he is serving a life sentence as a result of the Garden T-Shoppe murder, in 1931.

Ford said Tamm had no authority to give out the Justice Department files on the Jordon case. He said that was in the discretion of the Department of Justice.

rent control "was weakened" last June rents have risen more than six per cent, and again made a plea that "only through substantial additions to the supply of rental housing, especially in the low and medium price range, can the need for rent control be eliminated."

He pointed out that the law gives Housing Expeditor Tighe E. Woods a power he did not have under the old law, authority to protect tenants against illegal evictions.

The new law ends controls over construction of amusement and recreation buildings, rents on trailers or trailer courts, and non-housekeeping rooms in private homes having no more than two roomers.

It authorizes rent increases up to 15 per cent where landlords and tenants sign "voluntary" agreements extending through December 31, 1949, but such leases must be signed before December 31, 1948.

Landlords, under the new law, are required to give 60 days' eviction notice, except for nonpayment of rent or creation of a nuisance.

Petition to Force Vote on Oleo Tax Needs 44 Signers

A move to force a House vote on a bill to repeal the oleomargarine tax had the support yesterday of 174 House members. To be successful it needs 44 more supporters.

The House Agriculture Committee recently voted to defer action on the tax repeal proposals. But repeal sponsors promptly circulated a discharge petition which, if signed by 218 House members, would bring the matter to the House floor immediately.

"While the going may be tougher from here on," one of the sponsors said, "we believe we can get the 218 votes we need."

Reds Urge Finish Fight On Burmese Regime

Rangoon, Burma, March 30 (AP).—The Communist White Flag Party urged today a fight to the finish against the regime of Premier Thakin Nu.

Political tension heightened as Premier Thakin Nu ordered police to arrest on sight Thakin Than Tun, fugitive leader of the White Flag Party.

The Premier also ordered disarmament of the peoples' volunteer organization, formed by the anti-Fascist Peoples Freedom League, the government party, last year when Burma was bargaining with the British for independence.

The cabinet was summoned into an emergency meeting to consider the situation.

Lewis Denies Coal Strike Responsibility that two of the three board members were prejudiced and that the Taft-Hartley Act, under which he was summoned, did not apply.

Minton then issued a subpena, which Lewis ignored. Thereupon, on Monday afternoon, the District Court commanded him to appear yesterday morning to show cause why he should not be forced to appear at the board hearing.

Lewis' lawyers went to court to urge a postponement. Judge Curran was unimpressed by their argument. In a matter of minutes he issued an order for Lewis to be before the board at 2 p. m., under penalty of a $5000 fine and a year in jail.

Lewis arrived in company of at least a dozen union officials and lawyers. He told his story in response to Minton's questions, and in an hour was through.

The board was anxious to force his appearance and obtain his statement. For under the law it is required to submit in its report to the President "each party's statement of its position."

Law Requires Report

The report, which the board will probably complete and send to the White House today, is a requisite first step under the Taft-Hartley Act to the issuance of an injunction. There was some concern that if Lewis had not given his statement of position, even though he was afforded the opportunity, he might later contest the anticipated injunction on grounds that it was issued without the required preceding steps.

It is taken for granted that the President will authorize the Attorney General this week to seek an injunction against the strike. It is also taken for granted that Lewis will contest it.

The problem is: whom to enjoin? Lewis, as his testimony yesterday made clear, will insist that he cannot be the target of an injunction because he called no strike.

Facts Only to Be Given

Under the law, the board's report may not contain any recommendations, and will probably include facts only "with respect to the dispute"—not any conclusion about who called the strike or who is responsible for it.

Much of Lewis' testimony yesterday was merely a restatement of the case he made when he sent his March 12 letter to the miners. His principal contentions:

1. The contract between the union and the owners covers "all" union members who mine coal, now or in the past. Therefore, pensions set up under that contract should apply to miners who have retired in past years.

2. These previously retired miners are the ones who need the pensions most—the men "whom the mines mangled and cast aside." This question of eligibility is the heart of the controversy, and the basis of the dispute between Lewis and the former third, neutral trustee, Thomas E. Murray.

3. Murray's proposed plan, which would have included previously retired miners only if there was enough money left over after pensions to presently employed, overage miners, had the proper priorities reversed.

4. Ezra Van Horn, the trustee on the pension fund representing the operators, opposed any sort of a pension plan. He is "a no-plan man" and the "hired hand" of the operators. His contention that Lewis' proposed plan was illegal under the new labor law was "merely an afterthought—an idea handed to him by some lawyer at the Shoreham Hotel."

5. It is meaningless to harp on reports that claim Lewis' plan was "actuarially unsound." The plan doesn't have to be "sound" in that sense, for it is a pay-as-you-go affair, supported each year by royalty payments. If the benefits were about to exceed the amount in the fund, the trustees would have to reduce the benefits. The fund would never be liable for payments in excess of its assets.

6. Lewis sought to resolve the dispute by collective bargaining, in writing letters to the operators, but they refused to bargain.

What about the fact that the letters contained threats of "independent action" by the miners, Minton asked.

The miners reserved that right, Lewis insisted, but he, Lewis never took any independent action.

"There is now an interruption of coal production," Minton observed. "What caused it?"

"It had nothing to do with my letters," Lewis said.

Later, Minton remarked that "it all shapes up to a dispute between you and Van Horn."

For the first and only time, Lewis grinned broadly. "Oh, but yes," he said. And with that, the hearing closed.

Wall Street Pickets Battle With Police

Violence Flares In Stock Exchange Strike

Most of 'Strikers' Arrested Turn Out To Be Seamen

New York, March 30 (AP).—Brief but bitter battling between police and pickets broke out today in Wall Street—the world's most moneyed thoroughfare.

The spectacular scrapping opened the second day of a strike of AFL Financial Workers against the New York Stock and Curb Exchanges.

It was fought at the very doors of the Stock Exchange as striking financial workers and husky AFL seamen who swelled their picket lines tried to block the main entrance of the building when brokers arrived to begin business. The technique was to throw themselves on the ground across the entrance.

Police Use Clubs

Police guards met them with clubs swinging.

Pickets who stretched themselves out on the sidewalk were hauled to their feet. Policemen were knocked down. Women screamed.

Clothing was torn. There were several minor injuries. Two men suffered fractured arms. A detective was sent to a hospital, his head bleeding.

Calls went in for riot squads and ambulances. Wall Street was roped off. Private phones in nearby stores were allocated for police emergency use only.

In six minutes it was all over.

Exchanges Open on Time

The exchanges opened for business on the dot of 10 a. m. The Stock Exchange had a million-share day, compared with 760,000 shares yesterday, the first of the strike. Prices were higher and brokers said operations were smoother than yesterday.

It was the bitter battle that was talked of most as business went along normally for the most part. The issues of wages and union security that resulted in the strike were forgotten momentarily.

After the fighting, 43 men and two women had been carted off to the Old Slip police station. Most of them were charged with disorderly conduct. Six, identified as seamen by police, were accused of assault. All pleaded innocent. Some were released in bail and others paroled.

Arrested Pickets Mostly Seamen

A police lieutenant said that most of the arrested pickets were members of AFL seamen's unions—the Seafarers International and the Sailors Union of the Pacific.

The police took no chances on a recurrence. More than 100 officers and plain clothesmen were concentrated in the area.

Mounted police, their horses in close formation, stood at Broad and Wall sts. Police emergency trucks stood at either corner of the J. P. Morgan banking house.

A rumored noon-time demonstration failed to materialize. Pickets confined their afternoon activities to shouting insults at those going into the exchange but were otherwise orderly.

U. S. Budget Surplus Already Tops Estimate

The Government's budget surplus already has climbed nearly one million dollars higher than President Truman estimated it would go by the end of this fiscal year June 30.

The surplus—the excess of income over Government spending—stood at $7,483,588,953.90 yesterday. Mr. Truman's January estimate for the full fiscal year was $7,482,610,986.

Congressional estimates of the surplus have been as high as nine billion dollars.

150 Million More Favored for Atom Work

The House Appropriation Committee yesterday recommended 150 million dollars in additional contract authority for the Atomic Energy Commission and indorsed stepped-up atomic research programs.

The extra contract authority was wrapped up in a $332,407,782 deficiency bill to make up the deficits of various Federal agencies.

The House group called on the commission to "move forward with all possible speed in its research programs, both in the wartime and peacetime uses of the newly discovered secrets."

Lillienthal Cites Urging

Published hearings released with the report quoted Chairman David E. Lillienthal of the Atomic Energy Commission as saying:

"We have to assume, in the desperate state the world is in, that it is our job to push ahead as fast as possible, not knowing how much time there is left. That is our assumption here."

Lilienthal urged the committee "that unless we are completely wrong about the sense of urgency, to do everything in your conscience and judgment you can not to introduce an element of uncertainty as to the future."

The committee didn't. It approved the commission's full request. The new contract authority brought to $659,091,863 the amount it will have at its disposal this year.

Military Interest Stressed

Carroll L. Wilson, general manager of the commission, told the group most of the new money "will be directed toward insuring the continuity of production of fissionable materials, the fabrication of these into weapons, and the conduct of research and development."

Wilson said the military interest "goes far beyond atomic bombs" but did not elaborate.

The $332,407,782 in the bill for other Federal agencies, however, was $66,311,478 below what the President recommended. The Postoffice Department, the Maritime Commission and Air Force estimates for new uniforms took much of the cut.

"Voice" Funds Cut

The United States Information and Education Exchange program, which broadcasts "Voice of America," received only three million dollars of a Presidential request

Seven million dollars was trimmed for for $5,120,000.

The 150-million-dollar Army request for Government and relief in Germany, Japan and Korea, the committee saying the smaller figure should suffice.

The Veterans Administration, however, received three million dollars the President had not recommended. This would prevent release of about 3000 VA employes.

For the Interior Department to construct a road the Army said was militarily important, between Seward and Anchorage, Alaska, the committee approved $7,370,000 in cash and four million dollars in contract authority.

British Primate Urges West Military Alliance

Copyright, 1948, N. Y. Herald Tribune

London, March 30—The Archbishop of York, the Most Rev. Dr. Cyril F. Garbett, in a mesage published tonight says the world has now divided "into two great camps" and urges formation for "a close military alliance" of the nations of the west to oppose Russia and her fellow members of the other camp.

Dr. Garbett is Primate of England, and a leader of the Church of England.

Prove Democracy Is Here To Stay, Is Stimson Formula

By The Associated Press

Henry L. Stimson believes America's best answer to communism is to prove that the democratic way of life is here to stay, growing higher and more stable as the years pass.

The former Secretary of State and of War says he doesn't expect Russia to start a war. He writes in the Ladies Home Journal that if the democratic philosophy wins out in the non-Communist nations the Russian leaders will have to either "change their minds or lose their jobs."

To help along the success of democratic nations, he counsels quick American aid to Europe and belief that the United States is now committed to a role of world leadership.

This Stimson discussion of Russia-versus-western democracies is the last excerpt from his book, "On Active Duty," which has been appearing serially.

Stimson expresses some uncertainty over his own prescription. He says it may not be possible to change Russian minds, because "dictators do not change easily."

He adds: "Rather than to be persuaded of their error, the Soviet leaders might in desperation resort to war, and against that possibility we have to guard by maintaining our present military advantages."

He says that in the final analysis he believes only a world government will keep a lasting peace: "Lasting peace . . . cannot be achieved until the world finds a way toward the necessary government of the whole."

He traces in this article his own reactions to Russian foreign policy. He says that from Tehran (December, 1943) to Potsdam (July, 1945), American policy was governed by eagerness to get Russia into the Pacific war.

But midway of Potsdam the American delegation, led by President Truman, got the news that a test had proved the atom bomb a success. From then on the Americans thought Russia's entry into the Pacific war "pointless."

Mr. Truman dropped the subject. But Stalin kept pressing for bases outside the so-called Russian sphere and demanded recognition of Kremlin control of Central Europe.

Stimson writes he was "deeply disturbed" at Potsdam by his first direct observation of the Russian police state in action." Later, in a memo to the President, he wrote: "The present state of Russia, if continued without change, would very possible in the end produce a war."

He sought some formula that would bring Russian agreement on the use of atomic energy for a better life than for death. He was impressed by the 1936 Russian constitution, and wondered, in a memo to the President, whether American know-how on the atom bomb could be used to win changes in the Russians, "frightful police state" along the lines of the Russian 1936 constitution.

But Averell Harriman, then Ambassador to Moscow, told him it was "hopeless," that the "Russians would consider any attempt to bargain for freedom in Russia as a plainly hostile move."

On September 11, 1945, Stimson urged Truman to seek direct talks with the Russians on control of the atom bomb. He says he felt direct talks with the Russians (after consultation with the British) was the best way for the United States to win agreement on world control of atomic energy.

He wrote: "Action of any international group of nations, including many small nations who have not demonstrated their potential power or responsibility in this war, would not, in my opinion, be taken seriously by the Soviets."

Actually, a few months later, the United Nations set up a 12-nation commission to plan international control of atomic energy. It has still not arrived at any major decisions.

Stilwell Diary Hits Chiang, Roosevelt

Papers Indicate His Belief in 1944 Reds Had More to Offer the Chinese

The late General Joseph W. Stilwell, wartime American commander in China, is offering post-humorous testimony against the regime of Chinese Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

Stilwell

Publication of a collection of Stilwell private papers, diaries, and letters to his wife, indicate that in 1944, at least, this country's chief representative in China thought the Chinese Communists offered the people a better deal than the Nationalist Government.

"Under Chiang Kai-shek," he wrote, "they (the Chinese) . . . may expect greed corruption, favoritism, more taxes, a ruined currency, terrible waste of life, callous disregard for all the rights of men."

On the other hand, he said, Chiang, "is bewildered by the spread of Communist influence. He can't see that the mass of Chinese people welcome the Reds as being the only visible hope of relief from crushing taxation, the abuses of the Armt and Tai Lal's Gestapo."

The memoranda, edited by Theodore White, a student of Chinese affairs and a close friend of Stilwell, is being printed in a condensed version of 40,000 words in April's Ladies Home Journal.

The articles tells in bitter words the struggles, disappointments and defeats Stilwell experienced in China—ending with his recall in 1944. They reveal that from the day he was called from the shelter of his California home to take over a prominent war role, he kept an open eye at all times for double-dealing and shabby treatment not only from America's allies, but also from officials at home.

On February 2, 1942—less than two months after Pearl Harbor, Stilwell records a visit at the White House to discuss his war assignment. After 20 minutes with President Roosevelt, he entered in his diary:

"Just a Lot of Wind"

"FDR very pleasant, and very unimpressive. As if I were a constituent to see him. Rambled on about his idea of the war: 'A 28,000-front is my conception, etc, etc. The real strategy is to fight them all.' Just a lot of wind.

"After I had enough, I broke in and asked him if he had a message for Chiang Kai-shek. He very obviously had not and talked for five minutes hunting around for something world-shaking to say.

"Finally he had it—'tell him we are in this for keeps, and we intend to keep at it until China gets back all her lost territory.'

"Then he went on to say he thought it best for Madame Chiang not to come here, as invited by some organization or other. It would be too much like a lecture tour of women's clubs. He's right on that. He was cordial and pleasant—and frothy."

Dim View of High Officers

Also early in his diary he recorded that General Marshall had a dim idea of the value of some of America's high Army officers. He quotes Marshall on January 21, 1942: "It's hard as hell to find anybody in our high command who's worth a damn. There are plenty of good young ones, but you have to reach too far down."

But mainly Stilwell's diatribes were directed at Chiang to whom, after a few months in China, he generally referred as "The Peanut." Once he called him "The Rattlesnake," and at another time used a term that The Ladies Home Journal considered unprintable.

Stilwell's comparison between the Chiang regime and the Communists was at a time when he was trying to get Chiang to correlate the war efforts of the two armies. Instead of fighting the Japs with all their vigor, at that time, the two forces were building up to the present full-blown Civil War.

To an Associated Press writer, White, Stillwell's editor, said that if the general were alive today he probably would counsel the American Government to adopt a hands-off policy towards China now.

Withdrawn Under Threat

The diaries confirm that Stillwell was withdrawn by President Roosevelt under Chiang's threat to pull out of the war—but they also indicate that Chiang was tipped off that Mr. Roosevelt would order the recall if asked.

Stillwell's strongest statement against Roosevelt followed a conference with FDR, Churchill and other Allied leaders in Washington in May, 1943. War Department heads held that ground troops to defend air bases in China should be trained and sent over before stronger air forces were sent out. Churchill disagreed, and Roosevelt joined with Churchill.

"The inevitable conclusion was that Churchill has Roosevelt in his pocket," Stilwell wrote. "That they are looking for an easy way, a short cut for England."

He added that with the "Limeys" not interested in the Asiatic War and "with the President hypnotized, they (the British) are sitting pretty."

He complained that Roosevelt wouldn't "let me speak my piece." He found Marshall and War Secretary Henry L. Stimson "understanding," and the "War Department O. K."

"Even the air was a bit fed up on Chennault," he remarked, referring to the Army Air Forces chief in China. He then concluded with this choice bit of sarcasm, directed towards Roosevelt:

"But what's the use when the world's greatest strategist is against you?"

Preparedness Survey Covers 11,000 Industrial Plants

A major first step toward industrial preparedness was announced yesterday by the Armed Services.

Chairman Thomas J. Hargrave of the Munitions Board said that a nationwide survey covering some 11,000 plants is being launched to speed their switch from peace to war production in an emergency.

Representatives of the board will visit the plants to find out what military equipment they could best turn out in wartime and set up tentative production schedules.

An important feature of the new plan, he said, will be to allocate various plants between the Army, Navy and Air Force. This is to prevent a repetition of the wartime practice of the various services competing with each other.

The present survey of 11,000 plants, will be followed by similar contacts with another 11,000 to 15,000 industrial facilities. Hargrave said.

The Munitions Board will turn its findings over to the National Security Resources Board, which has the over-all job of planning the entire Nation's wartime mobilization, manpower and industry included.

The Security Resources Board will use the Munition's Board's conclusions in rationing plant capacity for military production.

Hargrave said the survey will wind up eventually in a registration of the productive capacity of 90 per cent of the Nation's industry. It will be the basis for a new industrial preparedness plan.

If war came today, the Nation would have to use the World War II production system because no new one has been developed.

Best Was Well Paid By Nazis, U. S. Charges

Boston, March 30 (AP). — The Government charged today that Robert H. Best, 51, on trial for treason, was paid 1500 reichsmarks a month—about $750—for beaming psychological warfare over Radio Berlin to disrupt American morale.

Special Assistant to the Attorney General Tom de Wolfe told a Federal Court jury the Government would seek to prove by two witnesses for each that Best committed 13 overt acts of treason "to further the war effort of Adolf Hitler."

Swedish Police Disperse Mob of 5000 Rioters

Swedish police with sabers broke up a rioting mob of 5000 persons in South Stockholm last night, the third mysterious riot in four days. Fifty-six persons have been arrested and six hospitalized.

Weekend broadcasts from Moscow, charged Sweden with a "war psychosis" and said she was preparing to offer bomber bases to the United States in case of war.

Vera Cruz Crash Kills 15

Wallace Hits U. S. Militarists

gression" and "Communist infiltration" in Europe and Asia.

"These phrases confuse the realities of a world in transition," he added. "President Truman and the bi-partisan supporters of his anti-Communist crusade are saying in effect that American security is threatened by the endeavors of backward countries to lift themselves from feudalism."

What actually is happening is that "the peoples of the world are one the march toward a more abundant life," Wallace declared.

Only "special interests" and "entrenched privileges of international big business" are threatened by this world movement, he said.

Much of Wallace's prepared statement was devoted to dire forecasts of what would follow adoption of the Administration's preparedness program. He predicted oppression of labor, Government control of the press and radio and dictation to school teachers of what they can teach.

When he had finished reading his prepared statement, Senator Russell asked him what he thought would happen to a political leader in Russia who criticized Government policies like he had. Wallace conceded he'd be shot or sent to Siberia.

Would "Talk" With Stalin

The Third Party candidate outlined to the committee what he though the Administration should do in the present world situation. He proposed pulling out of Turkey, Greece and the Mediterranean, and having a "personal" talk with Stalin.

"Do you think anyone in the United States could come to an agreement with him except you," Wallace was asked.

"I think I'd be very helpful," was his reply.

Wallace said he did not believe Russia would move into Western Europe, even Western Germany if we would "pull out of Europe." The Soviets would be "very foolish to do so," he declared.

Defense Ideas Outlined

In his statement and under questioning, Wallace outlined what sort of defense forces he favored for the United States. He advocated a "scientific military establishment," backed by "our incomparable industrial power" and "the millions of trained reserves who fought in World War II." The latter, he declared, form a reserve "that will be available for at least 10 more years."

Boeing B-29 Plant Visited by Generals

Wichita, Kans., March 30 (AP).—Generals shuttled in and out by air today as Boeing Airplane sought more skilled workers for an urgent B-29 modernization program.

Maj. Gen. F. M. Hopkins, jr., chief of the industrial mobilization division, Air Material Command, Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio, flew in today with staff members.

After a quick inspection trip over Boeing facilities including Plant II—where B-29s were built in the recent war—his plane departed.

Similar quick visits were made Monday by Maj. Gen. Fred S. Borum, commanding the Oklahoma City air Materiel area, and by Maj. Gen. A. R. Crawford of the Air Material Command, Wright Field.

Boeing officials said the generals' visits were to "help set up" the B-29 project.

They earlier announced it will hire more than 1000 skilled workers, and will reactivate Plant II, on standby basis since war's end.

Peaches Browning Gets 4th Divorce, Plus a Lecture

Redwood City, Calif., March 30 (AP).—"Peaches" Browning had another divorce decree to add to her collection today.

With it, gratis, she got the judge's candid opinion about "people who get married and have no respect for the sanctity of marriage."

Superior Judge Edmund Scott granted the California decree to Frances Browning Willson.

Her husband, Ralph N. Willson, freed himself from her last October 7, in Reno.

"Peaches" made the front pages back in 1926 when she married Edward (Daddy) Browning, elderly New York millionaire. They split up and she married Bernard J. Hynes, a Denver man. After him came Joseph Civelli, a San Francisco store executive. Willson was next.

French Prices Go Down By Government Edict

Paris, March 30 (AP).—Prices will drop this week by government edict on scores of products from tripe to dungarees.

The average reduction, government sources figured, would be 3 to 5 per cent, though on dungarees and high quality laundry, the reduction will be 25 per cent.

New prices will go into effect Friday, it was announced today.

Coal will be down 10 per cent and electricity 7 per cent.

Arabs, Jews Accept Geneva War Rules

Bloc Opposition

Parley Backs Easier Path For Newsmen

—Geneva, Switzerland, March 30 (AP).—The U. N. Conference on Freedom of Information today adopted over Soviet bloc opposition a Philippine resolution to encourage the freedom of movement of foreign correspondents.

The resolution urged governments to "encourage the freest possible movement of foreign correspondents in the performance of their functions . . . and to expedite the administrative measures necessary for the entry, residence, movement and travel of foreign correspondents . . . in a manner consistent with their respective laws and procedures."

The vote for the resolution was 20 to 5.

The Czechoslovak delegate, Adolf Hoffmeister, declared comment abroad on the death of Czechoslovak Foreign Minister Jan Masaryk was a "tragic example of irresponsibilty."

The chief Soviet delegate, A. T. Bogomolov, delivered a 50-minute attack on the British and American press, and said American newspapers preached "servility toward capitalism."

He said freedom of information was "truly realized on behalf of the people" in the Soviet Union.

Harry Martin, president of the American Newspaper Guild, opened a campaign to remove George Hronek, Czech communist, from his job as secretary general of the International Organization of Journalists, and remove I. O. J. headquarters from Prague.

Way Is Opened For Red Cross Aid To Victims of Strife

Jerusalem, March 30 (AP).—The Jews and Arabs have promised to observe the Geneva Convention rules of war, an International Red Cross spokesman said today.

The pledge paves the way for the Red Cross to start work in the Holy Land, now torn by civil war.

In Jerusalem bread rationing was decreed for the city's 100,000 Jews for the first time since the outbreak of current hostilities. The move was made necessary apparently by the repeated Arab attacks on Jewish convoys and other interference in the moving of food and supplies to Jerusalem.

Jews said their food supplies were "dangerously low." No similar shortage appeared in the Arab sections, which are supplied over Arab-controlled roads in eastern Palestine and neighboring Arab countries.

The Jewish-Arab promise means both sides must afford protection to the wounded and sick regardless of whether they are Jew or Arab, provide security to those who do not take part in the war, especially women, children and the aged. Prisoners of war must be given humane treatment.

Rain, wind and intermittent sleet dampened the ardor of Jewish and Arab fighters during the day. The Arabs renewed attempts to cut off Jewish highway traffic and two bridges were blown up in northern Palestine.

Today's death toll included four Jews and three Arabs. The unofficial toll since November 29 hit 2220.

Greek Army Reported in Spring Drive

Athens, March 30 (AP).—A Greek communique reported hard fighting today near Philiates, six miles from the Albanian border.

Informed sources said the attack by the Greek Army's Eighth Division may be the beginning of the spring offensive to crush Markos Vafiades' guerrillas along the Albanian-Yugoslav borders.

Dwight Griswold, administrator of the American aid program for Greece, said 15,000 additional young conscripts may be called up soon ot serve in the new national defense corps battalions. They would replace older men.

He said the American State Department had approved use of American funds to train the men for 60 days before they replace the older guardsmen. After the first group is trained another 30,000 may be called up as replacements, Griswold said.

Griswold said the move would not boost strength of the regular army or defense corps.

Consul, Fired on, Called Here for Talks

By the United Press

John Bankhead, United States Consul at Windsor, Ontario, who was fired on by an unknown assailant last Sunday night, has been summoned here for "consultations," the State Department said last night.

He was ordered to leave Windsor "as soon as possible."

A spokesman emphasized that Bankhead has not been recalled, but is coming here for "a discussion of his case."

Spain May Boost Army in Red Threat

Madrid, March 30 (AP).—Generalissimo Franco's regime was reported today ready to increase the Spanish army by about 300,000 men as a precautionary step in view of the Communist threat in Europe, especially Italy.

There is no official information available on such plans. It was reported, however, that the 1948 and 1949 clases may be called to the colors several months ahead of time.

The cabinet at its last meeting on March 22 is known to have given much attention to the report of Jose Antonio San Gronez, Spanish Ambassador in Rome. An informed source said the report described the situation as "very grave" and that the cabinet took the "necessary measures."

At the same time official Spanish sources maintained a guarded silence on reports that Myron Taylor, the White House ambassador to the Vatican, is coming to confer with Franco Thursday.

Taylor is reported due when half a million Spaniards are scheduled to be watching a "victory day" parade of 12,000 soldiers, sailors and police in Madrid on the anniversary observance of the end of the civil war in 1939.

It is reported Taylor also will confer with Foreign Minister Alberto Martin Artajo, and Enrique Cardinal Pla y Deniel, primate of Spain, during his visit.

House Backs Aid for Spain

House bill at once introduced serious new issues into the ERP picture, and into the political picture at home and abroad. The State Department and the Senate have insisted all along that it is up to the Europeans alone, and not to the United States, to decide which countries shall take part in the recovery program.

Two weeks ago, at their latest meeting in Paris, the 16 Marshall Plan countries shelved a proposal from Portugal to admit Spain now. They may act on it later in the year, and without objection from the United States, although most members of the United Nations consider themselves still bound by an assembly decision not to station an ambassador in Madrid.

In the meantime, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee probably will try to strike out the House amendment, and quickly enough so that the Communists cannot use it further in the Italian election on April 18.

Apart from the legal issue, there was also a moral issue raised by Representative Helen Gahagan Douglas (D., Calif.) and others on the House floor yesterday. The inclusion of Spain, she said, "does nothing for Spain but give her an unearned pat on the shoulder; it does nothing for the democratic forces of Europe but give them an unearned rebuke; it does nothing to control the Communists, but it gives them a new weapon in the political battle for Europe."

Shocking, Says Isacson

The Henry Wallace forces seized upon the amendment eagerly and without delay. Representative Leo Isacson (A. L. P., N. Y.), one of the two Wallace supporters in the House, quickly took the floor to say the vote would "shock the conscience of the world" and would mean "that we here have embraced to our bosom a Fascist government."

The anti-Soviet tide was running so strongly in the House yesterday that at one time it looked as if a virtual embargo might be slapped on all American exports to Russia. An amendment was proposed by Representative William M. Colmer (D., Miss.) to export no industrial commodities or technical data "to any country which has announced its intention to attempt to prevent the success of the European Recovery Program."

It was shelved after a warning from Representative John Folger (D., N. C.) that it would be "almost a declaration of war against all except the 16 Marshall Plan countries," and another from Representative Jacob K. Javits (R., N. Y.) that it was "a declaration of economic war."

In place of the Colmer amendment, the House adopted, by voice vote, a double-barreled amendment by Representative Karl Mundt (R., S. Dak.), backed by the Foreign Affairs Committee and the Republican leadership.

The Mundt amendment provided, first, that "the Administrator is directed to refuse delivery insofar as practicable, of commodities or products which go into the production of any commodity for delivery to any non-participating country" if the United States refused to send the same goods to those countries on grounds of national security.

This meant that if Great Britain, for example, sent machine tools to Russia and if at the same time the United States forbade the export of machine tools to Russia, the Administrator could deny Britain the steel with which to make the machine tools. The words "insofar as practicable" left some discretion, however, to the Administrator.

The second part of the Mundt amendment gave the administrator virtual veto power over the granting of all export licenses to eastern Europe by the Government. For it provided that "whenever the Administrator determines that it is in the national interest to prohibit the exportation of any commodity to any nonparticipating country in Europe, the Government agency having authority to issue export licenses must take action to do what the Administrator says.

The Mundt amendment, also, is regarded as dangerous and unworkable by the executive agencies of the Government, and may cause trouble in the coming conference with the Senate.

But it has better prospects than the Spanish amendment of staying in the final bill, for there is anger in the Senate as well as the House over the continuing exports ofgoods that might strengthen the Soviet war potential.

The House voted on 17 other changes to the $6,205,000,000 foreign aid bill yesterday, but still had not finished work on the European portion when it adjourned after a gruelling eight-hour session.

Action on economic and military aid to China, and military help for Greece and Turkey, must follow the final vote on the European section, and it was doubtful whether the entire bill could be approved until Thursday.

The House made these changes, among others, yesterday.

(1) It voted overwhelmingly, by 165 to 32, to knock out the provision permitting the chartering of 200 surplus American merchant ships to Europe. The Senate had killed a similar provision two weeks ago under intense pressure from the maritime unions and shipowners.

(2) It adopted, by voice vote, an amendment by Representative Willis W. Bradley (R., Calif.) providing that at least half the gross tonnage of ERP supplies obtained within the United States be carried in American ships wherever possible, and at "market rates." This brought the House bill into line with the Senate version.

3. It approved, by voice vote, an amendment by Representative Walter H. Judd (R., Minn.) requiring the Administrator or the Secretary of State to certify, in writing, to every new employe's loyalty after getting a report on him from the FBI. Copies of each certification must be filed with the chaidman of the Foreign Policy committees of Congress.

4. It agreed, by voice vote, that the Administrator could appoint new employes for three months pending an FBI report and certification. As the bill originally stood, the Administrator could not have appointed any one from outside the Government until there had been a complete check and clearance by the FBI.

5. It adopted a series of amendments specifically adding fish, canned goods and corn products to the surplus agricultural commodities that might be sent to Europe as relief.

A roar of "no" votes rejected a proposal by Representative Isacson to forbid the use of any Marshall Plan dollars to buy oil from the Arab countries of the Middle East. A 91-38 vote turned down another plan by Representative Adam C. Powell (D., N. Y.) to prevent the buying of supplies from any company which refuses employment because of race, creed or color.

By a voice vote the House upheld a provision of the bill guaranteeing that American newspaper and magazine publishers could convert the proceeds of their sales in Europe into dollars. Representative Fred Crawford (R., Mich.) had tried to strike out this provision, which limits the total of such guarantees to 15 million dollars.

Senate Passes China Aid Bill

attributed to the staff, were not intended by the committee.

He told the Senate that military, economic and social pressures have "understandably undermined her (China's) stabilities, and prevented or postponed the internal reforms which even her surest friends readily concede to be not only desirable but essential for the Chinese people and for the Nationalist government."

"But reforms without survival would be a disillusioning mirage," he added. "The preservation of China's independence is prerequisite to the preservation or attainment of everything else. Liberty is prerequisite to progress."

Voicing hope that Congress will wrap all of the aid measures into a single package and finally approve them before the week is out, he said the programs should be launched in time "to serve their maximum advantage and enjoy their maximum chance."

The Senate Foreign Relations chairman praised China as a non-appeasing "faithful ally" throughout World War II and said she has since been under "constant and powerful attack by Chinese armed Communists."

The Chinese Communist propaganda is bitterly anti-American and follows the Moscow line, he said. "Instead of honoring a 1945 pledge to support the National Government of China, he charged Russia has stripped Manchuria of two billion dollars of industrial equipment and rendered none of the support it promised.

During the brief debate, Senator Wayne Morse (R., Oreg.) said he thought China "more Fascist than democratic" and added: "We ought to make it clear that we are not going to support Fascist government or Communist government either."

Vandenberg replied that "there will be no freedom of choice left to 400 million people of China if it falls behind the iron curtain of communism." He said judgment on democracy has to be relative but noted that the present government had at least given the country its first constitution and termed this "a dedication to freedom of choice to the common people of China."

Senator Claude Pepper (D., Fla.) said this country shouldn't try to "defend those who are defensible only with embarrassment," whether Communists or Fascists. Vandenberg sai dhe would not accept a proposal by Pepper to hold up aid to China until the Secretary of State certified elementary democracy was practiced there. He said it wouldn't be possible to "identify or enforce" such a rule.

But Vandenberg went out of his way to compliment Pepper on his last Sunday broadcast denouncing Russian aggression. Vandenberg said some of Pepper's earlier attacks on our foreign policy had "distressed" him but that Pepper had now made it clear "he is not an apologist for aggression by Russia . . . and is not for appeasement of any sort."

Acting Republican Leader Kenneth S. Wherry (R., Nebr.) said he wanted to know why Congress first had been told economic aid to countries resisting communism would suffice and then after the Senate passed ERP the President asked military assistance.

"For my point of view, I need no more information than I read on the front page of every afternoon newspaper," replied Vandenberg. So far as China is concerned, the demands for military aid came from the House and Senate, and not the State Department, Vandenberg added.

Franco Could Use U. S. Aid, Gromyko Says

Lake Sucess, March 30 (AP).—Russia's Andrei A. Gromyko commented today that Generalissimo Franco of Spain probably needs American help.

With a smile, Gromyko gave his comment to newsmen on the congressional House action for American aid to Franco:

"Poor small boy Franco! He probably needs American help."

He would not comment further.

Earlier the Soviet Ukraine's chief delegate here had said the action came as no surprise to the Russians.

British Can't Believe U. S. Will Aid Franco

London, March 30 (AP).—High British sources said tonight they "could not believe" Spain ever would share in the United States program for European recovery as long as Generalissimo Franco remains in power.

One informant commented: I cannot believe (Secretary of State) Marshall and the Senate will let it go through."

Hemisphere Parley To Discuss Reds

Delegates Back Marshall Proposal To Study Alien Subversive Activity

Bogota, Colombia, March 30 (AP).—United States Secretary of State Marshall tossed the hot issue of Soviet-inspired Communist activities in the Western Hemisphere into the Conference of American Republics today and the delegates voted by acclamation to consider it.

The action was taken just before the ninth International Conference of American States opened its formal sessions.

Marshall did not mention communism by name, but asked at a preliminary session "whether the agenda . . . may be considered to permit the discussion of the problem of foreign subversive activities directed against the institutions and peace and security of the American republics."

The delegates voted unanimously that "foreign inspired subversive activities" could be discussed.

The preparatory meeting voted to break down the conference into six separate commissions to handle these subjects:

1. The organic pact of the inter-American system as a regional branch of the United Nations.
2. Systems of specialized organizations for financing the Pan American Union.
3. Peaceful settlement of controversies and collective defense.
4. Economic treaty for boosting living standards and industrializing the Americas.
5. Social matters (education, cultural activities, social legislation, etc.).
6. Political matters which include the defense and preservation of the democracy of the Americas.

Soviet Assails U. S. Reversal

tion of the future of Palestine and the relations between Arabs and Jews but of their own oil interests and military-strategic positions in the Middle East."

Says U. S. "Amazes" World

He told the Council the U. S. delegates to the 1947 U. N. Assembly used all their influence to attain the adoption of the partition plan. He said "reversal" of the American position now has provoked "more than an amazement in all the countries of the world."

He said the U. N. should go ahead with partition on schedule.

In presenting the United States resolutions calling for a truce and for the special session, Austin said it is absolutely essential that violence and bloodshed in Palestine must stop. Austin said he was not mentioning trusteeship now so that the Assembly call would not be delayed by debate over details. But he served notice the United States is standing by the trusteeship proposal.

Austin and Gromyko were the only speakers. The Council adjourned the Palestine debate until Thursday at 2:30 p. m. (EST). It will take up the Czechoslovak case again tomorrow afternoon.

Highway Change Violates Va. Law Attorneys Charge

Lancaster, Va., March 30 (AP).—Attorneys for a group of Nuttsville and Litwalton citizens today charged that the State Highway Commission is rushing work "in open violation of the law" on a new section of Route 3 which would cut off the two Lancaster County villages.

Dabney Overton of Warsaw and Ammon G. Dunton, White Stone, attorneys, said the commission's files contain proof that the highway through the villages was established according to law and therefore cannot be changed. They said this allegation had been included in a bill for an injunction to be heard in Lancaster County Circuit Court Thursday before Judge Leon M. Bazile.

Judge E. Hugh Smith of Lancaster Circuit Court dismissed one injunction bill against Commissioner James A. Anderson. The court held that the attorneys had failed to prove the present Route 3 was established according to law. Judge Smith also ruled that if the route had been established legally, the commission was without authority to change it.

Report Is Postponed On O'Conor Election

A special investigating committee yesterday put off for a week its report on the contested election of Senator Herbert R. O'Conor (D., Md.)

D. John Markey, Walkersville Republican who ran 2232 votes behind O'Conor in the 1946 general election, has charged the ballots were miscounted and there were irregularities in the voting.

A Senate subcommittee headed by Senator Jenner (R., Ind.), held a closed meeting on the election contest yesterday but did not make a final report.

Hagerstown Radio

Antietam Broadcasting Corp., operating standard Station WARK at Hagerstown, Md., yesterday asked Communications Commission authority to sell all stocks in the station to Raymond J. Funkhouser, Ramson, W. Va., industrialist.

The sale price would be $107,000. The application said that Funkhouser proposes to bring FM and television service to Hagerstown.

Grant A. Wood, Hyattsville, Md., applied for a new standard radio station to operate on 1540 kilocycles, one kilowatt, daytime only.

By Russians

American Supply Lines Threatened

Berlin, March 30 (AP).—The Russians threatened today to restrict the supply lifelines of the British, French and Americans in Berlin.

The lines pass through the Soviet-occupied zone and are the only ground communication routes of the Western powers in Berlin.

Lieut. Gen. G. S. Lukyanchenko, Soviet chief of staff, made the threatt in an interview in the Soviet-licensed newspaper Voewarts. It came as the regular day for the meeting of the Allied Control Council passed without any move from the Russians to call the four-power military governors into session. The Russians have been boycotting the council meetings since they walked out 10 days ago.

The threat brought the war of nerves being conducted by the Russians and German Communists to a higher pitch. Communist newspapers have been charging under banner headlines that spies, criminals, hungry Germans and looters have been crossing the border into the Soviet occupation zone by the hundreds.

United States Army officials in Frankfurt had no comment on the latest Russian story—an account in the Communist newspaper Pravda in Moscow saying a German spy ring financed by American military intelligence and German industrialists was working in the Soviet zone.

Traffic Control Planned

The story quoted a Berlin correspondent of Pravda as saying the group was headed in Germany by a man named Gerhard Pinkert a former colonel in the German army. The story said former German spies left throughout eastern Europe during the war were being reorganized.

General Lukyanchenko said the Russians intended to regulate and control road and rail traffic between Berlin and the western zones. The reason given was the rising tempo of reconstruction and agricultural life in the Soviet zone and the consequent heavy demands on railroads and highways.

"The Soviet authorities, as before, will see that the necessary possibilities for the maintenance of the feeding of the population of the western sectors are provided according to the decisions of the Allied Kommandatura, however in a regulated form and under the necessary control," he said.

Finn Leader Still Studies Soviet Terms

Helsinki, Finland, March 30 (AP).—President Juho Paasikivi still debated tonight how Finland could meet the Soviet Union's request for a security pact and still remain outside big-power conflicts.

The Russian proposal reached Paasikivi early Sunday, informed sources said. Since then he has been formulating new instructions to the Finnish delegation in Moscow, and the difficulty of his task is illustrated by the time it is taking.

Responsible sources said Finland hopes to reach an agreement which would make military cooperation with Russia effective only in case of an immediate threat of war in this area. The Finns particularly want to avoid any advance joint staff planning. These sources said so far the Russians have not asked for any military bases.

Molotov Entertains Finnish Delegation

Moscow, March 30 (AP).—Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov entertained Finnish Premier Mauno Pekkala and his treaty delegation tonight.

Molotov, in a happy mood, proposed a toast to Finnish-Soviet friendship which the entire Finnish group drank and answered in kind.

The Finns maintained silence on the progress of their negotiations but appeared to be in good spirits.

Tableware, jewelry and other products made of zirconium and titanium are envisioned by Dr. John W. Marden, Westinghouse metallurgist. Strong yet light, both rare metals take a high polish and won't tarnish.

Russians Kill 2 Austrians And Wound 14

Vienna, Austria, March 30 (AP).—All telephone communications between Vienna and Josefsberg in the Soviet zone were cut today after the Ministry of the Interior had reported a "wild west" shooting fray in which Russian soldiers killed at least two Austrians and wounded 14.

The Austrian government ministry's communique on the shooting was withdrawn tonight without explanation.

Earlier Austrian officials said three persons were killed and 19 wounded, but the communique had listed only a 20-year-old girl and the orchestra leader as dead, and 14 as injured.

Austrian officials said a fight broke out in the dancehall at Josefsberg, 45 miles south of Vienna, between a Russian soldier and civilians. The soldier went for help, the officials said, and returned with two companions in an army truck and the three fired 46 shots into the crowd with their machine pistols.

GSI Cafeteria Reopens

The Washington Post

BACK TO NORMAL—The Labor Department Cafeteria, closed throughout the 11-week GSI cafeteria workers strike, reopened yesterday. Mrs. Marie Barnes, cashier, collects from Assistant Secretary of Labor John W. Gibson

250 Convene To Map Child, Youth Parley

More than 250 school and public welfare officials representing all sections of the Nation gathered yesterday in the Federal Security Agency auditorium to plan for the White House Conference on Children and Youth to be held here in 1950.

Federal Security Administrator Oscar R. Ewing, in opening the three-day conference, called on delegates to plan their program to include "every last child we have."

Pointing out that there are now 45 million children under 18 in the country, he said:

"We have the finest medical care in the world; but it doesn't reach that forty-fifth millionth child.

"We have some of the finest teachers and schools in the world; but they don't reach that forty-fifth millionth child.

"As a matter of fact, we are not sure whether these good jobs that we are doing right now for children even reach the twenty-fifth millionth child," he said.

Assistant Administrator J. Donald Kingsley warned that democratic institutions "work only if we test them constantly by their effect on the individual and the chance a family and town have to give all their children and youth a feeling of individual growth, of having a place in society, of having a fair chance in life."

Miss Katharine F. Lenroot, chief of the Children's Bureau, said that on basis of present estimates the Nation needs "at least 7500 more pediatricians, 50,000 more public health nurses, 100,000 more teachers, 15,000 more child welfare workers, 10,000 more psychiatrists for children's and family services."

'I Am an American Day' Set for Sunday, May 16

President Truman yesterday asked for widespread observance of Sunday, May 16, as "I Am an American Day."

He said in a proclamation that foreign and domestic problems facing the Nation "require unselfish devotion and united effort on the part of all our citizens."

"Loyalty to a great ideal has brought together people of every race, creed and culture—all blended into a unity which has been the strength of our country and has enabled it to meet every crisis," he added.

On the Town

JOSE MELIS opened Monday night in the Carlton Congo Room . . . His career, despite his youth, has been a long one since he began his studies at the age of 3 . . . By the time he had reached his tenth year he was graduated from the Havana (Cuba) Conservatory as a teacher. Jose has won a number of scholarships and has played in several New York night spots.

Club Cairo has been forced to discontinue its floor show until Friday night due to an A. B. C. Board ruling . . . The club will stay open for dinner and dancing those nights . . . A bright note is that "His Highness" Dick Buckley will be held for another week . . . "His Highness" is, in our opinion, one of the best entertainment bets to reach Washington in many a moon . . . According to word from the club we'll have the "pleasure" of seeing the same chorus line. They, and their costumes, have become almost a fixture about the club, but we can't figure out from which era.

Sally and Tony DeMarco played to the biggest Monday night crowd we've seen in any local spot for too long . . . This is their second engagement in the Shoreham Blue Room this season and no doubt the management hopes it will be a permanent one . . . If you can possibly manage a reservation, and it won't be easy, by all means do so!

JIMMIE CARROLL is now gracing the Mayflower lounge with his songs every night . . . Jimmie, who has been on NBC, CBS and ABC, is Irish in both personality and voice. His best song on opening night was "A Little Bit of Heaven."

Olmsteds will soon be sporting a new face both inside and out if the interior decorators who've been poking around have anything to say . . . For the outside they've suggested morning glory colors, but the Messrs. Brahms and Mitchell are a little dubious about it.

The Raleigh Hotel Pall Mall Room is opening with Nan Gracia, a singer, and Mary Ann Mitchell, her accompanist, tomorrow night. Nan, a Westchester County, N. Y., girl, has studied in South America and several conservatories here in this country. Some time ago Nan tried something new in fashion shows by singing as she modeled clothes.

The Sheraton has come up with a new gimmick to promote its policy of waitresses dressed as chorines . . . Seems the whole Sheraton chain is going to have a beauty contest among the scantily clad girls . . . They still haven't decided whether to choose a winner by ballot or just long male stares.

Hal Thornton, who, according to press releases, is another Dwight Fiske, opens at the Merry-Land Club tonight . . . This club did record business with Erskin Butterfield while he was there

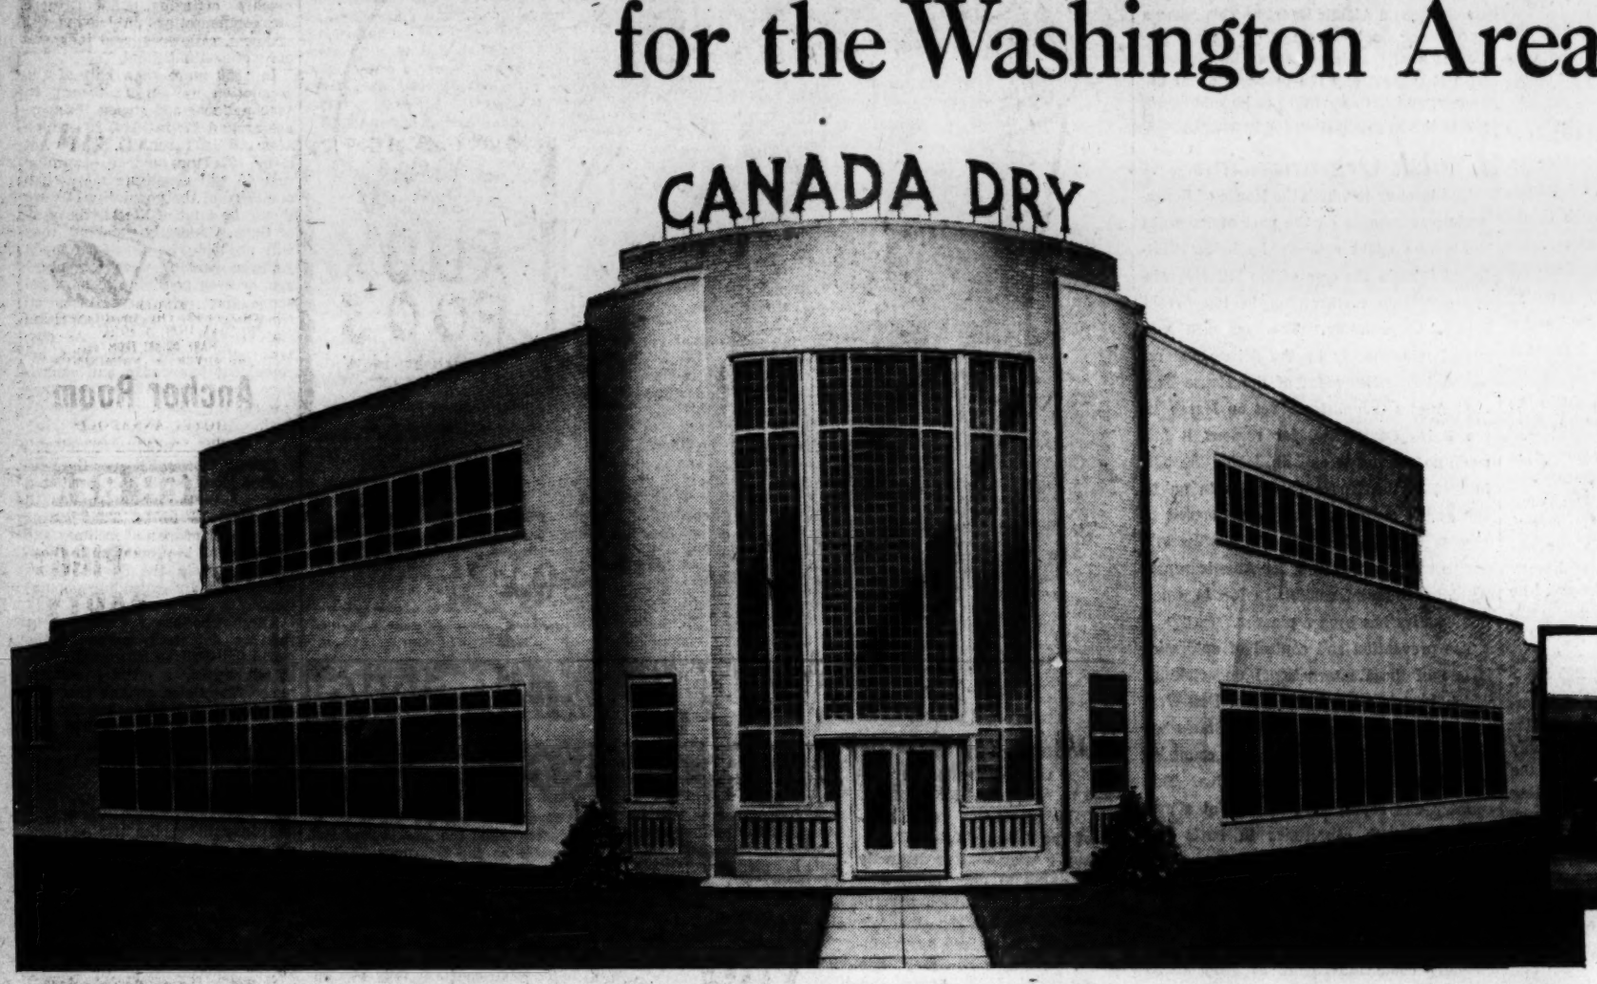
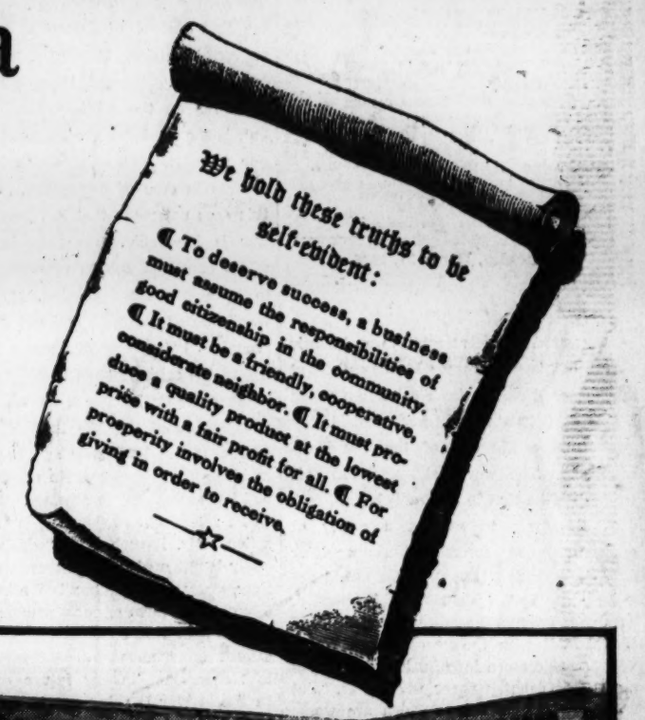
"FROM OUR HOUSE TO YOURS"

The story of Canada Dry's New Beverage Plant for the Washington Area





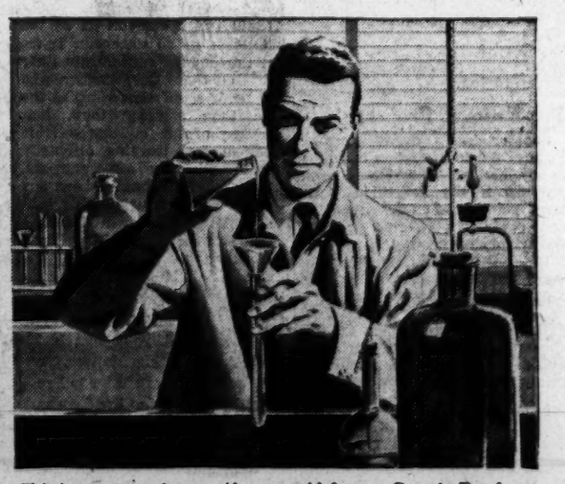
We hold these truths to be self-evident:
¶ To deserve success, a business must assume the responsibilities of good citizenship in the community. ¶ It must be a friendly, cooperative, considerate neighbor. ¶ It must produce a quality product at the lowest price with a fair profit for all. ¶ For prosperity involves the obligation of giving in order to receive.

Canada Dry has opened a new bottling plant in Silver Spring to serve the Washington area. You are already familiar with our name, we know, for you have enjoyed our products for many years. But as a new member of your business community, you will probably want to know something about the sort of neighbor you can expect us to be.

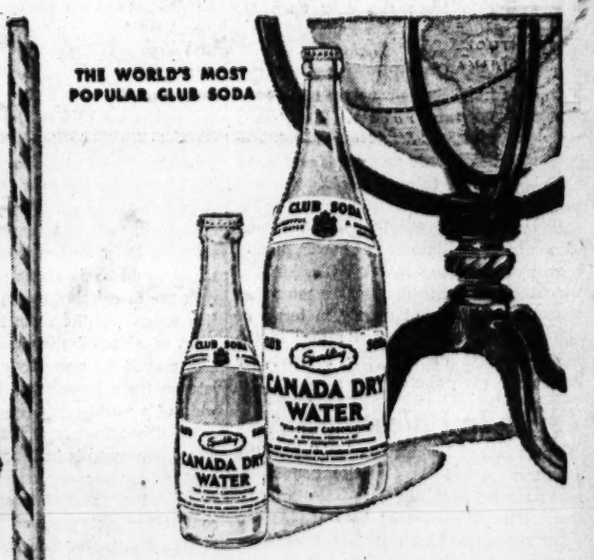
Just as any neighbor accepts certain responsibilities toward his fellow men and his community...we feel that we have a responsibility to our employees, to the tradespeople who handle our products... and to you who buy and enjoy them.

We consider this spirit of the good neighbor to be the foundation for the true success of any business. By following this policy here in the Washington area, we like to feel that we will merit your lasting friendship... can feel entitled to the privilege of continuing service to you.

It takes people proud of their work to produce quality Canada Dry products. It also takes people proud of Canada Dry quality to sell and distribute these products. That means steady employment for many in this area. Equally important, it means pleasant working conditions and fair wages.



This beverage plant produces world-famous Canada Dry beverages locally according to the same rigid specifications for purity and quality that are followed the world over. It is scientifically designed for the utmost in sanitary, efficient operation. And it is under the constant supervision of trained technicians.



All these World-Famous Beverages are available in two sizes. Large family bottle 15¢ (plus deposit). Individual bottle 5¢.

And so, from our "house" to yours, we say,

No Idle Stance

President Truman resorted to an historic phrase of his predecessor Monday night at the Ahepa banquet in Washington when he affirmed that "we will not stand idly by and see the liberties of the world debauched." The world situation today is tragically like that in 1937 which led President Roosevelt to suggest a policy of quarantining aggressors and a year later to assert that the United States would not stand "idly by" if Canada were attacked. President Truman sensed the similarity, and the parallel with the years before World War II made more forceful his observation that "This country never wants war. But there are certain things which are worse than war. One of them is slavery."

In the same vein were the Chief Executive's remarks that this country has never asked for anything but peace and prosperity in the world for all peoples and for all countries. "We have never shut the door against any country," he said. "We are willing to talk peace and international intercourse with any country in the world . . ." This is a theme which deserves to be stressed more often, particularly the determination to leave the door open for peaceful settlement at the same time that we resist aggression.

The successful implementation of this policy—and its success concerns all of us—depends upon two measures. The first is the development of adequate military power to back up our fine words and make them meaningful to our friends. The second is the concurrent development of a positive and evangelical approach to the cause of free institutions and human dignity consistent with the moral leadership for which we are contending. This means an approach couched not merely in terms of anticommunism, but framed rather in the larger context of energetic support for democracy everywhere.

Truce In Palestine

In the face of formidable odds, the United States has asked the Security Council to pass a resolution calling for a truce in Palestine. Representatives of both the Jewish Agency and the Arab Higher Committee have turned cold shoulders toward the idea of a truce, and Dr. Hessein el Khalidi, secretary for the Arab Committee, has gone so far as to reject proposals for a truce in Jerusalem and an international force to protect the city. The outlook for avoidance of large-scale warfare in the Holy Land is admittedly dark. We do not think, however, that the statesmen of the great powers can rationally abandon the Near East to this tragic fate without the exercise of heroic efforts to bring about a different solution.

It is pathetic that the plan of political partition and economic union accepted by the General Assembly of the United Nations has failed to win the support necessary to make it effective. Military force would obviously be necessary to put this sensible compromise into effect, and no promise of such force has been forthcoming from the Security Council. Far more important than discussion of who is responsible for this deplorable fact is the question of what is now to be done. It is no time, in our opinion, merely to lapse into recriminations. The British insist on pulling out of Palestine on May 15. The Palestine Commission is going ahead with its efforts to set up a provisional council of government for the proposed Jewish state. The Arabs are preparing to set up a government for all Palestine as an independent Arab state. The whole world has a profound interest in avoiding the bloodshed and inflammation of passions that would result from an unrestrained clash between these rival forces.

In our opinion, therefore, the United States has no reasonable alternative to pressing for a truce with all the leadership at its command. A truce would make possible further efforts to work out a peaceful solution. To be sure, it would leave the problem of the future of Palestine unsolved. It would require sacrifices and involve disappointments for Jews and Arabs alike. It would carry with it no assurance that a solution by force of arms can be avoided in the future. But when all these facts are candidly admitted, the alternative to a truce is so tragic from the humanitarian viewpoint and so fraught with dangers to the peace of the world that men of good will cannot resign themselves to it until every resource of statesmanship for a peaceful settlement has been exhausted.

We are glad that the United States is taking the lead in this movement. At a time when Congress is voting billions for the benefit of friendly democratic powers and the Administration is using its influence for collective maintenance of peace it would be utterly inconsistent to abandon Palestine to a local settlement of its baffling issues by force of arms. Most of mankind has set its face against that approach to any international problem. Failure of one effort cannot, therefore, be accepted as the last word in this desperate situation. We think that the statesmen of this country and the United Nations must try again, and the only situation that will give them a reasonable opportunity to try again is a truce and another meeting of the General Assembly on the issue.

Essential To Security

Bernard M. Baruch has appropriately reminded the Senate Armed Services Committee that revival of Selective Service and universal military training would be only half a loaf. Beyond these preparedness measures on the military side, he points out, is the need for prompt mobilization of our industrial, financial and scientific resources in case of emergency. Of course, this does not mean that Mr. Baruch thinks war is inevitable. On the contrary, his whole emphasis was on measures designed to keep war from starting. "Preventing war," he declared with eminent good sense, "requires buttressing our national security before the crisis is upon us."

When the United States was caught in the world crisis of the late thirties and early forties, it was both slow and inefficient in mobilizing its resources. No adequate plans had been prepared in advance. "The result was a fumbling and faltering in the mobilization," Mr. Baruch said, "which unnecessarily lengthened the recent war, cost many lives, many extra billions." We know of no thoughtful student of our war effort who disagrees with this conclusion. It is of the utmost importance to avoid repetition of that experience in any future emergency. In World War II this "fumbling and faltering" was far less disastrous than similar laxity and poor organization would probably be in any future war; for the most part the enemy expended his resources in fighting our allies in the early part of the last war. In any future world war the United States is almost certain to be the central target for attack.

In case of such an attack or the involvement of the United States in war from other causes, the country should not have to wait months for the enactment of industrial mobilization laws. We agree with Mr. Baruch that a system of mobilization, including priorities, allocations, rationing powers, ceilings on prices, rents and wages, taxes to take the profits out of war, the accumulation of strategic materials, intensified scientific research and so forth, should be readily at hand whenever the President and Congress should decide to put it into effect. The requirement that Congress should give the word for the mobilization system to go into effect would be an ample safeguard against rash use of extraordinary powers by executive order. At the same time prior enactment of a mobilization plan would relieve Congress of the necessity of trying to legislate on these momentous issues under the whip of a world crisis.

We doubt that it is feasible to include manpower controls in legislation thus to be kept on tap for any emergency. Congress never did get around to enacting a law to control the movement of labor or provide for the drafting of workers during the last war. Revival of this controversial issue might have the effect of defeating the more important mobilization measures that Mr. Baruch has suggested. The necessity for controlling manpower, moreover, seldom arises as quickly as the necessity for controlling materials and prices. It seems to us that this issue can safely be left for action by Congress after the extent of the emergency can be accurately measured. Far more urgent, in our opinion, is a statute enabling the Government to take over essential industries and keep them in operation during a national emergency. One has to look no further than the Government's present fencing with John L. Lewis to see how ill-equipped it is to mobilize all the country's resources in the interests of security.

McMahon's Privilege

The development of radiological warfare has been one of the country's most carefully guarded defense secrets. Even public conjecture in this field is frowned upon by military authorities, and the Atomic Energy Commission classes data on the subject as "top secret." It comes as a shock, therefore, to see, in an article by Senator Brien McMahon in the current issue of Collier's, a paragraph such as the following:

> The United States of America now has aboveground sufficient radioactive material so that, were it efficiently applied, all human life on the planet would be annihilated. We have on order various means for such applications. We have on hand now materials and means whereby if we chose we could extinguish nearly every living thing in an area such as my own New England. We have on hand now material means which, if used in certain fashions, would destroy the reproductive faculties of our whole Nation, leaving the American people sterile and barren, or capable of birthing only monsters and sons and daughters with broken genes, so that our line would perish.

It is not necessary to quarrel with the thesis of Senator McMahon's article to appreciate the danger in such remarks which, without more data by which to judge them, can result only in a scare of the type the Atomic Energy Commission is trying to avoid. Actually the main point in "No Miracle in the Marshall Plan"—stressing the importance of a gigantic educational program for Europe, particularly with respect to the peaceful potentialities of atomic energy—is wholly laudable. But the comments on radiological warfare are, in our opinion, a demonstration of serious indiscretion.

The case boils down to this: If these statements are accurate and the need for secrecy is genuine, then the article is damaging to the country; if it is not accurate, then it is a disservice to its readers. As the author of the act governing control of atomic energy, on which he did yeoman service, Senator McMahon ought to be especially sensitive to the requirements of security. Yet the Atomic Energy Commission had no advance knowledge of the article. To be sure, it does not go into detail, but the presumption still is that Senator McMahon had access to the information he discusses because of his privileged position as a member of the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy. This raises a question of senatorial ethics. If the information is such that it can safely be divulged, then it is rightfully the property of all the people, and not something to be sold exclusively to one publication for personal profit.

Health Organization

The tyranny to which the House of Representatives submits on the part of its Rules Committee could scarcely be better illustrated than in the case of the bill authorizing American membership in the World Health Organization. This measure was passed unanimously by the Senate and received the indorsement of the House Foreign Affairs Committee. Yet on March 12 the Rules Committee, for reasons it has made no attempt to explain, tabled the bill, forbidding the House even to vote on it. Unless the committee can be persuaded to change its mind, the Eighteenth Congress will expire without providing for American participation in an international effort in which this country has been a pioneer.

The prevention and control of epidemics is one of those international undertakings which have remained free from East-West rivalry. For 40 years the United States has worked harmoniously with other countries toward this nonpolitical objective. This country was represented in 1946 at a preliminary health conference in Paris and later at the International Health Conference in New York out of which plans for the World Health Organization as a United Nations adjunct emerged. The WHO will officially come into being as soon as 26 nations have signified approval of it. Some 24 nations have already joined, the latest among them being the Soviet Union. Thus the effect of the Rules Committee's intransigence is to have American medicine lagging behind Russian in a strictly humanitarian field.

The promotion of health is an obvious concomitant of the Marshall Plan. This country can scarcely be indifferent to the spread of disease among peoples it is assisting economically. The World Health Organization is expected to have its first regular meeting in June. It would be a great misfortune if the United States should not be represented at it. We hope, therefore, that the House Majority Leader will assert a little leadership in respect of the autocratic Rules Committee.

Police Promotions

Police Superintendent Barrett followed a logical course in naming Inspector Floyd A. Truscott and Capt. Robert S. Bryant to top posts in the Police Department. In the No. 2 spot as assistant superintendent and executive officer, Inspector Truscott will undertake a job for which he has demonstrated his capacity in a variety of positions, including service as chief of detectives and more recently as acting executive officer. Captain Bryant has a reputation for quiet efficiency buttressed by all-round experience in the department—a background that will be useful in his new position as assistant superintendent and chief of detectives. Both men have been commended in the past for outstanding police work.

The promotion of these two officers sets a standard of merit which we hope Major Barrett will follow in other appointments. Incidentally, the relatively low salary of the two new assistant superintendents—$6894 per year—may come as something of a surprise to the public. There are few posts in which men can be found working for such salaries with a like responsibility both for the management of a large organization and for maintaining the public safety.

STONE TREASURE

Do you remember how we took the stones
We found in the wide fields and in the brook
Where the clear water slid over the rocks,
And the hand slipped on the wet treasure we held?
We carried them home . . . the red earth caught
In the cracks of those we took from the fields,
And water leaving its mark on the others.
Water and earth were gone when we came home
And laid them in nests of new-cut grass,
As though we hoped to hatch some wonder there
In the warm silence of the summer noon.
Do you remember how the morning came,
And we went out to find the nests we made
Still sweet with summer, but a little dry,
And how we hurled the stones against the street,
Splitting them open to the broken vein,
To the bright glitter and the speckled white . . .
And how we left them open the dark seeds
Forever lost to water and to earth?

China Report

It was wise of Senator Vandenberg to withdraw apologetically the China report that was so critical of the Chiang Kai-shek government. After all, it is distinctly embarrassing to offer more than four million dollars to a government which, so the report apparently stated, is marked by "inefficiency, corruption . . . ineptitude in military leadership and corruption among Army commanders." The Senator was, obviously, faced with the choice of either withdrawing the report or the four million dollars. And, in choosing the former, he explained that the "few offending sentences are simply a mistake in judgment." One is moved to wonder, however, just where the mistake in judgment lay.

It seems, too, that the withdrawn report concluded, after listing the favorable and unfavorable elements in China, that "the unfavorable factors presently outweigh the favorable." But Senator Vandenberg has his own system of weights and measures. He stated, "I deeply respect the tremendous patriotic labors and the integrity of the great and courageous generalissimo . . . I have always supported him and continue to support him against the armed Chinese Communists."

What carries weight with the Senator, then, is whether a government is for or against the Communists. And that criterion seems, these days, the only one by which a "good" government is measured against a "bad" government.

Tax-Exempt Property

Senator Taft's desire to give Federal aid to education is typical of a politician. There would be no problem if the Federal Government paid taxes on its properties and other tax exempt property started paying its way.

In the District of Columbia alone there are 7492 pieces of untaxed property which, if taxed, would pay into the Treasury more than 20 million dollars annually. Of this amount the Federal Government would pay 15¼ millions, and privately owned property would yield nearly 2½ millions. Hospitals, charitable and educational institutions and other properties, including cemeteries, foreign governments and churches, come within the latter classification. Only the first three would seem to constitute legitimate exemptions. Investors buy and sell cemetery lots for profit. Is there any reason why they should not pay tax on their investments? It is reasonable, of course, that used cemetery property should be tax exempt.

Taxes from foreign governments would amount to more than a quarter of a million dollars. It is not likely that exemption makes those governments think more kindly of us. But if this amount of money were used to teach our children about the habits and good qualities of the peoples of those countries much would be done toward the cause of world peace.

In the category of private property, the greatest source of income would be the churches—more than a million dollars a year. This question should be seriously considered by everyone who believes in democracy and equal rights. It is not democratic for the man who does not go to church to pay tax to maintain a religious faith to which he does not subscribe and from which he derives no benefit.

It was this question which led to the adoption of the first amendment to the Constitution after a royal battle in Virginia led by Madison and Jefferson. It has long been held that a religion which cannot maintain itself without Government aid does not deserve to exist. Tax exemption is a form of Government aid.

If such a program were put into operation on a national scale we would need have no fear for the survival of democracy. No educational program, however, will be successful until people are as interested in education as they are in making money.

Zionist Support

In the issue of March 25 you carried an item reporting that a delegation that made a trek here from New York asserted that I did not agree with their views. I do not for one minute doubt that that is what they said to your reporter. The fact is, however, that I made very clear to them that I have been in the forefront of the Zionist movement since 1921.

I directed their attention to my remarks in the Congressional Record. In fact, many of the delegates took away copies of this with them. I also directed their attention to my statement on the floor of the House March 24 made before they arrived and in no way induced by them.

I did tell the members of the delegation in no uncertain terms that they should concentrate their efforts on those Congressmen who may be of a different view, at the same time assuring them that everyone of my colleagues from Brooklyn was working diligently to accomplish the same purpose, and that there had never been any disunity between us on this subject. Just Recognition

I wish to comment on the recent announcement of the 10 awards for outstanding acts of courtesy, and the selection of Pvt. Miskell as the February "Policeman of the Month."

In regard to this first event, the granddaughter of Mr. Mason, one of the recipients of the courtesy awards, is a third grade pupil in my classroom. This little girl attended the courtesy rally at Constitution Hall. The next morning she reported to the class what she had seen and heard. This public recognition of a relative of one of their own classmates for his kind, courteous acts did much to cement the feeling of race pride. Public recognition of the numerous, worthwhile things done by Negroes is greatly needed to help the morale of all groups.

The second event, the nomination of the white policeman by Negro children, also helped to impress the feeling of recognition and appreciation of a person for his deeds and not because of his race. The children recognized the character of the man as the prime requisite for his selection. The fact that they were recognized publicly for the nomination and that their request was granted gave them just reason for elation.

The end results secured from the reading of these parallel events can never be truly estimated. Certainly, in the light of the recent crime wave, the public recognition of such acts as these two just mentioned should help in the balancing of feelings among all groups. NEGRO TEACHER.

"Imputing Motives"

I have noted your March 25 editorial, "Imputing Motives," referring to my recent letter to President Truman urging the dismissal of James Forrestal as Secretary of National Defense. I should like to point out that your editorial failed to take note of the facts as set forth in my letter . . .

I do not believe that a Wall Street background is the best background for a Secretary or Undersecretary of a department. But even the most casual reading of my letter will show that I did not urge Mr. Forrestal's dismissal because of his association with bankers.

My letter presented evidence that he not only worked in Wall Street but headed the investment banking firm of Dillon, Read and Co., which has been handling the financing for the Standard Oil Co. of California and the Texas Corp., which hold the concessions in Saudi Arabia and jointly own the Arabian American Oil Co. As my letter pointed out, the relationship with Texas Corp. began in 1936 when Mr. Forrestal was an officer of Dillon, Read and Co. My letter also pointed out that as late as 1946, when Mr. Forrestal was Secretary of the Navy, he listed as his office address the New York address of Dillon, Read and Co.

My grounds for urging his dismissal are summarized in the following two excerpts from my letter:

"It is a long standing principle of American jurisprudence that judges disqualify themselves from deciding on any case in which they hold a personal interest or in which at any time in the past they have held a deep personal interest . . . The same standards should, and in a moral sense certainly do, apply to the high officers of the executive departments . . .

"In view of these financial connections, Mr. Forrestal should have disqualified himself from expressing any opinions on the Middle East oil question. But instead as Secretary of the Navy and later as Secretary of National Defense he has been most aggressive in seeking to have American foreign and military policy directed to the interests of the oil companies, an interest which many people have described simply as oil imperialism.

"I submit that Mr. Forrestal's connections and activities have disqualified him from holding his present high position. If our national policy is to be free from the taint of oil imperialism, Mr. Forrestal must go" . . .

My letter dealt only briefly with the whole sordid business of Middle East oil concessions. Many other facts could be cited as to how harmful to the public interest are the activities of the Arabian American Oil Co., particularly in its relation with public officials and public policy. Only two days before Mr. Truman and Mr. Austin welshed on Palestine partition, a representative of the Arabian American Oil Co. testified before the Senate Small Business Committee that the company could not secure permission to run its Middle East oil pipe line through Syria because of our present foreign policy—meaning partition.

In January, 1948, another representative of the company stated to another Senate committee that if the Truman Doctrine did not have as its purpose the strengthening of the position of the Arabian American Oil Co., it certainly had that effect. Last fall testimony before this same committee showed that these oil companies had been able to avoid paying millions of dollars of corporate income taxes by using dummy foreign companies. Evidence was also produced showing that these companies had charged the American Government $1.05 a barrel for oil when their actual costs were about 40 cents The $1.05 price was negotiated by the Navy when Mr. Forrestal was Secretary. Previously when the Government had bought this same oil under Mr. Ickes it had cost 84 cents a barrel.

Perhaps President Truman has reasons other than oil imperialism for aggressive intervention in Eastern Mediterranean and Middle East affairs or for repudiating partition. But I submit that by all ethical standards Mr. Forrestal is not the appropriate person to have any say in national policy affecting these Middle East oil concessions, no matter how clearly his activities coincide with Mr. Truman's views on foreign policy.

It is precisely because Mr. Forrestal and military men are playing such an influential part in American foreign policy that the world is threatened by war. In a sincere search for peace we should have endeavored to secure arrangements through the United Nations whereby the Middle East oil reserves would have been available to all nations on the basis of need and the native populations of the Middle East would have received valuable economic benefits in return.

U. S. Faces Its Age

By Malvina Lindsay

Assets Of Maturity

MANY AMERICANS are concerned because they envision Uncle Sam as an old man in a wheel chair by 1975. Their first reaction to the population study and forecast of the Census Bureau has been the usual exaggerated fear of age. Present war and defense talk have heightened this.

Yet like the not-so-young woman who decides she will at least be a charming 40, those facing the prospect of an increasing proportion of older people in the population are now looking about for ways to make the most of it. They are finding the Nation is not aging so much as maturing, and that there are compensations in leaving the rashness, callowness and inexperience of youth behind.

In 1850 more than half of the population was in its teens. In 1820 national age struck its average around 17; in 1946, 29—which after all isn't senility. And what if by 1975 the number of people past 45 will constitute more than one third of the population? There should be a lot of life left in most of them. Generally speaking, they will probably be as fit as much younger persons were a century ago, or even possibly are now, because they will have benefited from improved hygiene, nutrition and medical knowledge. As citizens with bodily vigor plus accumulated knowledge and experience they should be an advance toward the Back to Methusaleh goal.

CHIEF CONCERN over the population forecast is the predicted decrease in the groups under 18 and from 18 to 44. That means the number of men of military age will be small in proportion to those of that age in the Soviet Union with its rapidly expanding population.

Those who are worrying about this are defeatedly assuming the world will still be an armed camp, if not worse, a quarter century hence. They also assume that war will be carried on in exactly the same old way. They see 1975 as a replica of 1948. Yet much change is bound to take place before then—possibly the change that will usher in a new long age in history. This may include scientific discoveries and inventions, the use of new sources of energy, and development of new social and political forces, all of which could remove the main tensions of war.

But even assuming that the world, like Joshua's sun, stands still, the fate of nations will still not be determined by their number of men of fighting age. More important in modern warfare is the surplus of raw material and industrial production above population needs. A nation does not have to be teenage to have these things. In fact, it was while this country's population was young in average age that the greatest exploitation and waste of natural resources took place. It is possible that the sober judgment and farsightedness of a maturing citizenry will bring about greater conservation of soil, forests and minerals.

ONE POSSIBLE danger from an older population might be its tendency to get soft. With its standard of living getting higher, it might become more cautious, more concerned about material possessions, more ready to appease aggressive, ruthless forces. On the other hand, it might have the foresight of prevention, bring more self-control and seasoned strategy and diplomacy to its dealings with other nations.

If the country expects to make the most of its new era of maturity, it will need, like the woman of 40, to take a long searching look in the mirror and make plans. It will have to prepare to capitalize on its assets, to compensate for its weaknesses.

It will need a large-scale physical and mental health program designed to keep people fit and productive in their 50's and 60's. It will need to explore methods of using the skills and talents of older workers. It will also need more adult education—especially for women who go back to school after their families are reared. It should plan great encouragement of science and invention. It should develop technology and do all the other things that will compensate for defense manpower. Above all, it will need to mature youth earlier in citizenship to provide a spur to change and an antidote to the status quo worship that middle age so frequently develops.

Matter Of Fact

By Joseph And Stewart Alsop

Signor Pajetta's Journey

IN THE background of the Trieste incident a curious figure has now begun to loom up with some importance. Some time prior to the American, British and French proposal to return Trieste to Italy, the Italian Communist deputy, Pajetta, journeyed to Belgrade and Moscow. With Longo and Secchia, Pajetta belongs to the so-called "shadow leadership" of the Italian Communists, much closer to Moscow than the official chiefs, including even Palmiro Togliatti. His mission in Yugoslavia and Russia was to arrange a gesture of Soviet generosity toward Italy.

Since Pajetta went to the headquarters of Marshal Tito, as well as to the Kremlin, it was suspected that this gesture might be a promise to transfer Trieste to an Italy under Communist leadership. The suspicion at least helped to stimulate the American, British and French governments to take immediately the step which the local situation in Trieste had already rendered desirable. And the extremely weak and embarrassed response of the Soviets and Yugoslavs is taken as indicating that the suspicion was correct.

Nor is this Signor Pajetta's only significance. If the Soviets still desire to make a gesture toward Italy, they can waive Italian reparations on behalf of themselves and their satellites. They can also send wheat shipments just prior to the voting. On the other hand, they may prefer force to gestures. If the Kremlin's decision is to meet an unfavorable ballot in Italy by precipitating civil war, Signor Pajetta is the man who has carried the orders back to Rome. There is some fear that the orders include the use of force, since Pajetta's partner in the Italian Communist shadow leadership, Luigi Longo, has already menaced Italy with Communist resort to arms.

MEANWHILE, it is also worth reporting that Rome, Washington, London and Paris are no longer enveloped in quite the pall of impenetrable gloom which fear of the Italian elections was generating two or three weeks ago. At Rome, Premier Alcide de Gasperi is talking with firm confidence, both to his own people and to foreign observers.

Not long ago, French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault returned to Paris from a meeting with De Gasperi and the Italian Foreign Minister, Count Sforza, in Italy. Bidault had previously been the most alarmed of all the western leaders and the strongest in pressing for quick action on Trieste. De Gasperi's assurance and mastery of the situation deeply impressed and greatly encouraged him. And Bidault's encouragement, reported in the other capitals by the usual diplomatic roundrobin, has had much to do with the more cheerful atmosphere here and in London.

It is also felt that the proposal to return Trieste to the Italians has been even more effective than those who made it dared to hope. Milan, for example, is probably the most completely Communist-controlled of the big Italian cities. Yet soon after the Trieste offer, Communist demonstrators in Milan had to be protected from the angry populace by the Italian police. Again, De Gasperi, who was formerly received in stony silence, has recently been loudly cheered in working class districts. There have also been several significant, though not decisive desertions from the Communist-bought Nenni Socialists, to the independent group headed by Giuseppe Saragat and Ivan Matteo Lombardo.

SUCH is the credit side of the ledger. On the debit side, unfortunately, there are also a number of items to be noted. First, the bumbling incompetence of the United States Maritime Commission has wound up the plan to give Italy 29 American ships in such a hopeless tangle of red tape that delivery cannot be promptly effected.

Second, the Communists are continuing their campaign with extraordinary vigor and lack of scruple. In southern Italy, for example, where the Trieste business had less effect than in the north, a new tactic is being used to win over the ignorant peasantry. A Communist, ostentatiously dressed in uniform and wearing an official air, visits a peasant family to ask how much more land, how many more pigs, etc., the family needs. The needs, of course, are generously stated. The Communist takes careful notes, and goes away promising that the pigs, acres and all will be delivered when the Communists are in control at Rome. Third, and last, the likelihood of gestures by Moscow and Belgrade continues to exist, and is perhaps greater than ever.

In short, while it is possible to be encouraged, it is no time to become complacent about the Italian situation. De Gasperi's danger is not merely a heavy Communist and bought-Socialist vote on April 18. It is also an increase in the neo-Fascist vote of the extreme Right, which would render it impossible to form a government. And it is the civil war which Signor Pajetta may well have brought back orders to start. If the Italian crisis is peacefully surmounted, everyone can breathe more easily. But the peace will be a mere lull before the storm unless the Western powers, led by us, make themselves strong.

Perennial Assault On TVA

THIS IS the beginning of the season of political conversion. You hear the most surprising things from the most surprising people.

Childs

Take Senator Tom Stewart of Tennessee, for example. The Senator has come out in favor of the Tennessee Valley Authority. What makes this so remarkable is that for years Stewart has followed the lead of his colleague from Tennessee, Senator Kenneth McKellar, who devotes what little energy he has left at the age of 79 to carrying on his long campaign of sniping and sabotage against one of the most successful institutions of Government.

There is a reason for Stewart's conversion. He is up for reelection this year and it seems likely that he will be defeated. Ed Crump of Memphis, who is perhaps the most ruthless political boss in America today, decided to abandon Stewart because he had lost his vote-getting appeal. "Boss" Crump tapped a new man —Judge John Mitchell—to be the beneficiary of the Crump vote. Stewart figured he had nothing to lose and a lot to gain in coming out for TVA.

FORTUNATELY for the voters of Tennessee, however, a vigorous younger candidate is also in the race this time. Representative Estes Kefauver has consistently upheld the independence and integrity of the agency that has meant so much to the Valley of the Tennessee. He is now conducting the kind of intensive crossroads, country-store campaign that sometimes prevails over the forces of reaction and bossism.

The amazing thing is that politics should still seek to undermine the TVA. It is a sign of the savage face of reaction turned against any and all social advance.

McKellar, of course, is not surprising. He will go on to the end paying off his grudge against an institution that McKellarism and Crumpism could not convert to their own selfish uses. His present goal is to hamstring TVA in such a way that it could not carry on an efficient business operation on an annual basis.

McKellar would tie the agency with red tape to bureaucratic Washington and the Congress. What is astonishing is that the Republican majority sanctions this effort.

Consequently the weary round is repeated. The same old testimony and the same old criticisms are dragged up again. The top management of TVA must spend weeks replying to these stale charges, taking time and resources that should be spent in constructive effort.

The achievements of TVA cannot be obscured by the smear technique. With bad news about floods from other parts of the country, the New York Times had this to say in a recent editorial:

"Latest reports on the high water in the Tennessee Valley again confirm the efficiency of TVA's system of tributary and main-river dams. The great reservoirs of Norris, Cherokee, Douglas, Fontana and Hiawassee, on the tributary streams, took all the water that was poured into them and had plenty of room left. By this means the flood crest at Chattanooga was cut 10 feet, with an estimated saving of six million dollars."

One of the direct benefits, then, is flood control. The savings do not show up in TVA's books, which are forever being picked and pulled at by those who would find some bookkeeping flaw.

A second direct benefit is low-cost power in quantity. Without TVA power, the aluminum to build 50,000 airplanes a year during the war could never have been produced. If TVA had not been built, the war might have lasted two or three years longer.

These are demonstrable facts. Yet the politicians, goaded by reactionaries, chip away at the base of this monumental achievement.

The other day presidential candidate Harold Stassen felt compelled, in the course of seeking Nebraska's primary vote, to throw off on the TVA idea and oppose a Missouri Valley Authority. He warned against the dangers of Federal control.

In so doing he ignored another of TVA's achievements. That is to put control in an autonomous board situated in the region and tied directly into the interests of the region. TVA's liaison office in Washington has hardly a dozen employes.

Facts are facts even in a political year. TVA deserves something better than this unending campaign of harassment.

U. S. Denied Vote Delay in South Korea

Seoul, Korea, March 30 (U.P.).—The United Nations Commission on Korea today voted, 4 to 3 to hold South Korean elections May 9 despite a request by Korean and United States officials that they be postponed until May 24.

The Korean election committee and United States Occupation Commander Lieut. Gen. John R. Hodge argued that it would be impossible to get ballots to remote sections of South Korea in time for the earlier election.

A commission spokesman said this could be overcome if United States and Korean authorities made the effort.

One commissioner abstained from voting on the issue.

An American Army intelligence analyst said "the trench system being dug under Soviet supervision along the boundary between the United States and Russian occupation zones is "tactically worthless" but that it may have psychological value.

Canadian Rail Freight Rates Raised 21%

Ottawa, March 30 (U.P.).—Canadian railroads today were granted permission to increase general freight rates 21 per cent.

Railroad spokesmen indicated the new rates would go into effect as soon as possible probably within one month.

The Board of Transport Commissioners announced approval of the rate increase following a 150-day hearing. The railroads had asked a general 30 per cent freight rate hike.

The board also ruled that:

1. Rates on coal and coke may be increased 25 cents per ton "across the board."

2. Rates on rail shipments of grain and grain products can not be boosted.

3. Competive rates below normal rates to meet truck and water competition may be adjusted within the discretion of the railroad companies.

The board did not differentiate between rates in eastern and western Canada. However, previous differentials are expected to be maintained as fa ras practicable.

A minority report said the railroads should have been granted a 24 per cent rate rise.

Canadian railroads announced the 21 per cent increase might not be sufficient if costs continue to rise or if the present "unprecedented" volume of traffic declines.

206,000 Japanese Strike For 48 Hours Despite Ban

Tokyo, March 30 (U.P.).—More than 206,000 communications workers in 29 prefectures of western Japan struck for 48 hours today despite an Allied headquarters ban.

Officials of the All-Japan Communications Workers Union claimed the Allied memorandum, which ordered the strike called off, applied only to a nation-wide strike scheduled for tonight and not to regional walkouts. The government insisted it applied to the latter.

James Killen, Allied headquarters labor chief, said it was "not yet clarified" whether the strikes were in defiance of the occupation memorandum.

Earlier, communications union officials had called off a scheduled nation-wide 24-hour walkout to demand wage increases.

Health and Transportation Benefits Sought For Non-Public Schools in Federal-Aid Bill

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

Senator Brien McMahon (D., Conn.) yesterday introduced an amendment to the 300-million-dollar Federal-aid-to-education bill, which would extend school health benefits and transportation payments to all parochial and other tax-exempt, nonpublic schools.

McMahon proposed that a new title be added to the measure appropriating five million dollars to be spent in nonpublic schools for purposes allowed under the Constitution.

Under Supreme Court decisions, these are interpreted to be limited to transportation of pupils, school health examinations and related school health services and purchase of nonreligious instructional supplies and equipment.

Would By-Pass States

States whose State constitutions permit would disperse funds under this provision. If State constitutions prohibit disbursements to nonpublic schools, the Secretary of the Treasury would send the proportionate share of the funds directly to the schools certified by the Commissioner of Education.

McMahon said his amendment called for a small percentage of the total 300-million-dollar fund because the main purpose of the measure was really to help States increase teachers' salaries and under the Constitution any such aid as that to sectarian schools is prohibited. He added that he felt that since some of the funds can be used in public schools for health purposes, the same benefits should be given to all children.

Taft Opposes Amendment

Senator Robert A. Taft (R., O.), author of the bill, said he would oppose McMahon's amendment for the same reason he is opposing an amendment introduced by Senator Forrest C. Donnell (R., Mo.) forbidding any State to use any of the Federal fund for any parochial or other nonpublic school.

Taft said that the basic principle of his bill is that States remain in full control of their own educational policies.

Donnell's amendment on the one hand would interfere with States which do extend certain aids to nonpublic schools, Taft pointed out, while the McMahon amendment on the other hand would help nonpublic schools in States whose people have ruled against it.

Different Aid Formula

McMahon's amendment would also change the bassi on which the formula as to the exact amount of aid to each State is figured by using average daily attendance figures instead of the population of school age. Taft said he did not agree with the average daily attendance basis but would be willing to amend his basis by subtracting from the total population of school age the number of pupils who attend other than public schools.

Taft's formula has been developed so that a minimum of $50 a year in State and Federal funds would be spent on each child, with the Federal Government contributing at least $5 a child to the sum. Some of the poorer States could receive as much as $29 per child in Federal funds in order to reach the $50 minimum.

Senator Tom Connally (D., Tex.) also dropped an amendment into the hopper yesterday. Connally would insert an anti-anti-segregation provision in the bill.

His amendment provides that funds would have to be appropriated "without any limitation of such appropriation or condition inconsistent with or contrary to the terms or purposes of this act."

Connally said his amendment is intended to bar appropriation committees from reporting out limitations of the measure directing that no funds shall go to States where segregated schools are maintained.

So far there has been no attempt to amend the bill by placing an anti-segregation amendment in it, but there has been some expectation that such a provision will be offered.

Hearings on the bill have shown it is in the Southern States where the most desperate need of assistance is felt. The bill is specifically directed at reducing inequalites of educatonal opportunities in public elementary and secondary schools.

It provides that in States where separate schools are maintained for separate races the State must provide for a just and equitable apportionment of funds for schools maintained for minority races. For example, Mississippi would be entitled to $28.50 in Federal aid for each child of 5 to 17 years provided it complied with the terms of the bill. It would have to expend at least $50 in the combined funds to educate each of its children, regardless of color.

Prague Reds Would Deny Vote to Antis

Prague, March 30 (U.P.).—Agencies of the Communist Party demanded today that persons "who have sinned" against the Communist-dominated Czechoslovakean government be denied the right to vote in the May 23 election.

Communist Secretary-General Rudolf Slansky told a party meeting in Plzen (Pilsen) that action committees must be empowered to disfranchise anti-Communists purged from the government.

Veterans of the Czech Legion of World War I and Communist-dominated resistance groups of the second war issued a joint communique demanding the action committees be authorized to nominate anti-Government "sinners" and deny them the vote.

Slansky predicted the election "will be the quietest . . . we have ever experienced." He added that "new electoral regulations, now in preparation,' will deny the ballot to purged politicians.

The Government denounced charges that last month's Communist coup was inspired and supported by Russia.

An 'Inspector' Calls on E Street

By Richard L. Coe

(Reprinted from yesterday's final edition)

"AN INSPECTOR CALLS," at the National, ingeniously knits the familiar situations of a detective story with a melange of the ideas Author J. B. Priestley so enjoys expounding. Two middling acts climax in a crackerjack third and the result is a satisfying, provocative play.

It was Priestley who gave E st. its last play, "The Linden Tree," which came just before our month of "The Chocolate Soldier" and Maestro Spike Jones. "An Inspector Calls" has much more to offer an American audience, its cast is more rounded and it is indeed pleasant to have a play again—and good one—on our single local stage.

The affection of England's Priestley for Time, Philosophy and Ideas as dramatic material is one of the love affairs of contemporary theater. In "An Inspector Calls" he is dallying with them again; the trap he has set them in works quietly and slowly, but it is certainly a clever one.

As the curtain rises we are in an English manufacturing town in 1912. A smug, well-to-do family is at the end of a dinner announcing the engagement of the daughter of the family to a young man whose family has won a bit more of the purple of commerce than the one he is marrying into. Her father is hopeful of knighthood; her mother is active in charity; her brother is a confused wastrel.

Into this group comes a police Inspector with the news that a girl has committed suicide. "What has this to do with them?" they all ask. He shortly shows them. The suicide once worked for the father, but lost her job when she wanted 25 shillings a week instead of 22. She lost her job in a dress shop because the daughter had been displeased with her attitude. At one time the daughter's fiance had kept her because he felt pity for her lonely poverty. At another the son of the family had met her, ruined her, stole from his father to try to help her, but had gratefully accepted her insistence that he not marry her. The mother had influenced her charity board to turn down the girl's request for aid.

Double-Twist Finale

All this is revealed with a leisure that recalls similar plays of two generations ago. But Priestley has a third act with a double twist; it would mar the play's effect to tell you exactly what does happen. You are free to guess and probably will.

What Priestley is saying, of course, is that we are none of us an island—that each thing we do to another person has incalculable effects, on them and ultimately on ourselves. Playwright Priestley is above all a talker, but he also is a shrewd craftsman.

As the Inspector, Thomas Mitchell, on his return to the stage after a dozen Hollywood years, gives a deceptively simple performance. Playing straightman to conscience isn't easy. Mitchell does it by underplaying which contrasts brilliantly with the roast beef perfection of Melville Cooper as the famous family head. Theirs are two superlatively complementary performances.

John Buckmaster is effective as the son-in-law-elect who thinks he has the answer to the riddle and Rene Ray, who was so good in the otherwise negligible "If Winter Comes," is telling as the daughter.

"AN INSPECTOR CALLS." Courtney Burr and Lassor H. Grosberg present a play in three acts by J. B. Priestley. Settings, costumes and lighting by Stewart Chaney. Directed by Sir Cedric Hardwicke. At the National Theater.

THE CAST:

Arthur Birling	Melville Cooper
Gerald Croft	John Buckmaster
Sheila Birling	Rene Ray
Sybil Birling	Doris Lloyd
Edna	Patricia Marmont
Eric Birling	John Merivale
Inspector Goole	Thomas Mitchell

John Merivale, whose voice is fine, is rightly taut as the son and Doris Lloyd is the mother.

Sir Cedric Hardwicke's direction is as leisurely and quietly pitched as the play itself and Stewart Chaney's production details are expertly exact. "An Inspector Calls" holds its own as quiet tour-de-force.

THE YOUNGER SET: Arlington High students are offering "You Can't Take It With You" Thursday and Friday nights in the Washington-Lee Auditorium at 8 o'clock, under the direction of R. C. Cancer Clinic Opens; Drive Begins Today

The response to the opening of a new cancer detection clinic at Doctors Hospital yesterday provided an appropriate keynote for the launching today of the American Cancer Society's annual funds drive.

When the clinic opened at 9 a. m. yesterday requests for appointments poured in—so many that the clinic's telephone had to be cut off temporarily.

The American Cancer Society campaign, to continue through April, seeks $16,042,000 for research, cancer education and medical services.

The District chapter of the society will open its drive for $175,000 tonight at 7:30 with a rally at Constitution Hall.

As a special feature, Dennis Day and his supporting cast will present from the stage the weekly radio program, "A Day in the Life of Dennis Day."

Actresses Nancy Carroll and Ruth Chatterton will also appear at the rally.

An imposing array of speakers will be heard, among them House Speaker Joseph W. Martin, Dr. Vannevar Bush, chairman of research and development of the National Military Establishment, and Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

The clinic which opened yesterday on the first floor of the new Doctors Hospital medical center building, 915 19th st. nw., in its first day received enough calls for appointments to keep it busy for the next two and a half months.

The clinic will hold three examination periods each week, from 9 a. m. to noon and from 1:30 to 4:30 p. m. on Mondays, and from 1:30 to 4:30 p. m. on Thursdays. About 15 persons will be examined during each period.

Sales Light Near Deadline For Auto Tags

Midnight tonight is the deadline for District and Maryland motorists for driving on their old license plates.

Despite that, however, yesterday's over-the-counter sales of new tags were reported relatively light.

For the District, Traffic Director George E. Keneipp said yesterday's sales total of 4036 sets of plates proved to be the "quietest day-before-deadline" in the department's 17 years of operation.

Montgomery County, Md., sales yesterday totaled 1300 sets of plates, 150 more than Monday. Total sales to date for the county are now 9500.

In Virginia, motorists still have until April 15 to obtain their 1948 license tags. Fairfax County sales are running about 15 per cent over this time last year. Arlington County has issued nearly 15,000.

Jersey City War Veterans Picket Second Russian Ship

Jersey City, N. J., March 30 (AP).—Catholic War Veterans began picketing a second Russian freighter, the Volga, today—their lines set up a half mile from the pier where the vessel is docked.

Thomas J. Carlin, Hudson County commander of the CWV, first to appear to picket, said he would not withdraw his pickets this time in "a fight to the finish against shipment of war-potential" goods to the Soviet Union.

Two gangs of stevedores of the International Longshoremen's Association (AFL), totaling 62 men, respected the CWV picket lines and did not go to work loading the vessel.

Carlin said pickets would continue "until either the Red ships leave the port or the Government does something to put an immediate stop to these exports."

The pickets were seeking to prevent longshoremen from entering the gates to load the Russian vessel. Comment from the longshoremen's union was not immediately available.

The CWV drew Nation-wide attention to the Soviet-bound shipment of mechanized equipment by picketing a Russian freighter, last week.

Surplus Machine Tools May Go to Finland

Cincinnati, March 30 (AP).—The War Assets Administration has no objection to accepting a $50,000 order from Finland for machine tools "if our Army and Navy have no need for them," Harry E. Ritter, regional director of the WAA office here, announced today.

Cancellation of the order by the regional office here was announced yesterday by H. B. Doty, director of the WAA's customer service center at Dayton, Ohio, where the order was placed.

Doty said the official reason given for the cancellation was "because the tools had not been first offered to the Army and Navy," but added that unofficially there was "a suspicion that the material might fall into the hands of a power that should not have them."

Ritter said, however, the WAA had no fears that any country but Finland would use the tools, which include lathes and special machinery for making gun sights.

"Doty had absolutely no authority to make such statements," he declared.

Ritter said if the Army and Navy did not want the tools, the WAA would accept the Finnish government's sealed bid for them.

22 Stray Dogs Shot in Town's 'Open Season'

Open season on stray dogs which have been "roaming in wolf-like packs and demoralizing" the Potomac Heights housing project at Indianhead, Md., is nearing its end—with 22 shot dead and only four strays still at large.

So George Schwartz, project manager, reported last night. He said a female dog had been an effective decoy in rounding up one pack, seven strong.

The strays are unwanted, left behind by former tenants, he said. Some have gone mad, howl all night, bite children and upset garbage cans, Schwartz declared, adding that the "open season" is at request of tenants and the Charles County Health Department.

The project manager said tenants were warned to keep their dogs tied up or in the house before the gunning began. He said Charles County has no dog catcher and State Police and Deputy Sheriff have approved the program.

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

ORLANDO, FLA., March 29.—That big Chicago bookmaker, whose pennant-race odds are circulated widely has posted the Yankees and Red Sox as cofavorites in the American League at odds of 5 to 6. If he can balance his books, his racket is better than a license to steal.

POVICH

There is no quarrel with his estimate of the Yankees and Boston as equal threats to win the pennant, only an oracle could separate them, but those prices he quotes are downright usurious.

If you like the Yankees, you lay six bucks to his five, and the same goes if you prefer the Red Sox. If he does no business on any of the other clubs in the race he has a neat profit of 8½ per cent on the whole volume of betting. And if he confines his business to the Red Sox and Yankees at those odds, he can take down 100 per cent of all the betting if any other club wins the pennant. All he needs is customers. And plenty of those are assured, because Americans will always bet, and they can't shop around because his odds are standard. He can manipulate until he has approximately equal amounts bet on the Yankees and Red Sox.

I WAS NO GREAT hand at arithmetic in the Bar Harbor, Me., public schools, but I can tally up the bookie's profits when he lets you lay 6 bucks to his $5 on either of two clubs. It amounts to a $20 profit for him on every $240 he handles or, as I was saying, 8½ per cent with no risk for him.

Suppose Joe Blow likes the Yankees and lays the bookie $120 to $100—that's 6 to 5. And suppose Joe Doakes likes the Red Sox and lays the bookie $120 to $100, too. That's $240 he's handling without putting up a nickel. He pays off the winner $100 plus the $120 that was posted by the winner, and pockets the rest of the bettors' original $240, or 20 bucks. Like a restaurant, a clothing store or a ball club owner, he needs only customers to make a wonderful living, with the advantage of not investing capital of his own.

He must have one asset, though, a reputation for trustworthiness. He fouls his own luxurious nest if he isn't reliable. But the big bookies always pay off with a smile. And why not? They're paying off with somebody else's money, and you're a customer they want to see again.

IT'S EVEN MORE intriguing when you consider the prices he has posted on the complete American League race. After the Yankees and Red Sox at 5 to 6, he had the Detroit Tigers at 8 to 1, the Indians at 20 to 1, Philadelphia at 25 to 1, Washington at 40 to 1, and the White Sox and Browns at 100 to 1.

That's what the bookmaking trade calls a pretty nice book—for the bookie. It can't stand much investigation, though, by the bettors who insist on getting a good gamble. Even before the days of mutuel machines at the New York tracks, when the betting was done orally with the bookmakers at their own odds, the race bookies never dared to present a set of prices as one-sided in their favor as the baseball bookies are now doing.

The race bookies had it worked out to a point where, normally, if they could get proportionate bets on all the entries in a race, they stood to win about $15 on every $115 worth of betting. They called it a 115-to-100 book. And nobody quarreled much with that edge in favor of the race bookies. But the baseball bookies are grabbing off more than that.

AT THE PRICES this guy quotes, it adds up to a 134-to-100 book in favor of the bookmaker. That's not saying there may not be a good bet somewhere in the list, and the Cleveland club, for example, may be what is called an overlay, at 20 to 1. But if the bookie lures enough customers to balance the betting on all eight clubs proportionately, he'll come off with $34 on every $134 worth of betting he attracts.

Washington's biggest and best bookmaker gives his customers a better break. He doesn't insist on those 6 to 5 prices but gives the bettor a nicer shake at 11 to 10, where possible. Because some bettors are sharp and know where they can get the best prices, he does a steady and profitable business.

Baseball bookmaking is getting to be an even more attractive profession than race booking. The racing customers are too often wiped out by lack of winners. Baseball bettors are rarely risking their money on more than a 9-to-5 shot, and don't encounter the same long losing streaks as the race-betting guys. Thus, they're steadier customers.

Masterson Shows Zip As Nats' 'A' Squad Wins

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

Orlando, Fla., March 30.—At a time when the Washington pitching was beginning to appear highly dubious this spring, the welcome hiss of Walter Masterson's fast ball was heard today in the Nats' camp.

For the first time since he reported a month ago, Masterson took the mound and breezed through three innings of an intrasquad game. Behind Masterson and Milo Candini, the regulars whipped the rookies, 4 to 1, but more important was the individual performance of Masterson.

Masterson Beams

Showing no sign of the shoulder lameness that had sidelined him from the start of training, Masterson cut loose with his fast ball, and even spun up some curves. He allowed two hits and one unearned run in the three innings he toiled, and Manager Joe Kuhel beamed.

Masterson himself was very happy about the whole thing. He was smiling as he picked up his jacket and headed for the clubhouse at the end of his chore. "I've been praying for this," he said. "No pain, nor soreness. And I was cutting loose, too."

He was a trifle wild, though, issuing two walks and having trouble with his control otherwise. "I don't care about that," said Kuhel. "It was to be expected from a fellow who hadn't pitched for a month. Spring training started for Masterson today, and he ought to come along fast."

Candini Overlooked

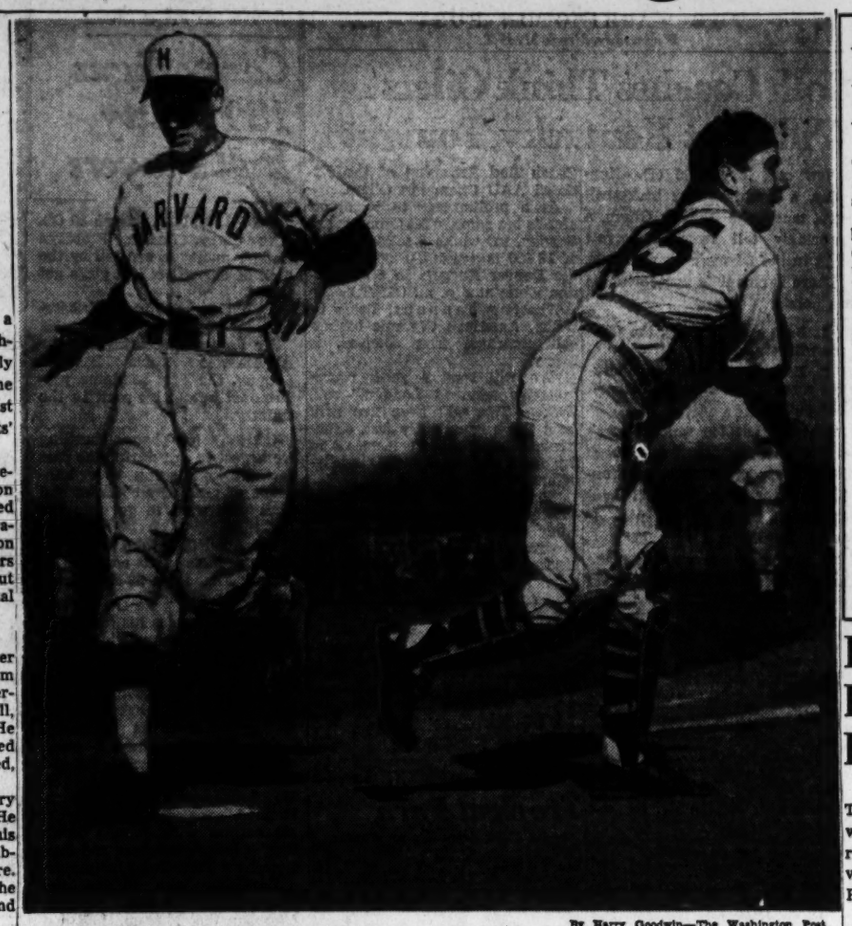
There was another item that brightened the Nats' pitching prospects which to this point have been marked by the sour performances of three veterans, Early Wynn, Mickey Haefner and Ray Scarborough. Milo Candini turned in another slick job.

Candini pitched the last six innings, allowing the rookies only two hits, shutting them out, and walking only one man. He lifted himself several notches in the rating of the Washington pitchers and may be qualifying for a starting job.

He hasn't had a poor outing in a half dozen appearances, in contrast to the ineffectiveness of three men previously rated above him.

The regulars won the game against Mickey Haefner in the second and third innings, when they got three runs, helped by the four walks Haefner issued in the six innings he worked. They raked him for 10 hits. Singles by Mickey Vernon and Al Evans, and Masterson's double produced two runs. Tom McBride drove in another.

IT WAS A spirited contest, with Jake Early's chatter behind the bat for the Rookies rending the morning air . . . Early also weighed in with a hefty double to the left wall that produced the Rookies' only run of the game . . . Rookie Shortstop Sam Meeks was relieved early because of a bruise on his throwing hand . . . Rookie Dick Welteroth, who held the Regulars to two hits and no runs in the last two innings, is making a stab for retention by the club . . . Clyde Milan, coaching at first base, hit the dirt for the first time since 1918, when Eddie Lyons' wild throw spilled him . . . Al Kozar went hitless, chiefly because Rookie Right Fielder Larry Drake raced far into right center for a one-handed grab of his long drive . . . Tomorrow the Nats take on the Kansas City Blues of the American Association, managed by Dick Bartell, at Tinker Field.



By Harry Goodwin—The Washington Post

ON A DOUBLE PLAY—J. Coppinger, Harvard captain and third baseman, is out at the plate and Dick Johnston, Maryland catcher, throws to first base to complete a double play in the sixth inning of yesterday's college game at College Park. The teams played 13 innings to a 3-3 tie

Hoyas Bow To Spiders In Opener, 11-4

Richmond, Va., March 30.—Georgetown University baseball team opened its 1948 season here today dropping an 11-4 decision to the University of Richmond as a result of seven Spider runs in the eighth inning.

Billy Mitchell, a freshman right-hander, went the last three innings for the Spiders and held the visiting Hoyas to one hit and no runs to gain credit for the win.

Bob Gorra came in for Carroll in the seventh with the score tied at 4-4. Two men were on base and one man out. Gorra retired the side without further damage.

Gorra's control was lost completely in the eighth as he walked five batters, gave up a pair of singles as 12 Spiders paraded to the plate. Georgetown's leftfielder, Ray Corley, committed two errors during the uprising.

First Baseman Bob Stephens, Catcher Angelo Setien and Second Baseman Charley Mattox led Richmond's batting attack, each collecting two hits.

Georgetown's big centerfielder, Elmer Raba, was the game's batting star. He connected for a double and triple in four trips to the platter.

Darkness Stops Game

Terps Come From Behind, Tie Harvard, 3-3, in 13 Innings

Maryland and Harvard battled to a 3-3 13-inning tie yesterday at College Park when darkness halted their ball game.

The Terps overcame a 3-1 Harvard lead by scoring in the fifth and again in the eighth, but couldn't push across the big run in four extra frames.

In the eleventh, little Eddie Crescenze gave the Crimson a scare when he stole second and third after walking. The one-man threat died when Crescenze was stranded.

Harvard's Ed Coulson homered with one on in the second to give the visitors an early lead. It wasn't until the eighth that Maryland caught up at 3-3 when Pinch-hitter Bob Bickford singled to drive across Bob Murray with the tying run.

After Maryland's Hal Geatz was tagged for the three Harvard runs in his four-inning trick, Bill Witzel stopped the Cambridge lads for three innings and Joe Fitzpatrick took over mound duties in the eighth and finished strong.

Ducks Unlimited Meets Here Friday

Prominent sportsmen from almost every State will attend the annual meeting and dinner of Ducks Unlimited at the Statler Hotel Friday night. It will be the first time that the national meeting has been held in Washington.

J. A. Krug, secretary of Interior, will be the principal speaker and Senator John H. Bricker (R., Ohio), toastmaster. George Dyer is chairman of the Washington committee. Glen Martin, Baltimore, is regional vice president of Duck Unlimited.

Tickets are available to sportsmen at EXecutive 1741.

Rocky Arrives Here Thursday

He's coming here after a workout at Stillman's gym and has a work scheduled Friday. Rocky's brain-trusters still don't know where he will perform here, but it probably will be at Liberty A. C., 419 9th st. nw.

McLean Juniors Win

GW Opens Today Against Harvard

Terps Lacrossemen Trim Harvard, 11-0

Maryland opened its lacrosse season yesterday at College Park with an impressive 11-0 triumph over Harvard in a rough and tough game marked by 17 penalties.

Giles Freeman, second-team All-American last year, scored two goals and was credited with three assists. Others bagging two goals were Buzz Hall, Henry Lowry and Bob Berger. Scoring one each were Ed Looper, Charles Herbert and Jim Peters.

Catholic U. Boxers Fly to Madison Today

Two members of the Catholic University boxing team leave Washington this afternoon by United Air Lines for Madison, Wis., where they will participate in the National Collegiate boxing tournament. The boxers, Tommy Cronin, who fights at 135 pounds, and Johnny Arnold, 125, will be accompanied by Coach Eddie LaFond.

45th in Row for W&M

Williamsburg, Va., March 30 (AP).—William and Mary tennis team won its forty-fifth consecutive match here today by defeating Cornell University 7-2.

Badly Beaten Baylor Upholds Honor of Texas

New York, March 30 (AP).—The Baylor University Bears are carrying chips on both shoulders today.

Their feelings were ruffled last night when they were drubbed by Kentucky, 77-59, in the semifinals of the Olympic basketball trials in Madison Square Garden.

The Texas quintet, led by Forward Jimmy Owens, Guard Jack Robinson and Guard Bill Johnson, attempted to soothe their tournament nerves by going to see the Broadway musical comedy hit, "Look Ma, I'm Dancing."

The hit song of the show is when Star Nancy Walker sings, "I'm Tired of Texas."

The Baylor cagers had to be cautioned by ushers several times to cease their raucous "Bronx Cheers" in protest against the song or else be evicted from the theater.

Reds Wallop Phils, 11-0, For 5th in Row

Tampa, Fla., March 30 (AP).—The Cincinnati Reds extended their win streak to five today as an eight-run, sixth-inning set up an 11-0 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Herman Wehmeier and Johnny Hetki held the Phillies to five hits.

The Reds drove Schoolboy Rowe from the mound in the sixth and continued to blast against Walt Dubiel who replaced him. Successive singles by Sauer, Young, Lamanno, Adams, Stallcup and Hetki, coupled with two Philadelphia errors and Grady Hatton's three run homer, helped account for the big inning. The Reds scored eight times on eight hits in the sixth.

Bosox Rout Farm

Sarasota, Fla., March 30 (AP).—Boston's Red Sox smeared their Louisville Colonel farmhands in an exhibition ball game today, blanking the American Association club, 13-0.

The Triple-A players were able to obtain only three hits, all off starter Jack Kramer, who hurled seven innings for the Sockers. Chuck Stobbs finished up for the Bostonians and hurled hitless ball for two innings.

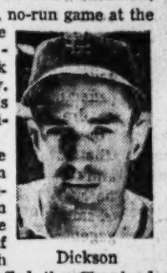
Feat Second Of Its Kind In Spring Exhibition

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 30 (AP).—Murry Dickson, right handed pitcher for the St. Louis Cardinals, hurled a no-hit, no-run game at the expense of the World Champion New York Yankees today. The Cardinals won the exhibition, 7-0.



Dickson

It was the first no-hitter in the spring exhibition season since the late Cy Blanton of the Pittsburgh Pirates handruffed the Cleveland Indians, 6-0, April 9, 1939, in New Oreleans.

Dickson, who won 13 and lost 16 for the Cardinals last year, walked five batters today and hit one. He fanned six, including Linus Frey, Ed Stewart and Johnny Lindell who came to the plate in that order in the sixth inning.

All of the Cardinal runs came in the first inning off the offerings of Bill Bevens, right-hander who hurled 8 2-3 hitless innings in the 1947 World Series.

Stan Musial smacked a three-run homer o: Bevens and later in the frame Al Schoendienst also drove in a trio of mates with a base-clearing double.

It was the first time that the Yankes had been double-blanked since Bobby Feller did it in Yankee Stadium on April 30, 1946.

The Yankees got only one man as far as third, he in the second inning after Dickson walked Joe DiMaggio and George McQuinn.

The triumph gave the Cardinals a four-to-three edge in the spring series with the Yankees.

After the game it was announced that Outfielder Charley Keller, out since last June because of a spinal operation, would be in the Yankees' attack. On that day the Yankees will play the Philadelphia Phils.

Tomorrow, however, the Yanks and Cardinals tangle again here.

Finney Joins Montreal

Fredericksburg, Va., March 30 (AP).—Bill Finney, former University of Richmond pitching star, has joined the Montreal Royals, International League farm club of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Luke Appling Shifts to Third

Phoenix, Ariz., March 30 (AP).—Old Luke Appling, 17 seasons a Chicago White Sox shortstop, is seeking baseball's fountain of youth at third base this campaign.

The shift has been ordered by Manager Ted Lyons, who thinks it will prolong the amazing career of luscious Luke, fixing to celebrate his thirty-ninth (it says here) birthday on Friday.

Swapping places with the two-time American League batting champion will be 28-year-old Floyd Baker, one of the most agile infielders in the business.

Appling's listed birth year is 1909, which gets a wink from people who know Luke well. Somewhere along the line, they say, Appling celebrated the same birthday two or three times.

Luke batted .306 last season, finishing in the league's top 10. His best season was 1936 when he took the league crown with a whopping .388. He won the championship again in 1943 with .328.

Baker, a .264 hitter last year, will have to fight it out at shortstop with Cass Michaels (.273). Lanky Johnny Wallaesa might have a chance if he could improve his woeful carry-over batting mark of .195.

Pennsylvania Insures Boxers

Philadelphia, March 30 (U.P.).—A group insurance plan covering all boxers performing in Pennsylvania rings in the event of injury was announced today by the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission.

The plan, to cover every boxer in a Pennsylvania ring whether or not he is a Pennsylvanian, will provide for hospitalization, medical attention and surgery in the event of injury in the ring. It also includes a death benefit should a fatality occur. The plan is free of charge to the boxers.

Kramer Trims Riggs Again, Leads 40-17

Indianapolis, March 30 (U.P.).—Jack Kramer defeated Bobby Riggs in straight sets Monday night 7—5, 6—2, for his 40th victory in 57 appearances in a cross country professional tennis exhibition tour.

Virginia Wallops Princeton, 15-5

Charlottesville, Va., Mar. 30.—Virginia's baseball team coasted to an easy 15-5 victory over Princeton here today. David Charles, who twirled for seven innings, allowed the Tigers only two hits.

John Gray, Princeton's giant southpaw, was yanked in the second inning after the Cavaliers had registered seven runs, two on circuits smashes by Noe and Newlen.

Five Virginia players were beaned by two of the Tiger twirlers.

Coolidge Meets Episcopal Today

High school baseball in the Washington area opens today. Calvin Coolidge, defending interhigh champion, invades Alexandria to play Episcopal, Virginia's defending prep champion, at 3:30 p. m.

A pair of veteran southpaws will oppose each other in the starting mound assignments, with Ben DuVall of Coolidge facing Henry Schacht of Episcopal. Coolidge's 1947 record was 19-0. Episcopal won five out of 12.

Levin Again Headlines Turner Card Tonight

Dave Levin, windup fixture at Turner's, make his eleventh appearance of the season as a headline performer tonight against Billy (Tarzan) Darnell of Camden, N. H.

Tonight's affair will be a one-hour time limit bout. In the semi-windup, Tony (no relation) Sinatra faces Harry Finkelstein. Benito Gardini and George Flynn engage in a team match against Joe Kamaroff and Gus Rapp. In the 8:45 opener Pat Welsh meets Harry Armus.

New Bethesda Golf Club Starts Work on Second Nine

By Roger Wolbarst
Post Reporter

A 6900-yard championship golf course expected to rival any in the area will be completed by July at the new Bethesda Country Club.

The club, formerly the National Women's Country Club and more recently the Washington Aviation County Club, was taken over by a group of leading Bethesda businessmen in September, 1947, and is already on a firm footing.

At present the club's golf course is a nine-hole layout, but work begins today on the new nine.

Designed by S. E. Saunders, who developed the Griffith Park Golf Center at Los Angeles, Calif., the new nine will be built on the spacious land owned by the club.

F. Irwin Ray, Bethesda contractor who built the Burning Tree, Congressional, Annapolis Roads and Cavalier golf courses, is in charge of the construction.

Under Architect Saunder's plan, some of the present nine holes will be redesigned in addition to the building of a second nine. The course will have long tees on which both short and championship tee blocks will be placed.

Ample practice facilities will also be constructed. The entire course is expected to be finished by mid-July, although the new nine may not be put in use this season.

Professional at the new club is Harry Griesmer, formerly at Burning Tree and Washington Aviation. Griesmer was winner of the Maryland Open in 1946.

PRINCE GEORGES Golf and Country Club women compiled a fine record in tournament play last season, winning four major individual trophies. Pauline Reamy won the CBS trophy; Ora Emge captured the Corby Cup; Mrs. O. L. Young won the NBC Trophy competition, and Mrs. Gilbert Levy triumphed in play for the Washington Post Cup. . . . On the first round played at Bethesda Country Club this year, Horace Lurton, playing with Francis Donaldson and Tom Manning, scored an ace on the 182-yard second hole. Club president J. Edward Williams, who had walked over to the third tee to join the threesome, was right on top of the ball as it rolled into the cup. . . . In two recent rounds at Congressional, Billy Shea went around in 69 and 68. . . . Sixty Congressional golfers are leaving for Mid Pines, N. C., April 20.

Lucky Ann Wins at Bowie on Foul; Jockey Set Down

Sam Luce Suspended For Meeting

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Bowie, Md., March 30.—With the starting gate repaired and functioning smoothly, racing returned to normalcy following yesterday's confusion day program, even if there was a disqualification and a suspension.

The card was ordinary, but the racing was interesting and well conducted, perhaps because two events were being televised.

The best offering on the featureless show was the fifth race in which a dozen 3-year-olds of little prominence competed.

One Length Ahead

In the favored role, the Bobanet Stable miss finished a length in front of Treschic, owned by S. H. Rogers of Washington. Third money went to the Donna Ray Stable's Federal Sweet.

In contrast to opening day when only one favorite won, Monifieth was the third public choice of the afternoon and paid a $4.20 mutuel.

The daughter of Sir Damion and Pharalet performed over a fast (for Bowie) track, going the 6 furlongs in 1:15 1/5. The weather couldn't have been more perfect had track officials ordered it from the Weather Bureau.

Even the stewards were in good form for they made what appeared to have been a just ruling in the sixth race.

Objection Raised

Lucky Ann, owned by L. Silvestri, lived up to her name. She finished second to P. Capuano's Sir Bob in the running. However, the mare was one of several horses carried out by the longshot entering the stretch.

Apprentice Bobby Drury's Lucky Ann's rider, claimed the foul against Sammy Luce, who piloted Sir Bob. The officials listened to both sides and then reversed the order of the first two to finish through a disqualification. They also suspended Luce for the remainder of the meeting.

L. G. Schorch's Burra Peg was third in the running and kept that position after the shuffle.

Lucky Ann's backers collected a $7.60 mutuel. Both Drury and Luce had ridden a winner previous to their get-together in the sixth race. Drury rode R. E. Vogelman, jr.'s Junior Four hame in the second race to put the finishing touches on a $34.80 daily double, started when Mrs. C. O. Ferguson's Open Palm won the first.

Drury was credited with his third winner when he won with Mrs. F. Bauman's Gay Marine, an $8 shot in the seventh.

Luce was aboard the Frances Stable's Play Bob, an $11 winner, of the third event, the 7-year-old leading all the way in the 6-furlong test.

5-Star Staff

Tigers Have Hurling But Need Power

(Editor's Note: This is the fifth in a series reviewing major league baseball teams' prospects for the 1948 season.)

By Jack Hand

Lakeland, Fla., March 30 (AP).—Detroit's five-star pitching staff, faces a back-breaking task. It must make up for lack of power and an unsteady infield.

Despite the mound strength, the Tigers do not appear capable of matching either New York or Boston in the American League race. They may have trouble with Cleveland and possibly Philadelphia although they finished second in 1947.

Newhouser's Ready

Manager Steve O'Neil thinks he has the best pitching in the league in Hal Newhouser, Freddy Hutchinson, Dizzy Trout, Virgil Trucks and Art Houtteman. He also has two kid southpaws up from Buffalo—Ted Gray (11-7) and Bill Pierce (14-8). Stubby Overmire will do spot duty. Al Benton and Hal White will be in the bullpen.

There is only one trouble. Somebody has to get some runs to back up the pitching. Little power has been added to bolster the club's 1947 team batting mark of .258.

At first base, O'Neil plans to use George Vico, a .307 hitter at Portland. He has been averaging about one hit a day during the spring games, but has banged enough long drives to rate over Paul Campbell, up from Louisville.

Eddie Mayo is making a fine comeback to hold his second base position and George Kell, of course, is at third.

Weak at Shortstop

Shortstop remains a problem. Eddie Lake, a holdover with a .211 average, reported late and had seen no action as the club broke camp today. Two younger boys, Cornelius (Neil) Berry and John Lipon have been splitting the work. Lipon hit .295 at Dallas and Berry batted .299 at Buffalo. O'Neil says he hasn't made up his mind yet. Others think Lipon will get the call.

First string catcher will be Bob Swift, a capable receiver, but a .251 batter. Hal Wagner ranks second with a .275 mark and the third string post is between Joe Erautt, who averaged .275 at Birmingham and Harvey Riebe, a .287 hitter at Memphis.

Dick Wakefield in left, Hoot in right probably will be the starting outfield. Wakefield still Evers in center and Vic Wertz is missing fire and there is no indication that he will regain his 1944 spark. Evers' a hard luck ies, has escaped trouble this player always plagued by injur- spring. Wertz, only 23 years old, earned his job by batting .288 for the Tigers in 102 games last year.

Both Coaches Think Oilers Will Beat Kentucky Tonight

New ork, March 30 (AP).—Kentucky, a lightning fast basketball team, meets the Phillips Oilers, a toweringly tall team, tomorrow night in the Olympic tryout finals.

There is complete agreement on two points.

1. Both coaches think the Oilers will win.

2. Both teams will contribute five men to the Olympic basketball squad.

"They've got too much experience and height for us," said Coach Adolph Rupp of Kentucky's national collegiate champions. "I honestly don't think we can win. If we do, it will be a miracle."

"In the long run we will make less mistakes than Kentucky," said Coach Bud Browning of the National AAU Champion Oilers.

As a preliminary to tomorrow night's big game in Madison Square Garden, for which a sellout crowd of 18,400 is assured, Baylor meets the Denver Nuggets in a consolation game at 8 p. m. (E.S.T.)

Whatever happens, Louis G. Wilke, American Olympic basbetball chairman from Denver, is happy.

"We will send a good, representative team to London," said Wilke. "We will have five men from the tremendously fast, offensive-minded Kentucky team. And five from the experienced, tightly-defensive Oilers.

"The other four men to round out the squad will come from the other teams in the tournament—two from the A. A. U. side of the bracket, and two from the college side.

Strike Looms At Jamaica

New York, March 30 (AP).—Approximately 130 horse owners and trainers were warned today to sign a labor agreement with grooms and exercise boys before 6 a. m. Thursday—or face a strike at Jamaica race track.

Jamaica is scheduled to open a 39-day meeting Thursday with the $30,000-added Paumonok Handicap, a 6 furlong sprint for 3-year-olds and up.

The ultimatum was issued by Attorney Bernard Davis, speaking for Joseph Schorr, president of Local 814, International Brotherhood of Teamsters (AFL).

Unless the horsemen sign a collective bargaining agreement by the deadline time, Davis said, pickets will be posted at Jamaica, Belmont and Aqueduct tracks on Long Island. Many horses are stabled at Belmont and Aqueduct and vanned to Jacaica the day they are racing.

The attorney said there were about 800 grooms and exercise boys at the three tracks.

All Use Lipstick

Carey Signs 180 Pretty Ball Players

NEWARK, N. J., March 30 (AP).—Max Carey, former Brooklyn Dodger manager, can tell by the flick of her wrists if a girl's got talent.

Talent for professional baseball, he explained.

He does the scouting for the All-American Girls' Baseball League, the only feminine professional baseball circuit in the country.

CAREY has been shuttling from west to east during the past few weeks looking over hundreds of girls of all shapes and sizes who want to get into the big time.

On April 5, a total of 180 of Carey's finds will convene at Miami, Fla., for a 30-day spring training period.

CAREY confides his technique for picking the pros while holding tryouts here for 100 girls from six Eastern States.

"The way she swings at the ball shows if a girl has potentialities as a player," he said.

Carey is shrewd and quick when he spots a hitter, or a girl with good baseball technique. He looks over heavy horn-rimmed eyeglasses and checks his ratings with Johnny Rawlings, a league manager and one-time New York Giant ballplayer.

Rawlings, who piloted the champion Grand Rapids, Mich., club in the 10-team, Midwest circuit last year, said he tells girls who are surprised at the speed with which the two former big leaguers make selections:

"We can tell in five minutes what other people never see."

HE ADVISED the younger girls to finish school before joining the professionals.

"And learn to throw overhand," he said. "You have to get the balls out there in a hurry."

When they're out in front of the grandstand, the girls, who earn $55 to $100 a week, wear short athletic skirts, knee-length socks, baseball caps and spiked shoes. "Slacks are out, but lipstick is a must," Carey said.

U. N. Is Debated By Catholic Group

Divergent Opinions Voiced on What Is Wrong With World Organization

Participants at yesterday's luncheon meeting of the Catholic Association for International Peace heard divergent opinions on what is wrong with the United Nations.

They also heard a challenge from the Most Rev. Patrick O'Boyle, archbishop of Washington and war relief director of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, who said Americans are "beginning to get smug, to start to settle back into a bourgeois quest for our own advancement and self-satisfaction."

"We permit ourselves many luxuries," declared the archbishop, "while uncounted millions are wasting away for want of the barest necessities of life."

United Nations Debated

James Eldridge, field representative of the American Association for the United Nations, told the CAIP group, meeting at Trinity College, that "there is nothing wrong with the physical machinery" of the United Nations. Thomas H. Mahony, Boston attorney and president of the CAIP, declared the machinery of the U. N. is "entirely inadequate . . . to achieve its purposes," although, he remarked, it seems to be adequate for Russia's purposes.

Eldridge called for a change in the hearts and souls of men, and blamed Americans for dodging their responsibilities and using Russia as ascapegoat for the U. N.'s inadequacies. Mahony, on the other hand, called for a three-part U. N. government with a General Assembly empowered to legislate, as well as the establishment of codes of human rights and laws.

Yalta Agreement Denounced

In an afternoon session on Asia, the Rev. T. A. O'Melia, a missionary of 20 years' experience in China, declared the United States should renounce the Yalta agreement as immoral and as a menace to world peace.

Dr. T. H. D. Mahoney of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, speaking on the U. N. Economic Commission for the Far East and Asia, declared Asia needs more than restoration of its economy, and needs relatively more aid than Europe.

Sandy Is Spared

1200 Md. Guardsmen To Get Pay Increases

Baltimore, March 30 (AP).—About 1200 Maryland National Guardsmen will get raises under the pay increase approved yesterday by President Truman.

The new rates grant guardsmen a longevity credit of five per cent of their annual base pay for each three-year period of service in any branch of the armed forces. It is setimated about 1200 veterans of the Maryland National Guard will qualify for the increases.

Reds Lose Three Towns

Nanking, March 30 (U.P.).—Government troops reinforced by fighters and bombers have recaptured three key towns in the Kalgan-Tatung area and reopened communications between North China and Manchuria through Chahar province, pro-government reports claimed today.

Army Surgeon Bids U.S. Match Total War With Total Medicine

The warning came from Col. Edgar Erskine Hume, U. S. Army, president of the Association of Military Surgeons of the United States. He spoke as Kober Lecturer at Georgetown University Medical School.

"We must mobilize our entire resources of preventative medicine and hygiene," he declared.

"All too often,' he said "our warfare against disease is defensive only."

Colonel Hume, terming war and most terrible of all diseases, said that nevertheless medicine could trace its advances mainly through the "stimulus" of wars of the past.

World War II, he said, was the first war in which the "unseen enemy" (starvation and disease) was less deadly than the visible enemy.

Wars, the speaker said, are not as often won by destruction as by disabling. Measles are more to be feared than spinal meningitis in wartime because, though the latter is more deadly, the former attacks more men, he explained.

Discounting the dread horrors of gas and chemical warfare, though not atomic war, he declared:

"The greater efficiency of modern weapons means more men are injured, but not tha the individual is more seriously hurt. Suffering by gas and chemicals is nothing like that from ancient weapons such as the sword, boiling oil and the battle-ax."

The atomic bomb, he said, may not prove to be wholly a destructive weapon. Use of radioactive isotopes, by-products of atom bomb manufacture, may produce the most epoch-making medical advances, he said.

"Perhaps the day will come when we will know what manner of madness causes man to wage war to destroy his fellow man."

But until that day, he said, "the medical side of war planning must not be overlooked."

The speaker digressed once from his main theme, "War and Medicine," to speak out in favor of the Marshall Plan for European recovery.

"Famines have lost wars," he said, "and famines may also lose a peace."

Montgomery ToLicense All Private Schools

Montgomery County commissioners yesterday adopted an ordinance licensing and regulating all private schools within the county.

The ordinance provides for a $50 annual permit fee to be levied on all boarding schools of more than six pupils and a $10 fee on schools with fewer than six.

The ordinance, effective May 10, will affect approximately 50 schools, the commissioners estimated.

The commissioners, at their regular meeting, heard a suggestion from Moody's Investors' Service, conveyed by County Supervisor I. G. McNayr, that future county bond issues be submitted to referendums.

McNayr, who conferred Monday in New York with officials of the investors' service, said that the firm also suggested the county issue no more bonds until the end of the present fiscal year and that bonds then be issued only in proportion to the amount being retired.

Prince Georges Heads Delay Signing Budget 'til Thursday

Prince Georges County commissioners yesterday decided to sign the county's new budget at 10 a. m. Thursday after delaying signing because of certain details.

Waldo Burnside, counsel to the board, told the commissioners they had a longer period for signing the budget than formerly under an act of the 1947 Baryland General Assembly and that they were not required to sign before April 1.

William A. Carson, board president revealed Monday night that the tax rate would be $1.97 per $100 assessed value, an increase of 2 cents in the present tax rate.

Court Orders Room Renter To Clean Up

James Gilbert, 40, of 53 F st. nw., yesterday was granted a week to get rooming house licenses and clean up two houses which he rents out at 26 and 28 Dingman pl. nw.

"Those are the filthiest places I have ever seen," declared presiding Municipal Court Judge Thomas D. Quinn, after looking at poctures of the two houses.

Gilbert appeared in Municipal Court March 23, charged with two counts of operating an unlicensed rooming house, and one count each of violating health and zoning regulations at the 26 Dingman pl. nw. house. The case was continued to yesterday.

When he appeared in Municipal Court yesterday, four identical counts were placed against him for the house at 28 Dingman pl. nw.

Judge Quin nordered him to return to court April 6 for sentencing after he pleaded guilty to all eight counts and continued his bond at $200.

Gilbert rents the two properties from the J. Merrill Conner real estate firm, manager for the owne. He pays $12.50 a month rent for property at 26 Dingman pl. and rents it out in turn to three families from whom he collects a total of $48 a month rent, it was learned.

Sick Engineer Taken From Ship By Crash Boat

Annapolis, Md., March 30 (AP). Chief Engineer Einar Olson was a step nearer recovery in a Naval hospital today after a ticklish ship-shore operation in the rough waters of Chesapeake Bay.

Hampered by 5-foot waves and poor visibility, a Navy crash boat last night took Olson ashore from the Norwegian freighter Alf Lindeberg.

Despite a 35-knot wind, the transfer was made without incident seven miles off Annapolis roads.

Capt. Mons Angestad radioed Olson was "not expected to live through the night," and added that the sick man had been bleeding internally.

The Navy late today said the nature of Olson's illness was still unknown.

3 Ships to Be Used In Bay Explosion Tests

Norfolk, Va., March 30 (AP).—Three large ships, a carrier, light cruiser and transport, will be used as guinea pigs in underwater explosion tests to be conducted by the Norfolk naval shipyard.

The tests will be conducted during April, May and June in Chesapeake Bay, off the mouth of the Patuxent River.

Ships to be used will be the carrier Reprisal, the light cruiser Newark, and the transport Nigara. The Nigara is a survivor of the atom bomb tests at Bikini Atoll. The Newark is now at the yard in Portsmouth.

Illegal Spending Charged to D. C. National Guard

House Committee Grants $20,000 More After Scoring 'Wanton' Violations

The House Appropriations Committee yesterday charged the District National Guard with "wanton disreard of the law" in the expenditure of its funds during the past year.

The charge was made in reporting out the first deficiency appropriation bill of 1948, including $20,000 for the District of Columbia Guard.

The local Guard is broke, according to testimony made public by the committee yesterday, and estimates it needs $29,500 to keep operating between now and the end of the fiscal year June 30. But the committee said $20,000 will have to do.

Accused of Free Spending

"The officials of the District National Guard made no effort to allocate their funds as required by the Antideficiency Act, proceeded to expend as they saw fit, and now present no adequate excuse for their action," the committee reported.

The Guard had been given $68,600 for this year's operations. But it was not enough because of "extraordinary" recruiting expenses, together with "failure to receive certain revenues from the Armory, according to Brig. Gen. Albert L. Cox, commanding general, and Col. Payton G. Nevitt, adjutant general.

$25,000 Revenues Frozen

These revenues, from rentals and concessions, amount to $25,000 and have been frozen until Congress decides how they shall be controlled and allocated. The District Guard and the District Commissioners have been battling for months over control of the Armory and its revenues.

Representative Walt Horan (R., Wash.), chairman of the District Appropriations Subcommittee, warned the District Guard leaders that when they appear before his unit for hearings on the fiscal 1949 budget, he would demand a strict accounting of how the money would be spent.

"... We cannot be writing blank checks," Horan declared.

Tentative Tax Rise Voted In Arlington

Arlington County Board yesterday voted 3 to 2 to advertise a tax rate increase of "up to 25 cents" in case money to run the county can not be otherwise raised.

Meeting to consider the proposed $8,380,108 county budget, the five board members, however, continued to express hope a real estate tax jump can be avoided.

Yesterday's action in placing the rate increase advertisement was taken in compliance with an ordinance requiring any proposed increase—whether adopted or not—to be advertised 30 days before it goes into effect.

This year the County Board must fix the county tax levy by April 30.

The motion to advertise the possible increase was made by Mrs. Florence Cannon, member of the board, who emphasized the added tax would be applied only if other revenue sources failed. Voting with her, and echoing her views, were Board Chairman Daniel A. Dugan and member Alfred Frisbie.

Opposing the advertisement were members Basil DeLashmutt and F. Freeland Chew. Chew said he felt the jump in the tax rate was not needed to provide what he called a "reasonable increase" in school funds for 1948-49.

The school board is requesting a record $2,444,000 budget which would necessitate a 50-cent jump in the tax rate under the county's present revenue set-up.

Board members yesterday tentatively scheduled a conference April 12 with the School Board to rehash the school's request in light of possible new revenue.

Adoption Fight Goes to Court Of Appeals

Annapolis, Md., March 30 (AP).—Mr. and Mrs. Milton L. Falck of Lexington Park asked the aid of the Court of Appeals today in their battle to keep the adopted child they have learned to love."

The St. Marys County couple appealed for a reversal of Judge William M. Loker's ruling in the county court which denied their plea that a suit by the infant's natural parents be dismissed.

Mr. and Mrs. Myron H. Chadwick of Brooklyn, N. Y., had asked the court to void the adoption decree.

Charge Misrepresentation

They charged Mrs. Chadwick's attorney misrepresented the circumstances when they signed an adoption agreement early in March 1947. This occurred, they said, while Mrs. Chadwick and the baby were still in a New York hospital following the birth.

Fred Gold of New York, the attorney, told Mrs. Chadwick, laws of that State allowed six months before the adoption would be final, they argued.

Gold also used pressure to get Chadwick to sign the agreement, they contended, and when they subsequently asked the child's whereabout, the lawyer refused to talk.

The child, Linda, was formally adopted by the Falcks in St. Marys County last April 15. Her name was changed to Janie Claire Falck.

"If their attorney gave them incorrect information," the Falcks argued today, "certainly this would not be chargeable" to the foster parents.

To make them suffer for actions with which the Chadwicks charged Gold "would indeed be a preposterous principle of law," counsel for the Lexington Park couple asserted.

In their petition to reopen the case, the Chadwicks said they had lived apart for about six months prior to the child's birth. Mrs. Chadwick had filed a suit for separation, and during this period she consulted Gold about an adoption of her yet unborn baby.

The child was born March 1, 1947, attorneys said. Two days later Mr. and Mrs. Chadwick reconciled, but Gold took the child to his own home and turned her over to the Falcks.

Policeman Cleared In Assault Case

Martinsburg, W. Va., March 30.—Charges of assault and battery against City Policeman John S. Martin were dismissed by Magistrate King Larkin after a hearing yesterday. They were brought by Samuel R. Barrett who, in a preliminary hearing before Larkin, was held for the Berkeley County grand jury on charges of obstructing an officer in the performances of his duty. Barrett was released under bond.

The double charges grew out of Martin's action in arresting Barrett for drunkenness and disorderliness March 20.

Va. Assembly Votes Sine Die Adjournment

Richmond, Va., March 30 (AP).—The Virginia General Assembly adjourned sine die today when lack of a quorum blocked action to revoke a previous resolution ordering an investigation of Richmond Newspapers, Inc.

After routine business of signing bills had been completed, Delegate Edmund T. Dejarnette of Hanover asked consideration of his resolution to rescind the previous action of the House.

Delegate Samuel W. Swanson of Pittsylvania, author of the original resolution of investigation, told the House he would leave the question to the membership. Delegate Paul Crockett of York in a vigorous speech of criticism of Richmond's newspapers, said he would support the Dejarnette resolution provided an amendment which he had offered was accepted.

At this point Delegate John B. Boatwright of Buckingham suggested the absence of a quorum. When others attempted to gain the floor Delegate Albert O. Boschen of Richmond insisted that there was no quorum. Speaker Massenburg ruled the point made by Boatwright was proper and that no quorum was present.

Delegate E. T. Haynes of Richmond who had announced he would offer a resolution to clarify the action of House members in voting themselves a $300 expense allowance, sought to speak on personal privilege. When Speaker Massenburg ruled this was out of order, Haynes insisted his resolution should have been read before Dejarnette's. The speaker said Dejarnette had asked consideration of his resolution but that Haynes had not done so until after the absence of a quorum was suggested.

Haynes asked if a quorum had been present during the entire session today. Floor Leader E. Blackburn Moore replied that the question had not been raised until the present time.

Moore moved to adjourn sine die and the House adopted his motion.

Cumberland Idle Pay Claims Hit 5-Year High

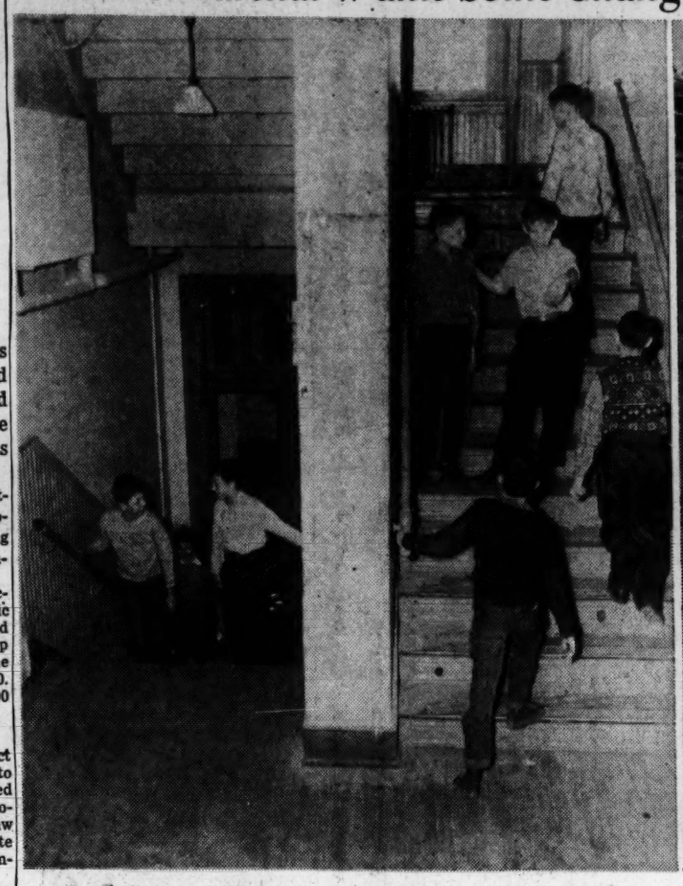
Cumberland, Md., March 30 (AP).—More persons have applied for unemployment compensation here in recent days than at any time in the past five years.

With more than 1600 idle this week at the plant of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Co., an estimated 1200 have applied Friday, yesterday and today.

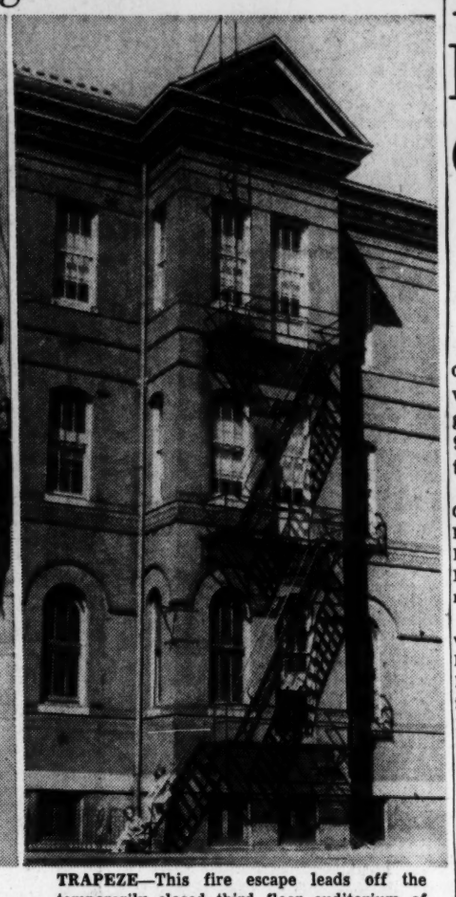
The last time there was such a rush was in June, 1943, when approximately 5000 employes of the Celanese Corp. of America sought compensation following an explosion at the plant.

Kelly officials say production has been cut about 80 per cent this week but a four-day week will be resumed Sunday.

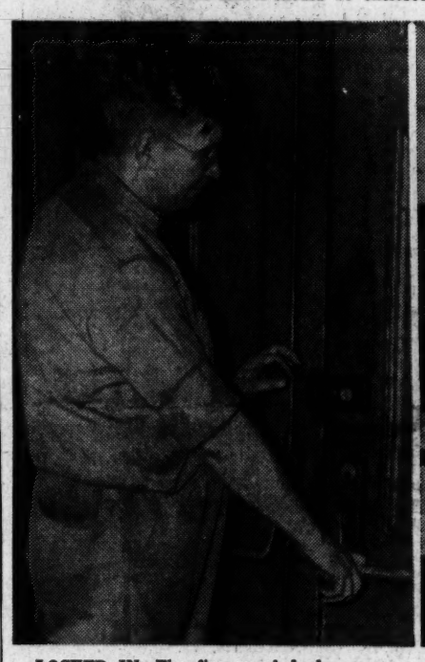
The Fire Marshal Wants Some Changes Made



OPEN STAIRWAYS—One of the major targets in the report of the District fire marshal on hazardous conditions in District schools was Hine Junior High School, 7th and C sts. se. Open stairways in this half-century-old section of the school should be enclosed by fire doors



TRAPEZE—This fire escape leads off the temporarily closed third floor auditorium of the school. Neighborhood children like to swing on it and it is an entry to the much burglarized school. The fire marshal says abandon the auditorium and take down the fire escape



LOCKED IN—The fire marshal also complained about defective panic bolts—the rod-like levers that open doors from the inside. School Engineer James A. Johnson shows how doors now must be locked

The Washington Post by Henry Rohland

MAIN CORRIDOR—Hine actually is three buildings. Old Eastern High and Towers Elementary School were joined together to form Hine. To get from one building to another students must walk through this class in homemaking. Hampering school officials in meeting the fire marshal's recommendations has been the cost of bringing old building up to modern standards

Commission Opposes Plan For Tract Use

Opposition was voiced yesterday by Prince Georges County Commissioners to the National Capital Park and Planning Commission proposal that a 1200-acre tract at Greenbelt be used as a regional recreation area.

Harry Boswell, jr., chairman of the Prince Georges division of the Metropolitan Home Builders Association, and R. M. Watkins, a member of the association's board of directors, appealed to the commissioners for support in a campaign for sale of the acreage for private development.

The commissioners agreed to urged such a source on Senators and Representatives from Maryland, declaring they believed enough parks had been provided in the county.

The commissioners added that they felt taking the land from private development would further reduce the county's tax base.

Six residents from Whitfield rd. between Defense Highway and the Ardmore-Ardwick rd., urged improvement of their road, authorized in the secondary road program but being held up by failure to obtain several rights of way. They urged that the road be built and that narrow strips be left where rights of way had not been obtained.

The commissioners announced a public hearing will be held at 11 a. m., April 27, on a petition of residents of Pine Crest on Eastern ave. near Takoma Park, Md., for creation of a special improvement district.

DPs Confess Killing Two U. S. Soldiers

Munich, Germany, March 30 (AP).—Two displaced persons have confessed they slew two American soldiers because of jealousy over the affections of a Gypsy girl, the United States Army criminal investigation division announced today.

D. A. Gallant, Munich chief of the CID, said a Gypsy girl named Sonya is held as a material witness in the killing of Pvts. Robert D. Graves, of 1019 Westland st., Baltimore, Md., and Solomon D. Booker.

Fire Hazard Survey Starts On 4 D. C. School Auditoriums

Auditoriums in four District public schools were placed under scrutiny by the District building inspector and the fire marshal yesterday to determine if they are safe for occupancy.

Both L. D. Walker of the building inspector's office and Lieut. Charles Laschalt, representing the fire marshal, said they will return to the schools later this week to make additional surveys.

Walker and Laschalt toured the schools with members of the buildings and grounds committee of the Board of Education, Superintendent of Schools Hobart M. Corning; Merrel A. Coe, municipal architect, and Archie G. Hutson, director of construction.

Two of the auditoriums, Hine Junior High School, 7th and C sts. se., and Sumner Elementary School, 17th and M sts. nw., were closed three weeks ago by Dr. Corning on the recommendation of the fire marshal.

The auditoriums are located on but not fireproof, school buildings. the third floors of the fire resistant.

The other two schools visited yesterday, Bell Vocational, 7th and O sts. nw., and Terrell Junior High School, 1st and M sts. nw., also have third floor auditoriums and are not fireproof.

Corning said that until he receives a report from the building inspector and the fire marshal, Hine and Sumner will remain closed, but that Terrell and Bell auditoriums will continue in use.

50 Brush Fires Plague Area; Barn Burned in Montgomery

A frame barn burned to the ground yesterday in nearby Montgomery County while firemen of greater Washington were kept busy battling more than 50 brush fires.

The barn, located on the George R. Shields estate on Graycock dr. off Colesville rd. in Silver Spring, was destroyed early in the afternoon. Chief Charles Deffenbaugh of the Silver Spring Volunteer Fire Department estimated that damage to the property amounted to about $2000.

In the District, firemen quelled 17 blazes between 8 a. m. and 4:30 p. m. No property damage was reported.

In Montgomery County, 15 fires were reported during the day. Most serious of the blazes burned over 50 acres between Rockville pike and Viers Mill rd. east of Rockville.

Residents of Twinbrook subdivision became apprenhensive when the flames, attacking a timbered area, began to spread and they sent a bulldozer to assist. Firemen credited the bulldozer with saving the home of Brooke Edmonston on Rockville pike.

Prince Georges County fire companies reported 15 brush fires, none of them serious, and two minor blazes were reported in Alexandria.

The most serious of four fires in Fairfax County burned more than 15 acres of young timber near Herndon.

In Arlington, three companies turned out about 3 p. m. to fight a brush and forest fire that blazed up at the end of N. 25th st. near Military rd. It was brought under control in two hours.

Baltimore Holdup Suspect Arrested

Baltimore, March 30 (AP).—The FBI today announced the arrest in Los Angeles of Nicholas (Dodo) Tenace, sought for almost two years in connection with two "strip tease" robberies here.

He was charged with assault and robbery a few days after five armed men walked into the Century Athletic Club here on July 4 two years ago and got at least $1170 from a dozen victims.

Tenace, 40, has been described as the "finger man" in the Century holdup and a similar raid a year earlier on the Independent Democratic Club in the outskirts. In both cases, the victims were ordered to remove their trousers, which were knotted to prevent pursuit.

House Group Boosts Funds For Howard U.

Increased contract authorizations to meet rising costs were granted Howard University for two new building projects yesterday by the House Appropriations Committee.

The committee, however, rejected similar proposed boosts in authorization for the District school construction program and two other local projects.

In reporting out the first deficiency bill of 1948, the committee approved a lone District government item for more funds—$60,000 to replenish money used to clear the winter's unusually heavy snowfall.

To meet what was described as a critical situation at a student-jammed Howard University, the committee more than doubled the limit of expenditure for three new buildings, an engineering school and two dormitories. To the $1,378,000, the Federal university had already been given for the project, the committee added a contract authorization for $1,706,000 more.

The District Commissioners sought a similar authorization increase in the school construction program to meet the rising costs of building. Present authorization fo rthe program is $4,941,000. The Commissioners now figure it will require $994,000 more to meet construction bids.

Instead of granting additional authorization, the committee gave the District government permission to transfer school construction funds. Thus, if money is saved on one school, the savings can be used for the extra cost of another school.

The committee rejected, without comment, requests for additional authorization of $32,000 for a new police station, to be built in what is now part of the Eleventh Precinct, and of $25,000 for a new laundry at the District Training School for feeble minded at Laurel, Md.

Holmes Indicted In Rape of Child; Garners Charged

Brothers Admitted Taxicab Murders; Fierst Indicted For 2 Robberies

Theodore M. Holmes, 22, of 1723 7th st. nw., yesterday was indicted by the District grand jury for the rape of a 9-year-old girl near the National Arboretum March 18.

The grand jury also indicted George A. Garner, 25, of 28½ Hanover st. nw., and his brother, Lawrence J. Garner, 23, of 2331 L st. nw., for the robbery and murder of two taxicab drivers.

Two indictments for robbery were returned against Mack W. Fierst, 40, arrested recently in Baltimore on a robbery charge and identified in two other hold ups here.

Child Brutally Beaten

Holmes was arrested at his living quarters less than three hours after the brutally beaten and criminally assaulted child was found unconscious in a wooded lot, several blocks from her home. Her left leg had been fractured when Holmes stomped on it during the attack.

Cut and bruised from head to foot, the girl lay semiconscious and in critical condition at Gallinger Hospital fo ra week, but is now recovering.

The Garner brothers are charged with the murder of James A. Hardy, 32, of 647 G st. ne., and Howard Jones, 37, of 417 Irving st. nw.

Hardy was found beaten and shot in the stomach near 1st and H st. se., February 27, and died the next day at Casualty Hospital. Jones was found fatally shot in the head only a half block's distance 8 hours after Hardy was found. Both men had been robbed of less than $4 in cash, and Jones had been robbed of his watch.

Shooting Admitted

The brothers were arrested several days later and admitted they had robbed the taxi drivers because they needed money. Lawrence admitted shooting the men but declared it was accidental.

After Hardy was robbed, George beat him, Lawrence told police. He said he went back to Hardy, who was moaning, to see how badly he was hurt and the gun went off accidentally when Hardy grabbed for it.

The gun also went off accidentally in the second case when he stumbled over Jones, who was struggling to his feet after George hit him with a bottle and his fists, Lawrence told police.

The robbery indictments were returned against Fierst for the $2600 hold-up of Francis W. Feagans, manager of an Acme Store, at 1531 F st. ne., and the $130 hold-up of John S. Ledford, assistant manager of a Safeway Store, at 8th and F sts. ne., last September.

26 Appointed To District Police Force

District Commisisoners yesterday appointed 26 men to the police force, and are expected to appoint 20 others today.

The 46, it was said, are those who successfully passed Civil Service physical and character requirements out of 470 applicants tested.

An estimated 150 applicants among those who failed to win Civil Service certification, however, were said to possess only minor physical defects and may later be eligible for appointment. These included applicants needing tonsilectomies, new glasses, or more or less weight.

106 Vacancies in All

Yesterday's appointments were the start toward filling 106 patrolman vacancies if possible out of a total of 770 applicants passing written examinations. The additional 300 applicants must still undergo the physical and character reference tests.

Filling all vacancies would bring the force to its authorized strength of 1795.

In appointing the 26 men yesterday, the Commissioners decreed the appointments effective "when they shall have taken the prescribed oath of office and reported for duty." Police Department officials said they hoped to place the men in police training by tomorrow.

Doctors, detectives and other department investigators have been checking and testing the applicants since the Civil Service list reached the department 10 days ago. Approximately five per cent of those who qualified physically were rejected for "character reasons," it was said.

Those Appointed

Samuel J. Lombardo, 27; Harry Q. Barbour, 29; William R. Holden, 26; Kenneth L. Knight, 22; Frank N. Manthos, 21; Donald F. Everett, 21; William L. Van Buys, 25; Gene R. Pillins, 22.

Hallmath B. Bernhards, 31; David W. Taylor, 23; Robert L. Smalling, 26; John J. Moriarty, jr., 21; Ralph W. Zoerner, 29; Benjamin J. Chaplin, 23; Eugene P. Smith, 21; Robert A. Bush, 23; Clifford W. Alston, 23.

Reese E. Ervin, 23; James A. Donohoe, 21; John M. Prentice, 21; Leon O. Pinkney, 26; Bernard J. Beckman, 24; Paul D. Lavary, 24; Edward W. Jones, 25; William H. Sampson, 23, and Allen D. Cliff, 21.

Tuck Proposes Gaming Probe At Richmond

Richmond, Va., March 30 (AP).—Governor Tuck today recommended that a grand jury be summoned to investigate gambling in Richmond.

The Governor's recommendation followed publication of an editorial in the Richmond Times-Dispatch last Saturday. He also suggested that the author of the editorial and other individuals who may have information on gambling be summoned before the grand jury.

The editorial declared it is "common knowledge" that bets may be placed "at any of several places" in downtown Richmond on race tracks operating in northern and eastern States. The money wagered annually at the Deep Run races, the editorial said, is "small change" compared to the daily take in Richmond's illegal betting establishments.

Governor Tuck quoted these comments in a letter to Commonwealth's Attorney T. Gray Haddon today, and added:

"If there is any assistance desired, or required, of the Commonwealth in the enforcement of laws against gambling, I stand ready to provide it."

The Governor's letter today to Haddon came as his fourth action against professional gambling since he took office two years ago.

His first anti gambling crackdown came at Virginia Beach in the summer of 1946; his second last fall, when he denounced widespread raffles of automobiles and other prizes, and his third last Friday, when he called upon Henrico County police to enforce gambling laws strictly at the Deep Run races Saturday afternoon at Strawberry Hill.

Hunting Accident

2 D. C. Youths Free in Fatal Shooting

Two Washington youths yesterday were cleared in the fatal shooting of a third while on a rabbit-hunting expedition near Leesburg, Virginia.

Savoy

Victim of the tragedy was Arthur David Savoy, 16, of 114 3rd st. ne., whose death occurred, authorities said, when a 25-calibre pistol went off accidentally as Savoy handed it to a 14-year-old companion Sunday night.

The younger lad, John Peyton of 319 Maryland ave. ne., and John Edwin Klopfer, 19, of 332 Maryland ave. ne., third member of the hunting party, were absolved after investigation by Commonwealth's Attorney Stirling M. Harrison, who told the boys they were free to return to the District.

According to Mrs. Lois Montney, 3914 9th st. ne., sister of the dead youth, the three boys had been inseparable companions since early childhood.

She said they had hitch-hiked to the Loudoun County farm of young Peyton's father, Morgan, to spend the weekend. It was here the accident occurred.

Arthur's mother, Mrs. Theron Lavengood, was prostrate and under a doctor's care yesterday.

Funeral services for young Savoy will be held Friday at 2 p. m. from Lee's Funeral Home. Burial will be in Cedar Hill Cemetery. Arthur is survived by his mother, stepfather and Mrs. Montney.

Moran Elected Mayor

Westernport, Md., March 30 (AP).—Edward S. Moran, a coal dealer, was elected Mayor of Westernport yesterday. He defeated Dr. Lewis F. Engle, 465 to 445. Elected to Council were Clarence McVee, George P. Kight, William C. Ravenscroft and John Matthews.

PUC to Keep Ban On Gas Conversions

The Public Utilities Commission yesterday announced its ban on converting coal and oil heating systems to gas will continue "until further order."

The action made permanent a temporary order issued February 27 because of an expected gas shortage here.

Conversions are banned in homes, apartment and office buildings and commercial houses. Gas heating units may be installed, however, in all but extra-large new buildings.

Washington Gas Light Co. requested the ban February 26 because it said supplies next winter will be sufficient to handle only 14,000 new installations.

To Move 100 Patients

First patients are expected to be moved Thursday into the new George Washington University Hospital, officials said yesterday.

The new 405-bed institution will take patients now being treated at the old G.W. Hospital at 1335 H st. nw. The shift of the 100 patients will be made by ambulances.

New patients, barring unforeseen difficulties, will be admitted to the hospital beginning Friday, the official said.

Cramp Stops Cabbie

The driver, Fayette M. Latham, 52, of 2145 N. 20th st., Arlington, told police he was driving along North Quintana st. Monday when the cramp struck his right leg.

The pain, he said, caused him to swerve his cab into a car parked in front of 1908 North Quantana st., then into a fence in front of the house.

15 Hath April

Rainiest Days Show Up in 24-Yr. Study

To Dr. Charles G. Abbot, the weather around here is just one damp percentage after another.

The silver-haired, 75-year-old research associate with the Smithsonian Institution has been poring over Washington precipitation records since 1924. Yesterday he came up with a 27-day cycle on the probable wettest days for 1948.

His rain table, backed up by some amazing percentage for previous years ,agres with the Weather Bureau. It's going to rain today—or before the day is over.

More correctly, the table shows predicted days when the average rainfall should exceed the average precipitation for all other dates. These rainy days he designates as "preferred" days—not because he likes them but because it is more likely to rain then than on the days not listed.

15 Rainy Days for April

It may not actually rain on all the days he predicts, but if the 24-year study is an indication, there will be higher average rainfall on the "preferred" days than on all others.

His outlook for April is sodden—15 days with rain in them, including the first six.

Dr. Abbot's table is based on the sun's rotation on its axis. It comes out 27.0074 days, if you care for astronomical or sliderule precision. Taking Weather Bureau reports back to 1924, he arranged the days and the weather results in 27-day tables. His graphed lines showing the ups and downs of rain may not follow the true course, mut the contours are the same.

"Gratifyingly Verified"

The calculations of the rain cycle date back to January 1, 1924, now cover 8,777.4 days.

As he wrote the chief of the United States Weather Bureau in 1943 to submit a plot on the 27-day precipitation period in Washington:

". . . this prediction was gratifyingly verified by the event."

Holdups Worry Taxi Drivers

Baltimore, March 30 (AP).—Cab drivers were agreed today that something should be done to protect them from holdup men, but they couldn't agree on what it ought to be.

Representatives of the Taxicab Drivers and Garage Employes Local 426 (AFL) suggested to the Public Service Commission that it ought to require installation of shatter-proof glass partitions between front and rear seats of all cabs.

State Senator Joseph R. Byrnes, representing the Association of Independent Taxi Operators, presented a petition by 460 drivers who oppose the partitions.

They said the shatter-proof glass would offer no real protection, might increase the chance of injury, restrict communication between driver and passenger, and hamper the driver's movements.

Baltimore had 60 taxicab holdups last year.

3 More Indicted In Home Building

Baltimore, March 30 (AP).—Three more building contractors were indicated today on charges of conspiring to violate building codes and cheat war veterans on new homes.

Two city officials previously indicated also were named in the new accusations.

It was the second series of indictments returned by the grand jury since it started an investigation touched off by complaints of more than 2000 veterans that their homes were improperly built and did not conform with specifications.

Those accused today were Fairview Gardens, Inc.; Walter J. and Walter E. Crismer and Eugene P. Martin, officers of the company; Herman F. Lucke, jr., former city building engineer and now a park board engineer, and Milton B. Malan, a building inspector.

Two Parachute As Plane Burns

Rock Point, Md., March 30—Two Navy aviators bailed out of a flaming torpedo bomber before it crashed into the Potomac near Rock Point today, and both escaped with relatively minor injuries, Navy spokesmen said.

They were identified as Lieut. Comdr. J. T. Williams of New Orleans, the pilot, and Chief Aviation Fire Controlman J. T. Carney of Nashville, Tenn.

Carney was given first aid at Physicians Memorial Hospital, La Plata, Md., for a broken nose and fractured ribs.

Commander Williams was said to have been burned about the face and hands.

2 More Marylanders Enter Congress Race

Annapolis, Md., March 30 (AP).—The list of Marylanders formally seeking election to Congress rose to 31 today as two men filed notice that they will be candidates.

Frank E. Vanderhoof of Suitland, in Prince Georges County, became the third Republican to file in the Fifth District for the post now held by Representative Lansdale G. Sasscer, Democrat. Vanderhoof listed his occupation as "advertising and publishing."

John B. Kennedy of Baltimore, a builder, filed with the secretary of State a certificate of candidacy for the Democratic nomination in the Second District.

School superintendents, principals, county and town officials, volunteer firemen, civic and service club leaders, farm bureaus and industries in the nine Eastern Shore counties hav. been invited.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

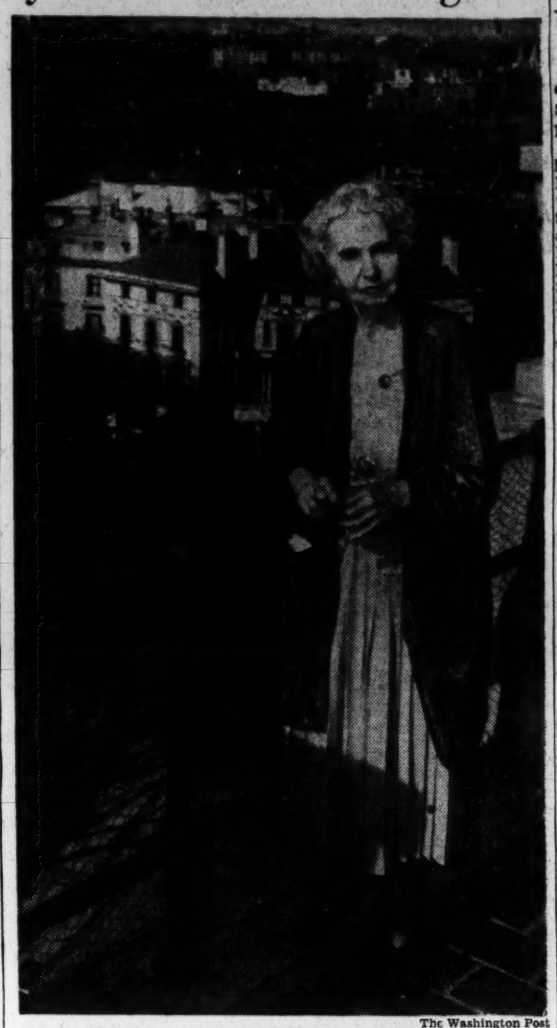
Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Dupont Circle Tenant Ousted By Noise After 6-Year Fight



The Washington Post

Mrs. V. Valta Parma views the vista from her Dupont Circle penthouse which she leaves today after a six-year eviction siege

When valiant Mrs. V. Valta Parma bids farewell today to her "personal heaven" 12 stories above Dupont circle, she would like her many friends to know:

"It took piledrivers and sledgehammers to budge me."

Mrs. Parma, you may recall, is the courageous old lady with the will of steel.

Six embattled years she has stood steadfast against a legal siege to evict her.

In her seventies, she alone refused to move when some 700 tenants were ordered to vacate apartments at 1344 Connecticut ave. nw., to make room for office space.

Not only did she win round after round in legal moves to evict her—she even succeeded in having her rent reduced $35 a month because apartment services were discontinued.

What batteries of lawyers failed to do, the din of droning drilling on the Dupont circle underpass accomplished. She can't stand the noise that has invaded her penthouse aerie. After a vacation in Atlantic City, she'll move to a hotel.

Couple Sue to Stop Sale of House by Daughter, Spouse

Annapolis, Md., March 30—(AP).—Mr. an dMrs. James Scott of Baltimore, who don't want the house in which they live sold by their daughter and son-in-law, asked help from the Court of Appeals today.

In Baltimore City Circuit Court No. 2, Judge Edwin T. Dickerson dismissed their bill of complaint. He said his court could not enforce a contract for personal services and the Scotts had adequate remedy through another court. Mr. and Mrs. Scott claimed personal services and payment of $1994, since they moved into the house at 523 Sanford place in 1941 entitle them to part interest.

That carried out an agreement with their daughter, Helen, and her husband, Paul E. White, they contended.

Mrs. Scott did all the household duties for the two couples until the Whites moved out in February 1947, their attorneys argued. And they paid weekly sums against a mortgage and $824 for repairs.

Mr. and Mrs. White maintained the agreement was not a type to give them equal relief in equity.

Tin, Rubber Studies Slated Here in April

A dozen nations have been invited to sessions of two international groups here next month to study world problems of tin and rubber.

A tin study group will hold its second meeting April 19-24, the State Department announced.

The fifth meeting of the international rubber study group will be held April 26-May 1. The United Nations has been invited to send observers to both sessions.

A bill providing for a housing census every 10 years, beginning in 1950, was passed by the Senate yesterday. It now goes to the House.

Bond Drive Goal For District Fixed At $22,500,000

Washington's goal will be $22,500,000 in the coming U. S. Savings Bond campaign.

Thomas J. Groom, chairman of the District of Columbia Division, announced this yesterday at a luncheon meeting in the Mayflower. Attending were chairmen of various standing committees, members of the advisory committee and other volunteers.

Slogan of the drive, which will run from April 15 to June 30, will be "America's Security Is Your Security."

Girl Accidentally Shot By Brother Recovering

The bullet came from a .45 calibre revolver which her brother, David, age 10, accidentally discharged while playing with it. The two children were playing on the second floor of the home when the shooting occurred.

The girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marcellus Lewis, was taken to the local hospital after the parents had given her first aid. X-rays at the hospital showed no broken bones.

6 Juke Box Raiders Jailed at Baltimore

Baltimore, March 30 (AP).—Prison terms of up to nine years were imposed today upon six New Yorkers who raided a juke box and vending machine collecting depot right across from police headquarters last October.

Five of them and a Baltimorean were charged with engaging Patrolman William McGee in a running gunfight after he surprised them in the midst of their job.

H. A. Jones Joins CAB

Isak Isaksen, 2-War Naval Veteran, Dies

Isaksen

A native of Norway, Mr. Isaksen came to the United States in 1891 and entered the Navy in 1899. He served in the Spanish-American War and World War I and retired as a chief boatswain's mate in 1929.

Mr. Isaksen has lived in the District for the past 32 years. He served for 21 years as a dredge engineer for the Army Engineers and worked on the National Airport and Key Bridge.

He is survived by three sons, Johan L. and Francis D., both of the S st. address, and Walter J., 14 East Custis ave., Alexandria, a daughter, Mrs. Grace Wood of 3903 Burns pl. se., nine grandchildren and one great grandchild.

On the Party Front

Iraq's Envoy Entertains With Farewell Party

By Marie McNair

FAREWELLS WERE said in the pleasantest way yesterday at the cocktail party given by the Iraq Ambassador and Mme. Jawdat. The Ambassador will leave today for New York and Mme. Jawdat who will stay on a few days to pack up their last few belongings will join later in the week. They'll sail on April 10 for home. Everybody at the party went away full of food—those exotic dishes of the East—which means baked lamb, stuffed with rice seasoned with spices, pignon nuts and raisins; cabbage leaves wrapped around seasoned meat and nuts; honey-dipped pastries and American salads, ice cream and cakes.

It wasn't a large party. In fact, not more than 150 had been invited, including members of the Diplomatic Corps from the Near East, a group from the State Department who deal in Near East Affairs, and a sprinkling from resident circles who are the hosts' particular friends.

The Turkish Ambassador, Huseyin Ragip Baydur, was there and the Indian Ambassador, Asaf Ali, who'll be saying goodby himself at his party on April 9.

Greek Envoy Attends

The Greek Ambassador, Vassili Dendramis, was there without Mme. Dendramis, and was watching the scene from the sidelines. Aniz Azer, Charge d'Affairs of Egypt, held serious conversation with Peter Frank, economic adviser to the government of Afghanistan, with Dr. William A. Morgan listening in. Mrs. Morgan was there, too, wearing a hat of natural straw trimmed with field flowers. And Mrs. Frank was enlightening curious guests on the names of the dishes that were being served. The daughter of a president of the University of Beirut, she has lived most of her life in the Near East.

Then there were the Afghanistan Minister, Abdol Hosayn Aziz, the Lebanese Minister and Mrs. Charles Malik; the Syrian Minister, Faiz El-Khouri, and M. O. A. Baig, Charge d'Affaires of Pakistan.

From the State Department were Loy Henderson, director of the office of Near Eastern and African Affairs; Richard Sanger and Mrs. Sanger, Edwin Wright and Mrs. Wright and Gordon Merriam, chief of the division of Near Eastern Affairs.

Geo. Allens Are Guests

The Minister of Luxembourg and Mme. LeGallais were the only members of western Europe's Diplomatic Corps whom I saw, but others there were Mrs. George V. Allen, whose husband until recently Ambassador to Iran, is now Assistant Secretary of State; Justice Harold Burton and Mrs. Burton, smart in wine red hat and suit; Ray Muir, Assistant Chief of Protocol of the State Department, and Mrs. Muir; Mrs. Frederick Mitchell Gould, wearing a becoming pale brown brimmed straw hat trimmed with dark brown velvet ribbons and a brace of brown birds, with a brown frock accented with bronze sequins.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Morris stayed on through the afternoon, so did M. and Mme. Chautemps, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Vennell, Mrs. W. D. Whittemore, Mrs. Hamilton Wright and Mr. and Mrs. Lothrop Stoddard.

Honor Miss Leahy

CAPT. and Mrs. Chester Wells gave a tea yesterday afternoon for Miss Louise Leahy, debutante daughter of Capt. and Mrs. William H. Leahy. The tea was an informal gathering of Miss Leahy's young friends at the home of Captain and Mrs. Wells, from 5 to 7 o'clock.

A few elder guests included members of the debutante's family. Her grandparents, Fleet Admiral and Mrs. William H. Leahy, were there, as were Captain and Mrs. Leahy, Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Marshall 3d and Mrs. Albert Parker Niblack.

Gives Stag Dinner

THE Indian Embassy was the scene of a dinner last evening, when the Ambassador, Asaf Ali, who is returning soon to India, entertained a stag party of 14. Guests included the Italian Ambassador, Albert Tarchiani; the Turkish Ambassador, Huseyin Ragip Baydur; the British Ambassador, Lord Inverchapel, and the Chinese Ambassador, Dr. Wellington Koo.

Others were the Charge d'Affaires of Argentina, Martin Luis Drago; the Minister of India, R. K. Nehru; the Minister of South Africa, H. T. Andrews; the Syrian Minister, Faiz El-Khouri; Associate Justice Felix Frankfurter; the Secretary of Defense James V. Forrestal; the Secretary of the Army Kenneth C. Royall; Loy Henderson of the State Department, and M. K. Vellodi, Secretary of External Affairs in India, now attending U. N. discussions of the Kashmir question.

Honor Mrs. Burwell

MR. AND MRS. Edward Russell entertained yesterday afternoon at a cocktail party in honor of Mrs. Russell Burwell who is visiting here from Cleveland, Ohio.

Zionist Group Hears Plea for Jewish State

By Genevieve Reynolds

"A new State of Judea will be proclaimed on May 16 after the British withdrawal from Palestine," predicted Representative Emmanuel Celler of New York, in an address yesterday at the annual donor luncheon given in the Mayflower Hotel by the Washington Council, Pioneer Women—the Women's Labor Zionist Organization of America.

Declaring that "there is and will be a Jewish State in Palestine," he pledged himself to keep on fighting for an independent, free Palestine. Then he called upon the some 400 women present to do likewise.

Lashing out at the United States' policy on the reversal of Palestine partition, Representative Celler asserted, "We must not cease agitation and protest against it," adding, "this decision on reversal of policy is not final."

"Is President Forrestal or Vice President Truman or Ambassador Austin making U. S. policy?" he asked, sarcastically, "it's about time the people of the United States make the policy."

Must Lift Embargo

Representative Celler said that the arms embargo must be lifted so the defenseless Jews in Palestine could protect themselves.

Terming the United States' reversal of policy on the Palestine partition a "betrayal," Representative Cellar declared, "It is the most immoral act this country has ever committed . . . the shift dealt a mortal blow to the small nation's belief in the U. S. A."

"The United States will ask Great Britain to stay on in Palestine," he continued. "The British may consent reluctantly to stay. If so, the British soldiers will turn against the Jews if they have to enforce a trusteeship which neither the Jews nor Arabs want."

Mrs. Alexander Drazin, council president, and Mrs. Leah Weinberg both criticized the current United States policy on Palestine. Both pledged the organization's full strength to continue the fight for a free Jewish State in Palestine.

Fund Is Raised

In her yearly report to the council, Mrs. Drazin said that the local branches had raised more than $20,000 for the organization's welfare work in Palestine.

Greenway chapter, a newly organized group, was installed during the luncheon, which was attended by the heads of some 10 women's groups and sisterhoods in Washington.

Also featured on the program was a Bible reading by Mrs. David Alpher, a group of dances by Batya Heller and Dorothy Madden, and vocal selections by Mrs. Morris Mazur. Mrs. Louis Goss was piano accompanist.

Rep. Eaton Admits to 80

Foreign Affairs Chief Shows Up for Birthday Looking 20 Years Shy

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

CHARLES AUBREY EATON, chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, celebrated his eightieth birthday Monday. Sam Rayburn loaned his office suite for the birthday luncheon. Three daughters, a son-in-law, several grandchildren journeyed from Cleveland and Buffalo for the occasion. Really touching speeches were made by Mr. Eaton's confreres, and members of his Foreign Affairs Committee presented him with quite the most superb briefcase ever stitched together.

Mr. Eaton, who looks a mellow 60, is as cozy as he is intelligent. He has been a member of the House 24 successive years and, though a Republican, sailed through the Roosevelt administrations without losing an election. Right now he is planning a strenuous autumn campaign in his home district, New Jersey's Fifth.

The most interesting angle of Mr. Eaton's political thinking has been his stand against isolationism—he's been battling against it for 40 years. Through perseverance, first as member, then chairman, he has raised the Foreign Affairs Committee from unimportance to one of the most important and influential groups in the House.

Mr. Eaton is so closely associated with Congress that his earlier career is often overlooked. He was born in Nova Scotia, worked with George Eastman and General Electric, and was one of the first professional labor arbiters. Along the line he was ordained a Baptist minister, but gave up all ecclesiastical activities 25 years ago.

Before Mrs. Eaton became ill, some seven years ago, they lived in Washington at Dumbarton House. And though Mr. Eaton spends much time in the Capital, he writes his wife every day. His eldest daughter, Mrs. Russell Burwell of Cleveland, was born on her father's birthday and was christened with his middle name—Aubrey. His other daughters are Mrs. George His, whose husband is Swiss, and Mrs. F. D. Corey of Buffalo.

Travails of Troupers

WASHINGTON'S JUNIOR LEAGUE is in the throes of rehearsals for the "Follies of '48," its first show since 1939. One hundred and twenty-five Junior Leaguers, their husbands, brothers and beaux are in the cast, and naturally there's been a lot of amusing confusion.

The first rehearsal was called the day after the tryout and many of the young mamas chosen were caught without sitters. Five or six babies were brought along in baskets, a few toddlers were tethered to chairs.

The gents rehearse nights, the married ladies daytimes and the spinsters, right on their toes, rehearse nights, too! The J. L. gal who's rounding up props has had quite a problem. A skit on Henry VIII calls for a brand new bone. She selected one at her butcher's, is keeping it in her ice box.

The Follies, willy-nilly, will open at the Lisner Auditorium April 7 for a two-night stand. The proceeds will finance a child guidance center at Children's Hospital.

The Perturbed Goddess

PEOPLE MUSTN'T get ideas! That shimmering Rolls-Royce which Arkansas' Bill Fulbright was driving around Capitol Hill the other day isn't a new Senatorial buggy—he was merely trying it out at the invitation of his luncheon guest, Baron Beck. The Baron, an honorary adviser to the Rolls-Royce Co., is here to drum up trade by making a countrywide motor tour.

The Rolls, with its new 6-cylinder engine, whizzes along days on end at 90 miles an hour (when no cops are around) so smoothly that its occupants can read or play cards! It costs a mere $18,000, but lasts a lifetime; runs 15 miles on a gallon. The Rolls company hopes to sell at least 500 of the cars here next year.

What interested this strictly unmechanical department was the statuette on the radiator cap. In prewar days a lovely goddess (no doubt a goddess of speed), her wings and draperies swirling in silver folds, stood peering at the road ahead. Now the lady no longer stands, she kneels. Her wings, draperies are realigned, her expression, to us, is more questing than serene.

Mrs. Borsodi and Willis J. Ballinger Wed in New York

Mrs. Lucille Ratliffe Borsodi and Willis Jerome Ballinger were married yesterday in New York, the ceremony, simple in arrangement owing to the serious illness of the bridegroom's aunt, Mrs. I. B. Johnston, mother of Eric Johnston.

The bride is the widow of Victor Borsodi of Houston, Tex. Her cousins are former Governor of Louisiana, James A. Noe and Mrs. Noe of New Orleans.

Mr. Ballinger is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Webster Ballinger of Washington and a grandson of Judge Fran Ballinger of Keokuk, Iowa. The bridegroom is the author of "By Vote of the People."

Mrs. Amos L. Beaty, widow of Judge Beaty, president and chairman of the Texas Oil Company, and godmother to the bride's young daughter, Martha, was the only attendant. Igor Cassini of New York served as best man. After a wedding trip in the middle west, Mr. and Mrs. Ballinger will live at the Kennedy-Warren Apts., Washington.

Capital Kennel Club's Show Will Exhibit Canine Stars

Approximately 700 "elite" members of the canine world are expected to compete for prizes at the National Capital Kennel Club's annual spring dog show Saturday and Sunday, April 3 and 4, at the National Guard Armory.

The list of entries includes many of the finest bred dogs both in this country and abroad. A special attraction will be a troupe of trained Dalmatians, shown by Willy Necker who trained dogs for the Marine Corps during the war.

A distinguished panel of judges for the two-day event is headed by Representative Katherine St. George of New York, who will select the best dog in show.

R. Gordon Barton of Vienna, Va., professional handler and breeder of Boxers, will judge the Children's Handling Class Sunday at 4:30 p. m. This class is open to children over 10 years of age and under 16.

Among Washingtonians who have entered their dogs are Mrs. Robert Low Bacon, Lieut. Col. Cornelis Lang, Dr. John E. Vernsteen, Edward Tamm, C. J. Mack, Dr. Louis A. Cornet and Lieut. Col. Herbert R. Tumin.

Hours for the daily shows and judging are from 12 noon to 10 p. m. Selection of best in show will take place Sunday night.

Ceremony to Mark Okinawa Landing

The Army, Navy, Marines and Coast Guard will attend the presentation of colors at North Post, Fort Myer, tonight at 8:30, honoring the service units who took part in the landing at Okinawa. The Army and Navy Air Forces will present the colors and the Philippine Embassy will be represented by girls in native costume who will do folk dances. Capital dance teams will show Hawaiian and native Okinawa dances.

MRS. SOLOMON ESKENAZI
. . . wore white satin

Miss Shirley May Beasley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Preston Allen of Charlotte Hall, Md., became the bride of Charles William Davis Saturday afternoon at Dent Memorial Chapel at Charlotte Hall, the Rev. Herbert Stanley Costain officiating. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Davis of Mechanicsville, Md.

Given in marriage by her uncle, C. C. Jones of Richmond, Va., the bride wore white brocaded satin with a fingertip veil held by a crystal beaded tiara. She carried an orchid with her prayer book.

Miss Dorothy Miller, in aqua faille, with matching net hat and gloves, was maid of honor. She carried yellow roses in an old-fashioned bouquet. Joseph D. Davis of Washington was best man for his brother and Harry C. Davis jr. of Indian Head, Md., and George S. Davis, who attends western Maryland College, served as ushers for their brother.

Graves—Smith

Woodside Methodist Church in Silver Spring, Md., yesterday evening was the scene of the marriage of Miss Ruth Ellen Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Benson Smith, to George William Graves, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs.

Glogau
MRS. GEORGE W. GRAVES, JR.
. . . evening ceremony

George William Graves, all of Washington. The Rev. Orris G. Robinson officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was costumed in white satin with seed pearls outlining the marquisette yoke. Her full-length veil was bordered with duchess lace that had been on her maternal grandmother's wedding gown, and she carried white roses, gardenias and lilies of the valley.

Miss Arma Josephine Smith, maid of honor, wore pink faille and carried a nosegay of pink roses and blue carnations. The bride's other attendants, Misses Anne Marie Stewart and Patricia Ann Garrett, also wore pink and carried pink and blue nosegays. Ralph Voorhees Graves was his brother's best man and the ushers were Wallace Oliver, William Temple, Covington Schackleford and Howard Surface.

Cochran—Haddad

Miss Corinne Marguerite Haddad and Douglas McCord Cochran were married last Thursday evening at the Wardman Park Hotel, Chaplain Monroe Drew, jr., USNR, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Chefik Haddad and the late Mrs. Katherine Judd Haddad of Bagdad, Iraq. Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jackson A. Cochran of Pittsburgh, Pa.

The bride was given in marriage by her father who flew here from Teheran for the ceremony. Her gown was of white satin with a tiara of orchids holding her veil and she carried lilies of the valley with a white orchid center. The maid of honor, Miss Sally Jones of Pittsburgh, Pa., wore orchid marquisette and the bridesmaid, Miss Claire Anderson of Highland Park, Ill., wore pink.

Miss Greta Kirstein and Jerome Silverman were married March 28 at 6 p. m. at the Willard Hotel. Rabbi Z. Green officiated. Mrs. Silverman is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Kirstein of Washington and her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Barnett Silverman, also of this city.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a picture gown of white satin, with off the shoulder effect, and long train. Her veil of illusion was held by a tiara of seed pearls and orange blossoms, and she carried white orchids on a white Bible.

Miss Sally Kirstein, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and Mrs. Barton Levenson, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor. Murrary Silverman, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. The ushers were Leonard Kirstein, brother of the bride; Irwin Cohen, cousin of the bridegroom; Arnold Metzger, Charles Wallach, Milton Norwood, William Schwartz and William Jaffee of Norfolk, Va.

The bride was graduated from Roosevelt High School, and is now a volunteer worker with the Red Cross. Mr. Silverman was graduated from Wilson High School, and attended American University.

The marriage of Miss Nora Ellen Rome to Solomon Eskenazi took place on March 21 at Hotel Washington, Rabbi Solomon Metz officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Rome of Washington and her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Eskenazi of New York.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore white satin and chiffon with seed trimmings. A seed pearl crown held her fingertip veil and she carried white rosebuds. The bride was attended by her sisters, Mrs. Henry Berger, wearing dusty rose taffeta, and Mrs. Solomon Gordon, in baby blue taffeta. Myron Paul Berger was ring bearer and Marlyn Shulman served as flower girl. Albert Viente was best man. The ushers included Henry Berger, Solomon Gordon, Morris Yohai, Lou Goldschlag, Mathew Marmor and Sam Glovinski. A reception followed the ceremony.

Mrs. Dorohty Ham Weds in New York

Easter Lillies decorated Central Presbyterian Church, New York, for the wedding Monday of Mrs. Dorothy Perry Ham, daughter of Mrs. M. M. Perry of Wilson, N. C., and Rene R Munger of New York and Geneva, Switzland The Rev. Tom Fuhr officiated.

John V. Lovitt of Philadelphia gave the bride in marriage. Her costume was a Navy blue suit, trimmed with soutache and beading, and she wore a large white straw hat.

During the war Mrs. Munger was associated with the British Supply Council in Washington. She also served as social secretary of the Egyptian Embassy. The bridegroom is a delegate to the International Red Cross Society of Geneva, Switzerland.

Just Like Grandmother's Day

Story Book Fashions Capture Brides' Fancy

By Peggy Preston

THE "Granny" idea in fashions has caught on like wildfire in the bridal division.

This June will be full of story-book brides looking as though they had just stepped down from a nineteenth century portrait or an ancient family album. That, at least, was the impression received yesterday at the Bridal Fashion Show presented by Woodward & Lothrop, in cooperation with Mademoiselle Magazine.

Miss Margaret de Mille, one of Mademoiselle's editors, was commentator for the show. She showed her audience, numbering around 400, complete bridal ensembles in several price ranges. Bridal gowns and trousseau and outfits for attendants were modeled in scenes depicting the simpliest home ceremony to an elaborate cathedral wedding. Completing the picture were wedding present suggestions, suitable for couples who will live in small apartments; rented rooms on college campuses; or modern homes of their own.

BOTH style and fabric in the typical 1948 wedding dress hark back to another century. While satin still remains the No. 1 favorite, such materials as dotted swiss, fine dimities, organdies and eyelet batistes are usurping the spotlight. These latter fabrics are being made up in dainty, quaint patterns, making a bride look like a little girl in her first long dress.

One especially lovely gown in the show was of white eyelet embroidered organdie, worn over a pale pink taffeta skirt, the waist bound with a huge pink sash.

Trains are longer this season than last and you will see more and more full-length veils. The finger-tip veil which grew in popularity during the war years, is still classified as "informal." Full flowing, train-length veils give your wedding a definite formal tone and will be worn only in church ceremonies.

Necklines appear to be lower but are not, actually. For almost invariably the off-shoulder bertha is surmounted by a high round-necked yoke of sheen marquisette or net.

COTTON is also stealing some glory from silk and rayon in the bride's "unmentionables" wardrobe. Several gown and robe ensembles of white batiste were shown yesterday and drew considerable applause from the audience. An especially pretty "nightie" was of fine white cotton, cut on empire lines and laced with pale blue ribbons.

Most of the petticoats shown were of cotton, stiffened and laden with ruffles to give fullness to billowing skirts.

New fashion note in flowers was the "stoles" of fern and carnations, carried by bridesmaids. These, arranged in a long, slender, flexible sheaf, were fastened at either end to the bridesmaid's wrists. Several of the brides carried bouquets of white lilacs, instead of traditional roses or orchids.

Judges Taste Buds Teased, Brows Furrowed

Virginia Chefs Battle With Biscuits and Pones

By Lucia Brown
Post Reporter

FREDERICKSBURG, Va., March 30.—When does a biscuit cease to be Southern and become just a biscuit from anywhere?

How much sugar and flour must you add to cornbread before it starts sauntering across the Mason and Dixon line?

It was questions like these that furrowed the brows and teased the taste buds of judges at the second annual Virginia Chefs tournament as they viewed the galaxy of hot breads served up by the 25 competitors.

There wasn't any crackling bread to worry the judges, a lot of whom hailed from way up North or out in the Middle West. But there were buckwheat cakes and buttermilk biscuit, cornsicks and popovers, spoon bread and corn cakes, light rolls and Sally Lunn muffins.

And the jury of gourmets and food editors was dead serious about judging them all from the regional angle.

"It's good," they said, as they judiciously munched a slightly orange flavored, fluffy biscuit or a smooth textured "cornmeal muffin," "but is it really Virginian?"

They cast inquiring eyes at the Southerners on the panel, and even at Ted Shane, "that man" (as Virginians have been calling him) who wrote a recent magazine piece titled "I Hate Southern Cooking."

Mr. Shane it was who said he understood why bread was called the staff of life after biting into an overcooked Virginia cornstick. And he's been attacking his work as one of the judges with the same critical tooth and eye that was bared in this remark.

EVEN the Army was in on the game of tasting and testing the efforts of Virginia's chefs at this unique tournament. Among the judges was Major Harry R. Tully, who is in charge of food courses at the Camp Lee Quartermaster School.

Three instructors from Camp Lee Quartermaster's School competed in the tournament. (All competitors, incidentally, were anonymous to the judges throughout the two-day tasting derby.) Two of them were captains and another a lieutenant—men who are taking the 10-month course which prepares officers for top-level work as army food service supervisors.

"They learn to cook as the first step in the course," says Major Tully. "Then we move on to marketing, meat cutting, mess operation, food saving and administration."

THE THREE ARMY men were competing side by side with 22 chefs from leading hotels and restaurants from Virginia—some of them native sons, some foreign-born cooks who have become adept at the preparation of Southern food since emigrating to this country. At noon yesterday they dished up a luncheon that was acclaimed by many guests and judges as the best to date. It started with Virginia peanut soup, proceeded through baked James River shad and broiled shad roe with bacon to a dessert of fruit cake and ambrosia. Last night's dinner, which immediately preceded the announcement of the judges' decision, included oysters on the half shell, fried chicken, turnip greens Sally Lunn muffins and Shenandoah apple pie.

The tournament, which Judge George Frederick, president of the New York Gourmet Society, says is unique in the United States, is sponsored by the Virginia Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with the State Hotel and Restaurant Association.

Mary Haworth's Mail

For Two Years, Since Couple First Met And Man Promptly Proposed, He Has Been Warding Off Marriage But Wooing The Girl

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: For two years I have been keeping steady company with Roger, who is 10 years my senior. Shortly after we met (I was then 22) he proposed marriage, but has managed to postpone it ever since.

We are both earning adequate salaries and housing for us could be easily managed, so there is really no obstacle to marriage except his attitude.

He is a professional musician who works six nights a week and attends school during the day; so I try not be too demanding and expect nothing in the way of entertainment. Therefore you can imagine how hurt I was to find he was entertaining another young lady on his night off!

He's Impatient With Her Tears

I SUPPOSE I have made my love for him so obvious and smothering that it was a relief to him to get away from me. But do you think he is sincere when he says he loves me and wants to marry me eventually; or to use his expression, when he "feels more at ease about it."

I never question him about his first marriage and he never mentions it except when I am in tears about our situation, whereupon he comments that he "went through all that once before" and does not wish to repeat it.

Is there anything I can do to positively establish his faith in me and allay his fears of remarriage? Or am I being too impatient, childlike? I would greatly appreciate your help or any suggestions you have to offer. K. S.

Purpose Changed By Easy Success

DEAR K. S.: This kind of relationship, all meek tearful frustration and yearning anxiety for marriage on the girl's part, all selfish negligent evasion and double-talk about love and marriage on the man's part, usually means that an affair is sufficient for him, and that he is having it on his terms.

Thus while you make no mention of it, I infer that you are having an affair with Roger; and in so doing, have killed off his original impulse to marry you, which expired as the affair became routine.

In all probability you attracted him so much at first meeting that he felt he must have you at any cost, even marriage, if necessary; and so proposed, thus gaining your trust and making a conquest that after two years seems tedious to him in proportion as your doleful insistence on marriage mounts.

In his dealings with women, Roger has no heart; therefore no sympathy, no code of honor. This we see in his bored reaction to your tears and in his dry references to similar behavior in his wife,—unfeeling ways of putting his ill-used protesting victims in wrong. Also we see it in his jaunty beauing of another girl on his night off, while you sit home, conditioned to expect no formal courting.

Man Is Afraid Of Permanency

IT ISN'T your clinging devotion that Roger is on the defensive against, although of course he would be more interested if you were less so. What he is fighting, actually, with you as he did with the girl he married, is the proposition of settling down to a permanent, monogamous, really responsible love-relationship.

He doesn't want to feel "tied," as he reckons it; doesn't want to feel accountable to a wife either for her support or for his vagrant pursuit of others. He wants to feel free to indulge himself however he chooses; and doubtless he thinks it a workaday asset in his business to be a bachelor of sorts.

He doesn't love you. He enjoys your total allegiance when you don't nag him about his intentions. It salves his ego, gives him casual satisfaction; but there is nothing loyal or reliable in his attitude. Thus it makes sense to be vigorously impatient with his stalling. He is trifling with your hopes; and in self defense, you ought to break with him entirely. M. H.

Exercises to Tone Girdle Muscles

By Ida Jean Kain

What did Venus have that you don't want? The middle-age spread! That divinity looked soft, even in stone.

Spring is no time to have that middle spread—at any age. Let's put some live tone in those girdle muscles. Our model, Barbara Anne, slimmed 7 inches off the middle measurement, bringing it from a bulky 40 to a streamlined 33 inches.

Nature's girdle has a three-way control. One pair of muscles runs up and down, the full length of the abdominal wall . . . their muscular pull is up. An array of broad flat muscles come in on the bias, covering the side-front of the abdomen to hold the stomach flat. And underneath these are transverse layers of muscles. What a girdle! Here are the exercises that will put snap back in this network of muscles. We call it streamlining.

Position: Lie on back on floor, feet elevated to bench or chair seat (to give internal organs a lift), arms down at sides.

Movement: Bring one knee vigorously up toward chest as both arms are raised and stretched back on floor overhead. Pull! Concentrate on the up-and-in pull of the abdominal muscles, pressing small of back to floor. Return arms and foot to first position and continue flexing, alternating knees, 6 counts, later 12, still later 18.

Position: Lie on back on floor, legs elevated to low bench or chair seat, arms down at sides.

Movement: Raise hips up to straight line and fling arms back on floor at the same time. Do not arch the small of the back. Give a strong up-and-in pull with the abdominal muscles while hips are elevated. Lower hips to floor and arms to side. Repeat 10 times, rest, repeat another 10 counts. Relax.

Movement: Now by sheer power of the stomach muscles, come up to sitting position and go on over and touch toes. You can't make it? Then anchor feet under a heavy piece of furniture and try it. Three times only. If you are normally strong, add 1 count each day up to 12. When you are able to do this exercise without anchoring your feet, it may be continued as long as your feet do not lift off the floor.

Here's How to Make Marzipan

About two years ago, someone wrote in to a column asking for directions for making marzipan, a candy. A few days later someone kindly sent in directions for making both uncooked and cooked marzipan. It is the latter that I want so badly and am writing in the hope that you may be able to help me. H.H.

Marzipan can be made by combining almond paste and cooked or uncooked fondant. Make the almond paste as follows:

Grind nuts in food chopper, using finest knife. Repeat 3 or 4 times until very fine. Beat egg white until foamy, stir in sugar gradually, then add nuts and knead until mixture is smooth and creamy. Add additional sugar if necessary. If paste seems too stiff, add lemon juice drop by drop. Let stand 24 hours before using.

2 cups sugar
1 cup water
2 tablespoons light corn syrup

Put water, sugar, and corn syrup in saucepan and stir over low heat until sugar is dissolved. Boil, covered, about three minutes to dissolve crystals that collect on side of pan. Then boil, uncovered and without stirring, until small amount of syrup forms a soft ball when dropped into cold water (238°F.), occasionally washing off crystals from sides of pan with damp cloth. Immediately pour out on large platter, shallow tray or marble surface wiped with damp cloth. When lukewarm (110°F.), work with spatula or wooden spoon until it becomes white and creamy. Add ½ teaspon vanilla, if desired. Then knead until smooth. Store overnight or several days in tightly covered jar before using. This makes about 1 pound of fondant.

Make marzipan by combining equal parts of almond paste and fondant. (If preferred, commercial almond paste can be used instead of homemade.) Mold to represent fruits and vegetables, coloring paste with appropriate vegetable coloring. Add stems or leaves, as desired.

What, if anything, will remove either water or alcohol marks from black nylon velvet? I have had the garment dry-cleaned with no success. M. R. R.

Did you point out the marks to the cleaner when you left the garment and ask him to give them particular attention? If so, and if he still was not able to remove them, it seems unlikely that home methods will be successful. However, you might try steaming the spots over the spout of a rapidly boiling teakettle, then brushing the velvet with a quick, light motion.

Am. Airlines In Red Despite Record Gross

By S. Oliver Goodman

Despite record gross revenues, American Airlines, Inc., yesterday reported a net loss of $2,962,776 for 1947. This compared with a deficit of $375,943 in previous year.

Damon

President Ralph S. Damon in the annual report said that operating gross reached $81,731,000 last year, a gain of 20 per cent. However, operating expenses increased 25 per cent to $86.252,000.

The year's deficit would have been larger, but the airline received a $1,240,000 "carryback" tax credit.

"Despite difficulties of the past two years," Damon said, " . . . there is every reason to be optimistic about the long-range prospects for the industry. 1948 will be another year of transition from obsolete equipment to new aircraft. . . . The Government can aid by expediting the installation of navigational aids, repeal of the transportation tax, and exercising discretion to prevent the certification of excessive competition."

American Airlines claimed to have carried 24 per cent of all domestiee passenger traffic in 1947 and 32 per cent of all cargo by scheduled airlines.

SEC AIDE TO QUIT: Associates said yesterday James A. Treanor, jr., will resign April 2 as head of the trading and exchange division of the Securities and Exchange Commission. Treanor was reported planning to join a New York law firm. SEC officials said that possible successors include Louis Loss, counsel for the divlion and Anthon Lund, assistant director. Treanor, a native of Boston, joined the SEC several years ago after serving on the staff of the National Recovery Administration.

IMPROVEMENT: Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. yesterday reported February net income of $319,782, a gain of $43,400 over the same month last year. Operating revenues of $2,671,,479 compared with $2,447,107 last year and expenses of $2,346,914 compared with $1,175,872. For the first two months this year net amounted to $561,800, a gain of $47,647 over the similar 1947 period. Factors in the improvement this year were a rate inerease which went into effect in January and also an extra day in February this year.

NET DIPS: Reliable Stores Corp. reported net income of $1,843,448 for 1947, equal to $5.26 a common share, compared with $2,000,838 or $5.36 a share in 1946. Net sales of $21,031,930 last year were 8.8 per cent higher than in 1946. President Aaron Straus said that at the end of 1947 the company had no funded debt or other loans outstanding. During the year the company opened a jewelry store in Washington.

WHO'S WHO TODAY: George Romney has resigned as managing director of the Automobile Manufacturers Association to become assistant to president of Nash-Kelvinator Corp . . . Stanley Manville has been promoted to shop superintendent of Fred S. Gichner Iron Works, Inc. . . . Dennis Miller has been named regional manager of The Maytag Co. for District of Columbia . . . H. Struve Hensel, former Assistant Secretary of the Navy, has been elected a director of Colt's Manufacturing Co. . . . Bernard J. Hank is new president of Montgomery Elevator Co., succeeding F. G. Arwood of Washington.

VISITORS: With thousands of visitors in Washington this week, this analysis should interest business firms. The average visitor spends $14.76 a day, divided as follows: $4.43 in stores; $3.69 for shelter; $2.66 for meals and beverages; $1.48 for amusement and theater; $1.18 for miscellaneous items (including newspapers, we hope); 88 cents for garage, gas and oil; 44 cents for local transportation.

Allegany Schools Ask $2,467,658

Cumberland, Md., March 30 (AP).—A proposed school budget of $2,467,658 was submitted to the board of Allegany County commissioners by the board of education today.

The budget is only $66,650 higher than for the current year, but the county, because State aid will be less, will have to expend $106,688 more for the fiscal year starting July 1.

Snyder Denies Gianninis Got Eccles Demoted

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder yesterday emphatically denied that he had helped to demote Marriner S. Eccles from chairman of the Federal Reserve Board as a favor to the West Coast Giannini banking interests.

Snyder's denial came asChairman Charles W. Tobey (R., N. H. of the Senate Banking Committee charged that "collateral evidence" indicated the Gianninis were angered because Eccles had favored a Tober-authored bank holding company bill. The Tober measure would divorce banks from non-banking subsidiaries, and would prohibit one bank from holding more than 15 per cent of the stock of more than two other banks.

The Senate committee yesterday ended its consideration of the nomination of Thomas B. McCabe, Philadelphia industrialist and banker, to succeed Eccles as Federal Reserve Board chairman. Eccles, if McCabe is confirmed, will become assistant chairman.

Snyder refused to tell Tobey if the Gianninis had offered him a job in their banking chain.

"I have no intention of discussing what I have been offered by any one," he snapped at Tobey. He then added that "whoever offered me a job . . . would have no bearing on my decisions as Secretary of the Treasury."

"I am working for the Government and have no intention of leaving," Snyder told Tobey.

The Secretary also denied that he had had a private conference with one of the Gianninis in a hotel room in Florida.

Later McCabe also testified that he had no objection to the holding company bill. He said a study of it had convinced him that "the broad principles of regulating bank holding companies, especially those whose expansion programs are inconsistent with principles of adequate and sound banking," were "desirable."

Court Ponders Amplified Free Speech

By Dillard Stokes
Post Reporter

Free speech for loud speakers . . . ?

The law is plain that every man of us has a right to his soap box. The Constitution says so. But has he a right to add iron lungs to his own? To put his message across wtih microphones, radio gimmicks and amplifiers?

This doctrine so far has been just a horrid theory, for youngsters to bat around in law school. But yesterday, it came up in the Supreme Court. Pretty soon it may take its place among the marvels of the modern age, along with sky writing, two-toned auto horns and bonga bonga idawanna leevthconga.

Appeals Conviction

Samuel Saia, a Buffalo city employe and a Jehovah's Witnesses minister in his spare time, set up a loud speaker in Outwater Park, in Lockport, N. Y., in 1946. He found nothing funny about being fined and jailed, for a Lockwood law against using loud speakers in a public place without a permit from the police chief. He appealed.

Attorney Hayden C. Covington told the justices yesterday that the city violated a basic right when it passed its law. The right to speak, said Covington, carries with it the right to be heard. And for that a man needs a loud speaker these days.

How About Roosevelt?

Where would President Roosevelt have been the time he spoke to 110,000 people in Chicago, asked Covington, if Chicago had had the Lockwood law and the police would not give Mr. Roosevelt a permit?

As a preacher, said Covington, Saia had a duty to preach in the parks which, he noted, were often forums of Hhrist and His apostles. As a practical man he used his loud speaker at the four meetings for which he was arrested.

From 20 cases on free speech, Covington argued that no city has a right to forbid the use of such devices.

Justice Murphy asked whether there was any case when Saia was denied a permit and others got one. Oh yes, said Covington, once the Lutherans used a big loud speaker six or seven hundred feed away.

Might Tone It Down

Chief Justice Vinson asked if Covington claimed a city could not stop the use of loud speakers in a park, if there were hospitals on all four sides. Covington said it could not, but that it might regulate the loudness.

Justice Jackson asked why Covington excepted the hospitals. The people there, he said, probably need their religion in a hurry.

The justices probably will give their ideas on the subject in a few weeks.

Pay Hikes Approved For Academy Workers

Maintenance meployes of the Annapolis Naval Academy would receive pay hikes under a $114,000 appropriation approved yesterday by the House Appropriations Committee.

Of the total, $37,000 would cover increases in pay authorized by the Secretary of the Navy for per diem employes. The remainder, $77,000, is required to meet increased costs of fuel oil for the Academy's power plant from February 1 to June 30, 1948.

The amount for pay increases would cover the period February 1, 1948, to June 30, 1948. They were effective December 1, 1947. Academy officers testified that hikes in the cost of supplies and materials made it impossible to absorb the total pay increase for the full period.

Postgraduate Navy School Fund Is Voted

By The Associated Press

The House Appropriations Committee yesterday approved $2,500,000 for the purchase of the Del Monte Hotel, Monterey, Calif., for a naval postgraduate school.

Purchase was authorized by Congress last year, but funds have not been made available.

The committee recommended the full amount in the first deficiency appropriation bill sent to the House today. It provides for the Navy to use money already on hand.

Capt. H. A. Spanagel, director of Navy postgraduate training, said the Navy already has assigned 400 student officers to the Monterey school. Capacity is 500.

Included in the $2,500,000 approved by the committee is $135,000 for preliminary plans for academic buildings, laboratories and housing at Del Monte to increase capacity to 2600 officers.

Captain Spanagel told the committee the large permanent school will cost an additional 26 million dollars. It will consolidate all naval postgraduate training now being conducted at Annapolis, Newport, R. I., and elsewhere.

He said the Navy does not expect to request funds for construction of the consolidated school at Del Monte until next year.

"That," he said, "would permit us to move out there and consolidate during the summer of 1951."

Army Would Give Up Fort Monroe Tax Right

By The Associated Press

The Army favors repeal of a 54-year-old law taxing nonmilitary users of Fort Monroe, Va., Senator Robertson (D., Va.), said yesterday.

The Army says it indorses a bill by Robertson to eliminate Army authority to levy taxes for street and sewer maintenance.

The bill is expected to be considered by the Senate Armed Services Committee an an early session.

Under the 1894 law, the Army has assessed taxicab drivers, Hotel Chamberlain, and others. No other military reservation has this custom.

Total Preparedness Beats Aid, Stokes Says

Roanoke, Va., March 30 (AP).—The United States should rely upon total military preparedness rather than upon economic aid to Europe to counteract Communist aggression, John W. Stokes, New York tax consultant, said today at a meeting of the Automotive Trade Association of Virginia at Hotel Roanoke.

"We are planning to spend money in Europe under the Marshall Plan on the theory that if we do so, we will keep communism from spreading. At the same time universal military training is being advocated for the same reason."

The Gallup Poll

Dutch Favor Marshall Plan But Some Question Motives

By George Gallup
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J., March 30—Except for members of the Communist Party, the majority of the people of Holland welcome the Marshall Plan. However, in Holland as in France, England and Italy a substantial number of people think the main American motive for the Marshall Plan is to create markets and stave off a depression.

This fact, revealed in surveys by Gallup Poll affiliates overseas, brings out a marked contrast between opinion here in the United States and opinion abroad.

Here in the United States only a very small percentage of voters—fewer than 1 in 10—think there will be a depression within a year. But in Holland, France, England and Italy a very much larger proportion—ranging from about one fifth to more than one third—seem to feel that a business crisis is close enough at hand in the United States to make us want to adopt the European Recovery Plan as an economic "shot in the arm." It is quite evident that the American people and the people in Europe have a different set of impressions about the American economy.

The Dutch poll was conducted by the Nederlandsch Institute voor de Publieke Opinie, one of the 12 members of the International Association of Public Opinion Institutes. The Dutch poll found that nearly 9 out of every 10 voters in Holland have heard about the Marshall Plan and these were asked:

Do you think our country should cooperate in the plan or not?

The vote:

Yes, cooperate	89%
No, do not	9
No opinion	32

When asked to give reasons for their opinion, those in favor said that ERP is a economic necessity for Netherlands recovery, and that it will bolster the forces opposed to communism. Dutch voters against ERP said that it will make Holland too dependent on the United States.

When opinion was analyzed by political parties, it was found that the members of all Dutch parties except the Communists are in favor of ERP by majorities ranging from 58 to 88 per cent. The Communist vote is only 8 per cent in favor, 75 per cent opposed and 17 per cent no opinion.

The next question asked:

Why do you think the United States wants to give us the Marshall Plan help?

The principal replies were:

U. S. wants markets, needs to stave off depression	38%
To stop communism, Russia	15
To help Europe	10
To get more power, imperialism	7
Miscellaneous and no opinion	30

Naval Employe Accidentally Killed by Shell

Accidental explosion of a 6-inch shell at the Navy proving grounds, Dahlgren, Va., yesterday killed George W. Inscoe, jr., 35, of Shiloh, Va., a civilian employe.

According to the Navy, the accident occurred as Inscoe was inserting a dummy nose plug in the shell in the "shell house" where live shells are housed.

Injured in the blast was another worker, Robert O. Cox, 39, of King George, Va., who suffered a broken ear drum.

Three other employes in another room, closed off by a safety door, escaped injury.

Inscoe is survived by his widow, Mrs. Lela White Inscoe, and two daughters, 4 years and 19 months old.

Seaman Starts Sentence For Murder of Girl

Baltimore, March 30 (AP).—An 18-year-old seaman today began serving sentence of not more than 18 years for the shooting of Vivien Crowe, 21, who lived with a bullet in her skull for 114 days.

The seaman, Herbert de Boissiere of New York City, was convicted yesterday of second-degree murder by Judge Edwin Dickerson. He was sentenced to the State Reformatory.

Miss Crowe was shot last September 14 while sitting in a downtown restaurant with some friends. She died two days after Christmas.

It was testified that the couple were engaged and that Miss Crowe broke the engagement a few hours before the shooting.

Two More Announce In City Council Race

Waynesboro, Va., March 30.—Two more candidates, Paul William Freed and Harper Aldine Brower, have announced in the city council election on June 8, bringing the total to nine.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE United States for the District of Columbia, in re: condemnation for the widening of Canal Road between 37th Street and Foxhall Road, and for land in excess thereof, all in the northwest section of the District of Columbia. District Court No. 3156. Notice and order of publication. Notice is hereby given that the Commissioners of the District of Columbia (pursuant to a certain provision of the Act of Congress approved March 4, 1913, entitled "An Act making appropriations for the expenses of the government of the District of Columbia for the fiscal year ending June thirtieth, nineteen hundred and fourteen, and for other purposes," whereby they are authorized to open, extend or widen any street, avenue, road or highway to conform with the plan of the permanent system of highways in that portion of the District of Columbia outside of the cities of Washington and Georgetown adopted under the Act of Congress approved March 2, 1893, as amended by the Acts of Congress approved June 28, 1898 and May 28, 1926, respectively, by condemnation under the provisions of subchapter one of Chapter XV of the Code of Law for the District of Columbia and pursuant to the provisions of the Act of Congress approved April 11, 1935, entitled "An act to provide for the acquisition of land in the District of Columbia in excess of that required for public projects and improvements, and for other purposes"), have filed a petition in this Court praying the condemnation of the land necessary for the widening of Canal Road between 37th Street and Foxhall Road, and for land in excess thereof, as shown on a map or plat filed with the said petition, as a part thereof and praying also that this Court empanel a jury in accordance with the law provided for in such cases to assess the damages each owner of land to be taken may sustain by reason of the widening of Canal Road between 37th Street and Foxhall Road, and for land in excess thereof, and to assess the benefits resulting therefrom, plus all or any part of the costs and expenses of said proceedings upon any lands which the jury may find will be benefited, as provided for in and by the aforesaid Act of Congress approved May 28, 1926. It is by the Court this 25th day of March, 1948. Ordered: That all persons having any interest in these proceedings be and they are hereby warned and commanded to appear in this Court on or before the 23d day of April, 1948 at 10 o'clock, a. m., and continue in attendance until the Court shall have made its final order ratifying and confirming the award of damages and the assessment of benefits of the jury to be empaneled and sworn herein; and it is further ordered: That a copy of this notice and order be published twice a week for two successive weeks in the Washington Evening Star, The Washington Post and the Washington Times-Herald, newspapers published in the said District, commencing at least twenty days before the said 23d day of April, 1948. It is further ordered: That a copy of this notice and order be served by the United States Marshal, or his deputies, upon such of the owners of the fee of the land to be condemned herein as may be found by the said Marshal or his deputies within the District of Columbia, and upon the tenants and occupants of the same, before the said 23d day of April, 1948. MARY WORTH

I'LL BE RESTLESS IN WASHINGTON, ELISSA--WITHOUT MY JOB!
IF I KNOW YOU, MRS. WORTH, WITHIN ONE WEEK YOU'LL BE ADVISING CONGRESS ON HOW TO BALANCE A BUDGET, DIRECTING SPRING CLEANING AT THE WHITE HOUSE, AND PLAYING A DUET ARRANGEMENT OF THE MISSOURI WALTZ" WITH THE CITY'S LEADING PIANIST!
I WONDER WHAT'S HAPPENED TO LEONA BLACKSTON? FOR A WOMAN WHO HAS CLIMBED BESIDE HER HUSBAND FROM A COUNTY PROSECUTOR'S OFFICE TO THE GOVERNOR'S MANSION--AND FROM THERE TO A SEAT IN THE SENATE...SHE SOUNDED STRANGELY BEWILDERED...AND BEATEN...!
MEANWHILE IN THE BLACKSTON HOME
MADAME SPEAKS OF TWO EXTRA LADIES FOR DINNER TONIGHT?--MAY THIS MOST INCOMPETENT OF SERVANTS INQUIRE AS TO THEIR LIKES?
I DON'T KNOW, WING--ONE IS MUCH OLDER THAN I--THE OTHER IS...MUCH YOUNGER--!

WHEW--ALL I KIN SAY IS WHEW--...SAY HOW ABOUT YER HAND?
DOC DOESN'T THINK IT'S A BAD BREAK. I KNEW I HAD TO TELL YOU THE STORY OF THE FIGHT FIRST...NOW TELL US WHAT HAPPENED TO YOU?
YES...YOU HAD ME SO WORRIED I COULDN'T FIGHT THOSE FIRST COUPLE OF ROUNDS...
AND ONLY FOUGHT ON INSTINCT...IF I HADN'T BEEN HURT I'D PROBABLY HAVE LOST...GO ON, KNOBBY.
WELL...I GO T'TH' ADDRESS T'SEE JUDY FOWLER...
AN' IT'S DARK IN TH' LOBBY...I'M LOOKIN' FER TH' APARTMUNT NUMBER WHEN ALL OF A SUDDEN...
HERE'S MISS FOWLER, BOYS...

BARNABY

Your uncle Ralph is one advertising man who need have no worries about his sponsor liking a radio show . . . I intend to write it entirely myself!
Gosh.
Yes. He's lucky, isn't he, Barnaby? Having so talented a sponsor. And--
Who's going to be in the show, Mr. O'Malley?

WAS THE MAYOR SURPRISED WHEN YOU TOLD HIM THAT YOU'RE GONNA RUN FOR THE SENATE?
NO! THE RESPONSE TO MY SPEECH HAS BEEN SO GREAT THAT IF I DIDN'T RUN, I'D PROBABLY BE DRAFTED!
IT WAS CERTAINLY A GREAT SPEECH, PHIL! I ADMIT I WAS AMAZED!
WELL, I GAVE IT GREAT THOUGHT, O'HAGAN! I KNEW THE VIEWS I WAS GOIN' TO EXPRESS WOULD BE HEARD IN MILLIONS OF HOMES!
PHIL! NOW THAT ALL THE BOYS HAVE GONE HOME, I'D LIKE YOU TO TELL ME JUST ONE THING!
WHAT ONE THING?
WHO WROTE THAT SPEECH FOR YOU?
TODAY'S SPECIAL

WELL? WHAT DID THE DOC SAY? AM I ALL RIGHT? WHAT WAS MY TEMPERATURE?
SHHH! JUST LIE DOWN! OF COURSE YOU'RE ALL RIGHT!
WELL, IF I'M SO WELL, HOW COME I FEEL SO SICK?
OH, SILLY-ALL YOU HAVE IS A COLD!
A COLD, HE SAYS! PHOOEY! I'M A SICK MAN! WHY DON'T WE GET A GOOD DOCTOR INSTEAD OF A VETERINARIAN?
WELL, WHEN HE COMES TOMORROW MAYBE THE DOC WILL BRING A LEASH TO KEEP THE "SICK" MAN IN BED!!

OH, I HAVE NOTHING PLANNED YET--BUT THEY WERE HAVING A SALE ON LUGGAGE AT "SHAMBLES"--
WELL, IF YOU'RE NOT GOING ANYWHERE, WHAT'S THE IDEA OF SPENDING ALL THIS DOUGH ON BAGS?!!
OH, DON'T BE AN OLD FUDDY, HORACE--- EVERY WOMAN WANTS TO OWN A SET OF FINE LUGGAGE!!

THE DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

Traffic Director Explains Light at 14th and F

Dot Prince of 1723 P st. nw. voices a question which also has puzzled me. She says:

"That new light at 14th and F sts. nw. is fine except for one thing.

"But what in the world am I supposed to do when I see that vertical green line on the bottom?"

Traffic Director George Keneipp suggests that you ignore it, Dot. He says that it has no practical purpose, and he has advised the manufacturer of the light to that effect.

The light is there "on trial," and the District is trying it out and making suggestions to the manufacturer before committing itself.

Incidentally, I hear that another light will soon be added to the 14th and F intersection for the benefit of southbound pedestrians.

As pointed out in this space ages ago, folks on the east side of 14th st. can't ever see a light which assures them that it's okay to cross F st.

"We know—we know. But Congress has to okay the money for these things before we can buy them."

PERSONAL NOTES

Edward E. Nichols, jr., Purcellville, Va.: The extra digit in New York City phone numbers is necessitated by the huge number of telephones served by each exchange. But wherever possible, telephone companies try to limit the amount of remembering that subscribers must do.

BRIDGE PROBLEM

"There's a round gauge in the middle of the upstream side of the Highway Bridge," writes R. Wachter of 2106 S. Eads st., Arlington, Va. "Can you tell me what it's for?"

I can't, but The Washington Post's library knows everything.

Our librarians say that this is a "clearance gauge" which shows the ever-changing amount of clearance between the top of the water and the bottom of the bridge.

GIVE-AWAYS

"Black, female cocker spaniel, 1½ years old. Well trained, housebroken." (Lincoln 8407).

"Black and white male puppy, part fox terrier, 6 months old." (Randolph 2453).

PAPER PLATES ON COUNTER 5, MADAM

Mrs. E. P. Jinkins of 2817 N. 23d st., Arlington, Va., was looking at some pottery cups and saucers in the five-and-dime the other day when a fellow shopper remarked:

Mrs. Jinkins allowed as how they were, and politely resumed her perusal of the crockery. Undaunted, the other woman continued the conversation.

"Little fellow?"

"Oh, gracious no! He's 25 years old. He throws 'em. Whenever he doesn't like something, he just fires his plate at the wall. He throws anything that's handy."

"He does? Goodness!"

"Yes, but I guess he comes by it honest enough. Whenever I get mad I throw things, too. Gee—we break so many dishes at our house."

Somehow mustering a mirthless smile of sympathy, Mrs. Jinkins quietly retired from the crockery department and continued her shopping amid softer merchandise.

MISCELLANY

Roberta Wadley of 3215 N. Albemarle st., Arlington, Va., is baffled by those toothbrush displays which offer: "Hard Adults," "Soft Adults," and "Medium Adults". . . . Washington Archbishop Patrick A. O'Boyle will be greeted by the Fordham University Club at a dinner at the Mayflower on April 6. (Get your tickets at Suite 705, 1025 Connecticut ave. nw.) . . . N. L. Seykin of 2001 Fairlawn ave. se. says that Quartermaster General Larkin and Movie Star Randolph Scott are "look alikes" . . . Local hackers are taking up a testimonial collection for former Lieut. Joseph Harrington who, before his retirement as Hack Inspector was the man charged with punishing cabbies for infractions of the rules. That's a real testimonial to a grand guy. . . . John E. Reese, son of Mr. and Mrs. Seth T. Reese of Berwyn, Md., has made the Dean's List at Duke University for his fine scholastic average during the past semester. Making the Dean's List entitles the lucky student to six absences from each class during the coming term, instead of the usual three. But it's a hollow victory. People who make the Dean's List aren't the hookey-playing type.

MIRAGE

Little dabs of powder,
Little daubs of paint,
Make a homely girlie
Look like what she ain't.

Leonard Lyons . . .

NEW YORK—One of the profiles of which the New Yorker magazine is particularly proud was on the Reader's Digest. Although Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Wallace, who run the Digest, refused to be interviewed and although no New Yorker researcher was permitted to enter the Digest's plant, enough material was obtained to make a readable series . . . Some time ago the New Yorker decided to publish a profile on a man who, like the Wallaces, proved inaccessible. The profile-writer and his aides decided to proceed in exactly the same way—talking to people who had met and had business dealings with the subject, digging thoroughly into his background, etc. The project was abandoned because nothing new, nothing which already had not been printed about him, could be unearthed about Josef Stalin.

This week labor leaders throughout the country will start announcing their support of Eisenhower for the Democratic nomination. Phil Murray, head of the CIO, was considering the move yesterday . . . One of Winston Churchill's New York friends, positive that the former Prime Minister will be returned to power, sent a letter to him addressed to No. 10 Downing st., and marked it "Hold for Arrival" . . . During his visits to the Burning Tree Golf Club in Washington, the President does not play golf but walks around the course with some players. He makes 50-cent bets on which player will be the first to land on the green.

The Ballet Russe is negotiating to bring Leonide Massine back from London to revive his best-known ballets here . . . The James Masons have headed West. They'll descend on Hollywood in stages—first with a two-week stopover in Phoenix, Ariz. . . . General Motors assigned Hans Knopf to take a series of pictures of a minister in his pulpit in a small church in Minnesota. It was so cold that night that the minister said he couldn't promise many poses, because his hands were freezing. Knopf got the series of photos by unscrewing the hot flash bulbs after each shot and handing them to the minister for warmth.

Navajos Own Uranium Treasure

By Drew Pearson

It now looks as if the poverty-stricken Navajo Indians, trying to scratch a precarious living from the wastelands of Arizona and New Mexico, may own one of the most priceless pieces of property in the United States.

PEARSON

For some time our chief worry in the production of atomic energy was the fact that all uranium deposits lay outside the United States. However, it now appears that the Navajos have been tending their pitiful flocks above a hidden atomic treasure. For, upon the Navajo reservation in the upper corner of Arizona and New Mexico, the Vanadium Corp. of America has been quietly extracting uranium.

Further details regarding this operation must remain a military secret. However, one amazing fact can be revealed. So far, the Navajos haven't received one penny for the uranium taken from their land. Instead, the profits have been raked in by the Vanadium Corp.

The price which the Atomic Energy Commission is paying the Vanadium Corp. for uranium is also secret, but a member of the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy predicted that the metal may become almost as precious as diamonds. Since the richest deposits are all outside the United States and could be cut off in case of war, this domestic supply becomes all the more valuable.

But the Navajos, sitting on one of nature's jackpots, so far haven't been able to collect a cent. Reason for this again is largely obscured by secrecy, and only part of the story can be told within the limits of national security.

For one thing, uranium does not exist in its pure form on the reservation but must be extracted as a by-product from vanadium. The only leases to dig for vanadium on Navajo territory—six in all—are held by the Vanadium Corp. These leases specify that the Indians will be paid 10 per cent royalty on all mineral compounds—except vanadium compounds. In the latter case, the royalty is stipulated as 10 per cent of the vanadium oxide, a metal used to toughen steel. Since uranium is part of the raw vanadium ore until processed, the company conceivably might get away with paying royalty only on the comparatively valueless vanadium oxide, not on the other raw vanadium out of which uranium comes.

However, the Indian Service takes the view that uranium is a separate metal apart from vanadium, therefore is subject to the full 10 per cent royalty fee. But the amount of uranium taken from the reservation is unknown to the Indian Service which hasn't any record of a single royalty payment to the Navajos for uranium. Yet the Vanadium Corp. is known to have been extracting it for several years.

The Vanadium Corp. declined all comment on the grounds that its uranium project is top secret. But the Atomic Energy Commission informed this columnist that on the amount of royalty payments no secrecy is involved.

MacArthur's Censorship

When Harry Truman was chairman of the Senate War Investigating Committee he came near blasting one piece of wartime censorship. If he had, it would have cast a somewhat different light on one of his present political opponents—Douglas MacArthur. But he didn't.

Wartime censorship sometimes operated in a peculiar manner. The manner in which United States planes were caught napping and burned on the ground at Pearl Harbor was known to the world and the military commanders responsible were severely reprimanded. But the manner in which General MacArthur's bombers were also caught napping at Manila and burned on the ground was censored.

Three hundred planes, sent to Manila at great sacrifice to United States Air Forces in other areas, were lost as a result.

The Truman committee, discovering this fact, devoted two paragraphs to it in a quarterly report dated March 4, 1944. The copies of the report were in type and circulated confidentially to committee members, when three Senators—Hatch of New Mexico and Connally of Texas, Democrats; with Ball of Minnesota, Republican—objected. Truman yielded to their objection and withdrew the criticism of MacArthur.

The two censored paragraphs read:

"Censorship is an insult to the patriotism and intelligence of the American people. In the past, it has led to many unwise acts, such as the concealing of facts known to the enemy, and even the dissemination of distorted information. For example, the Japanese knew perfectly well the destruction they had wreaked upon our airplanes in the Philippines, but for two years the War Department requested that it be kept secret from the public that 300 planes were destroyed on Philippine airfields a number of hours after the attack on Pearl Harbor was known.

"The loss was only recently made public, and there is at least a suspicion that part of the reason for requesting the committee to consider the information 'secret' was the desire to avoid resentment by the public of the loss of 300 planes which would have been so valuable to the defense of the Philippines."

End of March

The month of March is over now . . . And April will be here . . . To help us usher in again . . . The springtime of the year . . . To introduce a warmer wind . . . With raindrops here and there . . . And sing a song of happiness . . . For all the flowers fair . . . When March is gone and April comes . . . The grasses seem more green . . . And youthful hearts are eloquent . . . In what they say they mean . . . The sun is so much brighter and . . . The silver stars above . . . Become more active every night . . . As messengers of love . . . It is the springtime of the year . . . When March is put away . . . And lovely April listens to . . . The words that lovers say.
